Herter Flies To Paris For Unity Parley

Allies Seek Solid Front For Geneva Talks With Soviet

PARIS (AP) — Taking up his first foreign assignment as U. S. secretary of state, Christian A. Herter arrives in Paris Tuesday to help shore up weak points in the Western front for Geneva talks with the Soviet Union.

Herter will begin formal talks with his French, British and West German counterparts Wednesday in the French Foreign Ministry.

Diplomatic sources said these talks scheduled to last three days, will be under three general headings: Berlin, German reunification, European security.

American and French sources professed optimism for a solid Western position before the East-West foreign ministers talks open in Geneva May 11.

A top French diplomat said: "We have found the basis for a general agreement." A highly informed American source said: "I'd be surprised if we didn't have it wrapped up beautifully before Geneva."

Secret Recommendations

The four Western ministers will work on secret recommendations drawn up by their experts in meetings which ended in London last Friday. They will also have suggestions of their North Atlantic Alliance allies who studied the experts' dossiers in Paris Monday.

In addition, they may have a fresh presentation of the Soviet position from the Warsaw Pact foreign ministers session, which just opened in the Polish capital.

A surprise development came from Warsaw in a communique item noting that Red China's Dep. Foreign minister Chang Wen-tien sat in as a full participant. His government is not a member of the pact.

Delegate, Not Observer

It was announced earlier that Chang, formerly Peiping's ambassador to Moscow, would attend as an observer. His assignment to delegate ranking might be aimed to show that European Communists want to give Red China full recognition in world policy.

He attended along with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and foreign ministers or deputies of the other pact powers—Poland, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Albania.

Allied sources in Paris insisted that there is no real clash among the Western partners on the broad outlines of a package plan to be handed to the Soviets at Geneva.

Businessmen Have Key Cold War Role, President Declares

Eisenhower Calls For Combined Aid And Trade Effort

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower told businessmen Monday they hold a front line position in the cold war.

Speaking to a cross-section of American business leaders, Eisenhower appealed for a combined trade and aid effort. He said it is vital in keeping uncommitted nations out of the Soviet camp and in maintaining the economic strength of the free world.

Eisenhower stressed these points in a talk to more than 4,000 businessmen and their guests at the opening of the 47th annual meeting of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

The President, and Secretary of Commerce Lewis L. Strauss in a separate talk, bore down on the importance of keeping this country's economy strong so it can withstand the Communist challenge around the globe.

Must Meet Challenge

"As long as the Communists pursue their basic goal on broad and diverse fronts," Eisenhower said, "we have no choice but to meet their challenge wherever and however it is presented."

In backing his $3,900,000,000 foreign aid program, the President declared that "the interests of the free world are the interests of America." He said isolation would be a "futile and fatal policy" for the United States.

Eisenhower told the businessmen they can do their bit in the cold war by promoting private investment abroad and by helping marshal public opinion at home.

Trade with less-advanced nations must be fostered to help them stay free, Eisenhower said.

Every time a nation in the uncommitted group falls into the Communist orbit, the President said, the strength of the free world ebbs and that of the Communist world rises.

Reds Try To Grab Markets

"If this were to continue, the result would be catastrophic," Eisenhower said.

In sketching the way the Communists are pushing their economic drive, Strauss said they are using low-interest loans and dumping aluminum, tin, cotton and other commodities at below-cost prices. The idea: To grab away overseas markets of Western powers.

A further danger, he said, are huge numbers of spies and provocateurs penetrating some nations in the guise of technicians.

Liu Replaces Mao In China Presidency

Strengthens Status As Heir Apparent To Top Party Post

TOKYO (AP)—Liu Shao-chi, 61, a Moscow-trained theorist with a reputation for getting things done, became president of Red China Monday.

In succeeding to one of Mao Tze-tung's old jobs for a four-year term, the tall, white-haired son of a peasant family strengthened his status as heir apparent to the Chinese Communist party leadership that Mao, 65, retains in the Peiping hierarchy. Peiping radio hailed Liu as "a leader second only to Mao Tze-tung."

Chou En-lai, premier for 10 years, retained his job.

Red China's Parliament, the National People's Congress, elected Liu to the presidency, which Mao relinquishes to concentrate on his duties as party head. There was no other candidate.

The 1,157-member Parliament approved Liu's nomination by the party's high command for chairman—or president—of the government of China's 650 million people by a unanimous vote. Peiping radio described Parliament's applause as thunderous.

Chu Replaces Liu

An indication that the high command itself had not been so single-minded in the nominating session earlier this month came from Peiping radio. Implying there was some opposition to elevation of Mao's coldly efficient aide, it said cryptically that Liu "had the support of a large segment of party members." There long has been speculation in the West that Chou and Liu are rivals for Mao's mantle.

Vice President Marshal Chu Teh, 72, a crony of Mao and former warlord of Yunnan province, who had been considered well in the running, was moved instead into Liu's old job as chairman of the Parliament's standing committee. In this post he will consult with Liu and Mao on matters of government policy.

Two new vice presidents were chosen to handle the work the old marshal had carried on alone. They are Mme. Sun Yat-sen, 69, widow of the founder of republican China, and Tung Pi-wu, 73, an old friend of Mao who has been president of the Supreme People's Court.

Dalai Lama Elected Deputy

Tung was replaced in the court presidency by Hsieh Chu-tsai, who has been interior minister and an alternate member of the Communist party Central Committee.

Chief prosecutor Chang Ting-cheng was re-elected.

In the reorganization, 62 deputies were elected to serve under Chu in Parliament's standing committee. Sixteen persons were named as vice chairmen, including Tibet's self-exiled Dalai Lama and the puppet Panchen Lama, his successor on the throne in Lhasa, Tibet.

Both the refugee god-king Dalai Lama and the Panchen Lama are on Parliament's roll as deputies from rebellious Tibet. Despite the Dalai Lama's statements in India that he fled voluntarily, the Peiping regime evidently hopes to get him back eventually as head of a collaborating government.

Don't Let This Happen!

Insurgents Clash With Patrol Boats

Central American Nation To Get U.S. Arms Shipment

PANAMA (UPI)—A rebel invading force from Cuba has captured a small coastal village after exchanging fire with two national guard landing barges, the government announced Monday night.

The announcement came after the United States issued a statement that it had authorized an arms shipment to Panama to help fight off the invasion.

A communique said the invaders took control of the village of Nombre de Dios, about 75 miles from Colon. Some of the revolutionaries were said to have been wounded and the government said that three rebels were captured earlier.

The remainder of the estimated 80 men and one woman headed toward Colon, Caribbean gateway to the U.S.-operated Panama Canal.

A government statement said that fire was seen aboard the barges, which patrol the Panama coastline. The national guard is Panama's only military force.

Allegedly Sailed From Cuba

The clash was announced after the government of President Ernesto de la Guardia Jr. charged that "lawless foreigners" had invaded Panama from Cuba. The government said that all the rebels had pledged support to Roberto E. Arias, revolutionary leader who is the husband of British ballerina Dame Margot Fonteyn.

Arias took diplomatic asylum in the Brazilian Embassy here last Friday.

A government communique Monday night said the barges were patrolling the coastal waters to prevent the invaders from escaping by sea. It added that national guard troops were "maintaining complete vigilance on land."

News from the village of Nombre de Dios was curtailed by the fact that the central telephone exchange here reported that the line to the village was "out of order."

The phone system is owned and operated by the Panamanian government. Nombre de Dios is a village of about 500 inhabitants engaged mainly in fishing and growing cocoanuts.

Land In Desolate Area

The invasion force landed Saturday on a desolate jungle-bordered beach in the San Blas Peninsula area. To reach Nombre de Dios, the revolutionaries had to cover 25 miles, much of it difficult terrain.

The government said the invaders had arrived to meddle in Panama's internal affairs and bring "blood and death" to its soil.

The Justice Department sent a plane over the Nombre de Dios area to drop leaflets signed by Cuban Charge d'Affaires Ricardo Riano Jauman. Riano, who offered to act as an intermediary in an attempt to arrange a surrender, urged the invaders to meet with him for a conference. He asked them to contact him by telephone.

G-Men Hunting For Lynch Mob Quiz Students

POPLARVILLE, Miss. (AP) — FBI agents questioned several junior college students Monday in the lynch-mob abduction from jail of Mack Charles Parker.

The students questioned were from Pearl River Junior College, about five blocks from the jail where Parker, 23, a Negro truck driver, was held on a charge of raping a pregnant white woman.

A dance was being held at the college Friday night and early Saturday, when eight or 10 hooded men broke into the jail and brutally beat and kidnaped Parker.

In other developments, Sheriff W. O. Moody expressed condolences to the Parker family for the abduction; two dozen more FBI agents arrived and had to find lodgings in Bogalusa, La., 21 miles away, and the judge originally scheduled to try Parker bitterly condemned the lynch mob.

FBI agents questioned two or three people at Bogalusa, former home of the rape victim, but declined to reveal the extent of their probe there. Saturday, agents went to Bogalusa on the premise the kidnapers may have taken Parker out of the state.

Judge Sebe Dale—fearing legislative penalties—condemned the lynch mob that dragged away Parker.

Dale postponed indefinitely the trial of Parker in the sparsely peopled Pearl River County courtroom.

"The floodgates of hate and hell have been opened upon us," said Judge Dale. "The people (of Mississippi) have been sinned against. They do not deserve it."

With a rap of his gavel, Dale shut down the entire spring term of his court.

Bear Hunt For Hats

TIMMONS, Ont. (AP) — Mayor Leo Del Villano has announced the first weekend hunt for bears to provide skins for the hats of Buckingham Palace guards will be held May 16, and that they will continue on weekends until June 15. The mayor started organizing the hunts after reports from London said the guards' hats are moth-eaten.

Postman, Dog Fight To Draw

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Mailman Albert L. Brown and a chow dog named Sox fought to another draw Monday.

Brown was delivering mail when Sox charged.

The letter carrier scrambled up a small tree—too smal', in fact, because he came tumbling down seconds later.

Sox, scenting victory, charged again and Brown unslung his mail pouch for defensive purposes.

Around the tree the old foes ran, Sox nipping but missing and the harassed Brown defending.

A neighbor saw the whirling twosome and called St. Louis County police, who responded by sending three squad cars with sirens wailing and red lights flashing.

Sox retreated—Brown stopped running.

Rescuers Toil To Free Hound

OWASSO, Okla. (AP) — Little Richard, a coon hound who got stuck doing what comes naturally, yelped and whined as rescue workers toiled Monday to prove man is a dog's best friend.

After four days and nights, Little Richard needed reassurance.

"He apparently is pretty well pooped," said Dick Weddle, a photographer for The Tulsa Tribune who visited the rugged scene some 20 miles from Tulsa. "But as far as I know he apparently isn't injured."

The 2½-year-old hunter became trapped in rocks Thursday night while chasing a raccoon.

His owner, Larry Wilson, has tried since Friday to free him. Two utility company crews have been helping and scores of curious onlookers have offered moral support.

But rescue workers have been able to get only within four feet of the whining pooch.

The scene of Little Richard's woe is a limestone bluff about 30 feet high, faced by a jutting array of huge rocks sooe six miles east of Owasso. The formation is interlaced with crevasses of varying sizes.

3 White Youths Held In Shooting Of 6 Negro Boys

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Police obtained warrants Monday against nine young white men they said were involved in the Sunday night shotgun blasting of six Negro boys.

Officers declined to release the names on any of the warrants until all nine were in custody. They said three had been apprehended but that the addresses of several others were unknown.

Two of the warrants charge felonious assault, juvenile division officers said. The other seven men—ranging in age from 17 to 21—are accused of being accessories before or after the shootings, they said.

The Negro boys told police they were returning home from a store shortly before 9:30 p.m. Sunday when two automobiles sped through the middle-class Negro residential area. Shots boomed and two of the youths fell, seriously wounded. The other four were less seriously hurt.

They added that the shootings were in retaliation to a white-Negro rock fight earlier in the evening.

Seriously injured when struck in the stomach by shotgun pellets were Samuel Clark Jr., 15, and Carlton Washington, 16. Their condition was reported by a hospital as fair.

The other four—Forrest Black, 15, Willy Dickerson, 17, Floyd Reynolds, 17, and Billy Mickleburg, 16—were less seriously injured.

Patrolman R. T. Millkin Jr, a speed car officer said that three times Sunday night he had stopped a convertible carrying several young white men. He said he could not find any evidence of driving offenses, but jotted down the auto license number for future reference.

When the word of the shootings came through, Millkin furnished the license number to headquarters. The auto was spotted parked at a drive-in restaurant and its operator was taken into custody as a material witness.

Two other youths were picked up later, police said, and one of these implicated the remaining six.

'Live' Civil War Shells Missing

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP) — Three dozen unexploded Civil War shells, excavated at Ft. Sumter, are missing in the Charleston area. Officials fear that children may be playing with the deadly ammunition, thinking it harmless.

W. L. Luckett, superintendent of the Ft. Sumter National Monument, situated on a small island in Charleston Harbor, said workmen dug up about 50 shells and left them in a pile Saturday, planning to store them in a safe place Monday.

Parents found their children playing with 14 of the shells on James Island Sunday. But the remainder are unaccounted for.

Killer's Plunge Injures Four

CINCINNATI (AP) — A man suddenly came plunging out of a fourth-floor apartment window in a shower of glass Monday and crashed to the sidewalk amid a column of school children.

The man, Leroy Stidham, 28, had fatally stabbed his estranged wife, Mary, 26, with an ice pick just before hurling himself through the closed window.

One of three Catholic nuns escorting the children to school from a nearby church and three of the youngsters were hurt, one seriously. Stidham also was injured seriously. He suffered a crushed foot, broken leg and back injuries.

Sister Rose Michael, 28, and Willie Schaffran, 6, apparently were struck by Stidham's falling body. The boy suffered serious back injuries. Two other youngsters—Albert Riegger, 8, and Ronald Stercz, 8 — were cut by falling glass.

The stabbing of Mrs. Stidham and her husband's leap climaxed a long domestic strife.

Even as the slaying occurred, Stidham was to have been in Police Court to answer to a charge of pointing firearms and carrying a concealed weapon. Mrs. Stidham's mother, Della Botkins, 56, was waiting in court to testify against him.

NBC Technician Strike Disrupts Some Programs

NEW YORK (AP)—Technicians struck the National Broadcasting Co. without warning Monday. Its radio and television networks were knocked out briefly before supervisory personnel got them back on the air.

The network called the strike unauthorized, and said it began in New York, then spread to other cities.

Except for the absence of a few scheduled programs over a three-hour period, network operations appeared normal to most listeners and viewers.

The dispute stemmed from a jurisdictional struggle over video taping—in this case a TV interview in France with Brigitte Bardot.

Various technicians' unions contend such taping of live shows for rebroadcast imperils their members' jobs—especially when the work is done abroad where they say wage scales are generally lower than in this country.

The striking National Assn. of Broadcast Employes and Technicians worked the network's first TV program of the day, "Continental Classroom," also on tape, from 6:30 to 7 a. m.

When Dave Garroway's "Today" show was scheduled to hit the home screens at 7 a.m. the union struck. The Bardot interview was taped in Paris last week for the show.

Engineering personnel of the NBC radio network, in a sympathy move, prevented several scheduled news programs from taking the air.

Supervisory employes had both networks back on the air by 10 a. m.

The union claimed that after engineering personnel struck NBC-TV in New York, other NABET members were locked out of NBC studios. Pickets at NBC headquarters in Rockefeller Center carried signs proclaiming "lockout."

NBC employs about 750 NABET members in New York.

However, NBC declared:

"They simply walked off their jobs. There was no lockout."

Dulles Getting Pain Killers

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Foster Dulles, ill with cancer, is no longer getting X-ray treatments. He is receiving pain killers.

The State Department made this report Monday on its former secretary of state, saying that the "X-ray treatment to Mr. Dulles' neck is now completed without significant improvement in the discomfort as yet."

Radiation treatments of the abdominal area, where Dulles suffered cancer in 1956 and again this year, were ended March 18.

Dulles began receiving a series of low voltage X rays in the lower part of the neck on April 14 after suffering pain which doctors said may have come from cancer in that area.

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, disclosed that the neck treatment with X rays ended last Friday.

White said he did not know of any further treatments planned for Dulles. He will continue in Walter Reed Army Hospital, where he has been most of the time since early February.

Two Of Five Escaped Convicts Still At Large

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The third of five prisoners who escaped from Kilby Prison Sunday night was picked up here late Monday after bloodhounds were put on his trail.

The highway patrol said Walter Tatum, 29, who was serving 20 years for grand larceny, was caught near a residential section in east Montgomery not far from the prison.

Two others were caught earlier Monday after a cat-and-mouse chase which lasted for more than an hour. They finally surrendered to a motorcycle officer.

Earl Phillips, 36, and Charles Sweeney, 26, stole a city waterworks truck, abandoned it a few minutes later, broke into a house and stole a car, then ran it into a ditch trying to get away from city patrolman C. E. Swindle.

Two other Kilby Prison inmates who sawed their way to freedom with them Sunday night remained at large.

Four of the men forced their way into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Williard M. Lloyd near the prison shortly after their escape. They fled in the Lloyd family car but abandoned it a short distance away.

The trail ran out there until Phillips and Sweeney overpowered a city waterworks employe, Henry Campbell, and drove off in his pickup truck. Phillips and Sweeney left the truck parked in the rear of the home of a state liquor enforcement agent, C. E. Ward, walked to the nearby home of Mrs. H. W. Sellers, and forced her to surrender her car keys.

They were captured on the outskirts of the city in a futile attempt to turn the car around when they saw the motorcycle officer approaching.

Planes Of 4 Nations Hunt British Aircraft

LONDON (AP)—Planes of four nations were reported Monday searching across vast mountainous areas close to the Soviet Union for a British plane mysteriously lost on a flight from Britain to Australia.

The plane has been missing for four days with a consignment of secret equipment it was taking to the Woomera Rocket Range in Australia. Twelve men were aboard.

The Air Ministry in London said U. S., Turkish, British and Iranian planes were engaged in the search.

Chances that the plane either crashed or was forced to land in Soviet territory had not been ruled out in London in spite of an official Soviet denial.

A-Test Ban Inspection Stand Eased By Russia

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union proposed Monday that the United States, Soviet Union and Britain agree on a limited number of inspections of suspicious disturbances to police a nuclear test ban.

This approach, apparently a tactical move, was made at the conference of the three atomic powers on a nuclear ban treaty.

The Soviet delegation listed Britain as a coauthor of the idea but both the British and U.S. delegations made it clear they are willing to explore it and are not in disagreement.

Soviet Delegate Semyon Tsarapkin presented it, in the name of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. Tsarapkin referred to the fact the British leader raised the idea during his talks in Moscow with Khruschev six weeks ago.

A Western source pointed out, however, Macmillan, had not advanced a specific plan to Khrushchev on limited inspection but merely suggested it was a subject worth studying.

Tsarapkin did not give a figure on the number of such inspections the Soviets would allow each year. But he indicated Moscow would allow checks on the sites of suspicious distrubances to be made without a veto.

Soviet insistence on a veto over inspection arrangements for a test ban have deadlocked the conference. The West has insisted that an inspection system is worthless unless it is foolproof and free from governmental interference.

Struck Mills Delay 3d Shift

HENDERSON, N.C. (UPI)—Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills on Monday night postponed for a week the start of a third shift in a move to prevent renewed violence in a six-months strike.

The mills management bowed to the urging of state officials and Mayor Carroll V. Singleton to delay the start of a third shift for which additional non-union workers were being hired. The additional shift was to have started operation Tuesday night.

Nearly 1,200 members of the Textile Workers union of America (AFL-CIO) have been on strike since last November. Violence has flared up frequently since the mills resumed partial operations with non-union employes in February.

An apparent settlement of the long, bitter dispute over an arbitration clause and seniority rights collapsed a week ago when the company disclosed it had filled all but 30 jobs on the second shift with non-union workers.

The TWUA has maintained that the company is seeking to break the union, and that the dispute is a fight-to-the-finish for textile unionism in the South. It has filed unfair labor practices charges against the company.

Around the tree the old foes ran, Sox nipping but missing and the harassed Brown defending.

A neighbor saw the whirling twosome and called St. Louis County police, who responded by sending three squad cars with sirens wailing and red lights flashing.

Sox retreated—Brown stopped running.

Strengthens Status As Heir Apparent To Top Party Post

TOKYO (AP)—Liu Shao-chi, 61, a Moscow-trained theorist with a reputation for getting things done, became president of Red China Monday.

In succeeding to one of Mao Tze-tung's old jobs for a four-year term, the tall, white-haired son of a peasant family strengthened his status as heir apparent to the Chinese Communist party leadership that Mao, 65, retains in the Peiping hierarchy. Peiping radio hailed Liu as "a leader second only to Mao Tze-tung."

Chou En-lai, premier for 10 years, retained his job.

Red China's Parliament, the National People's Congress, elected Liu to the presidency, which Mao relinquishes to concentrate on his duties as party head. There was no other candidate.

The 1,157-member Parliament approved Liu's nomination by the party's high command for chairman—or president—of the government of China's 650 million people by a unanimous vote. Peiping radio described Parliament's applause as thunderous.

Chu Replaces Liu

An indication that the high command itself had not been so single-minded in the nominating session earlier this month came from Peiping radio. Implying there was some opposition to elevation of Mao's coldly efficient aide, it said cryptically that Liu "had the support of a large segment of party members." There long has been speculation in the West that Chou and Liu are rivals for Mao's mantle.

Vice President Marshal Chu Teh, 72, a crony of Mao and former warlord of Yunnan province, who had been considered well in the running, was moved instead into Liu's old job as chairman of the Parliament's standing committee. In this post he will consult with Liu and Mao on matters of government policy.

Two new vice presidents were chosen to handle the work the old marshal had carried on alone. They are Mme. Sun Yat-sen, 69, widow of the founder of republican China, and Tung Pi-wu, 73, an old friend of Mao who has been president of the Supreme People's Court.

Dalai Lama Elected Deputy

Tung was replaced in the court presidency by Hsieh Chu-tsai, who has been interior minister and an alternate member of the Communist party Central Committee.

Chief prosecutor Chang Ting-cheng was re-elected.

In the reorganization, 62 deputies were elected to serve under Chu in Parliament's standing committee. Sixteen persons were named as vice chairmen, including Tibet's self-exiled Dalai Lama and the puppet Panchen Lama, his successor on the throne in Lhasa, Tibet.

Both the refugee god-king Dalai Lama and the Panchen Lama are on Parliament's roll as deputies from rebellious Tibet. Despite the Dalai Lama's statements in India that he fled voluntarily, the Peiping regime evidently hopes to get him back eventually as head of a collaborating government.

Rescuers Toil To Free Hound

OWASSO, Okla. (AP) — Little Richard, a coon hound who got stuck doing what comes naturally, yelped and whined as rescue workers toiled Monday to prove man is a dog's best friend.

After four days and nights, Little Richard needed reassurance.

"He apparently is pretty well pooped," said Dick Weddle, a photographer for The Tulsa Tribune who visited the rugged scene some 20 miles from Tulsa. "But as far as I know he apparently isn't injured."

The 2½-year-old hunter became trapped in rocks Thursday night while chasing a raccoon.

His owner, Larry Wilson, has tried since Friday to free him. Two utility company crews have been helping and scores of curious onlookers have offered moral support.

But rescue workers have been able to get only within four feet of the whining pooch.

The scene of Little Richard's woe is a limestone bluff about 30 feet high, faced by a jutting array of huge rocks sooe six miles east of Owasso. The formation is interlaced with crevasses of varying sizes.

3 White Youths Held In Shooting Of 6 Negro Boys

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Police obtained warrants Monday against nine young white men they said were involved in the Sunday night shotgun blasting of six Negro boys.

Officers declined to release the names on any of the warrants until all nine were in custody. They said three had been apprehended but that the addresses of several others were unknown.

Two of the warrants charge felonious assault, juvenile division officers said. The other seven men—ranging in age from 17 to 21—are accused of being accessories before or after the shootings, they said.

The Negro boys told police they were returning home from a store shortly before 9:30 p.m. Sunday when two automobiles sped through the middle-class Negro residential area. Shots boomed and two of the youths fell, seriously wounded. The other four were less seriously hurt.

They added that the shootings were in retaliation to a white-Negro rock fight earlier in the evening.

Seriously injured when struck in the stomach by shotgun pellets were Samuel Clark Jr., 15, and Carlton Washington, 16. Their condition was reported by a hospital as fair.

The other four—Forrest Black, 15, Willy Dickerson, 17, Floyd Reynolds, 17, and Billy Mickleburg, 16—were less seriously injured.

Patrolman R. T. Millkin Jr, a speed car officer said that three times Sunday night he had stopped a convertible carrying several young white men. He said he could not find any evidence of driving offenses, but jotted down the auto license number for future reference.

When the word of the shootings came through, Millkin furnished the license number to headquarters. The auto was spotted parked at a drive-in restaurant and its operator was taken into custody as a material witness.

Two other youths were picked up later, police said, and one of these implicated the remaining six.

Planes Of 4 Nations Hunt British Aircraft

LONDON (AP)—Planes of four nations were reported Monday searching across vast mountainous areas close to the Soviet Union for a British plane mysteriously lost on a flight from Britain to Australia.

The plane has been missing for four days with a consignment of secret equipment it was taking to the Woomera Rocket Range in Australia. Twelve men were aboard.

The Air Ministry in London said U. S., Turkish, British and Iranian planes were engaged in the search.

Chances that the plane either crashed or was forced to land in Soviet territory had not been ruled out in London in spite of an official Soviet denial.

'Live' Civil War Shells Missing

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP) — Three dozen unexploded Civil War shells, excavated at Ft. Sumter, are missing in the Charleston area. Officials fear that children may be playing with the deadly ammunition, thinking it harmless.

W. L. Luckett, superintendent of the Ft. Sumter National Monument, situated on a small island in Charleston Harbor, said workmen dug up about 50 shells and left them in a pile Saturday, planning to store them in a safe place Monday.

Parents found their children playing with 14 of the shells on James Island Sunday. But the remainder are unaccounted for.

Killer's Plunge Injures Four

CINCINNATI (AP) — A man suddenly came plunging out of a fourth-floor apartment window in a shower of glass Monday and crashed to the sidewalk amid a column of school children.

The man, Leroy Stidham, 28, had fatally stabbed his estranged wife, Mary, 26, with an ice pick just before hurling himself through the closed window.

One of three Catholic nuns escorting the children to school from a nearby church and three of the youngsters were hurt, one seriously. Stidham also was injured seriously. He suffered a crushed foot, broken leg and back injuries.

Sister Rose Michael, 28, and Willie Schaffran, 6, apparently were struck by Stidham's falling body. The boy suffered serious back injuries. Two other youngsters—Albert Riegger, 8, and Ronald Stercz, 8 — were cut by falling glass.

The stabbing of Mrs. Stidham and her husband's leap climaxed a long domestic strife.

Even as the slaying occurred, Stidham was to have been in Police Court to answer to a charge of pointing firearms and carrying a concealed weapon. Mrs. Stidham's mother, Della Botkins, 56, was waiting in court to testify against him.

NBC Technician Strike Disrupts Some Programs

NEW YORK (AP)—Technicians struck the National Broadcasting Co. without warning Monday. Its radio and television networks were knocked out briefly before supervisory personnel got them back on the air.

The network called the strike unauthorized, and said it began in New York, then spread to other cities.

Except for the absence of a few scheduled programs over a three-hour period, network operations appeared normal to most listeners and viewers.

The dispute stemmed from a jurisdictional struggle over video taping—in this case a TV interview in France with Brigitte Bardot.

Various technicians' unions contend such taping of live shows for rebroadcast imperils their members' jobs—especially when the work is done abroad where they say wage scales are generally lower than in this country.

The striking National Assn. of Broadcast Employes and Technicians worked the network's first TV program of the day, "Continental Classroom," also on tape, from 6:30 to 7 a. m.

When Dave Garroway's "Today" show was scheduled to hit the home screens at 7 a.m. the union struck. The Bardot interview was taped in Paris last week for the show.

Engineering personnel of the NBC radio network, in a sympathy move, prevented several scheduled news programs from taking the air.

Supervisory employes had both networks back on the air by 10 a. m.

The union claimed that after engineering personnel struck NBC-TV in New York, other NABET members were locked out of NBC studios. Pickets at NBC headquarters in Rockefeller Center carried signs proclaiming "lockout."

NBC employs about 750 NABET members in New York.

However, NBC declared:

A-Test Ban Inspection Stand Eased By Russia

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union proposed Monday that the United States, Soviet Union and Britain agree on a limited number of inspections of suspicious disturbances to police a nuclear test ban.

This approach, apparently a tactical move, was made at the conference of the three atomic powers on a nuclear ban treaty.

The Soviet delegation listed Britain as a coauthor of the idea but both the British and U.S. delegations made it clear they are willing to explore it and are not in disagreement.

Soviet Delegate Semyon Tsarapkin presented it, in the name of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. Tsarapkin referred to the fact the British leader raised the idea during his talks in Moscow with Khruschev six weeks ago.

A Western source pointed out, however, Macmillan, had not advanced a specific plan to Khrushchev on limited inspection but merely suggested it was a subject worth studying.

Tsarapkin did not give a figure on the number of such inspections the Soviets would allow each year. But he indicated Moscow would allow checks on the sites of suspicious distrubances to be made without a veto.

Soviet insistence on a veto over inspection arrangements for a test ban have deadlocked the conference. The West has insisted that an inspection system is worthless unless it is foolproof and free from governmental interference.

Insurgents Clash With Patrol Boats

Central American Nation To Get U.S. Arms Shipment

PANAMA (UPI)—A rebel invading force from Cuba has captured a small coastal village after exchanging fire with two national guard landing barges, the government announced Monday night.

The announcement came after the United States issued a statement that it had authorized an arms shipment to Panama to help fight off the invasion.

A communique said the invaders took control of the village of Nombre de Dios, about 75 miles from Colon. Some of the revolutionaries were said to have been wounded and the government said that three rebels were captured earlier.

The remainder of the estimated 80 men and one woman headed toward Colon, Caribbean gateway to the U.S.-operated Panama Canal.

A government statement said that fire was seen aboard the barges, which patrol the Panama coastline. The national guard is Panama's only military force.

Allegedly Sailed From Cuba

The clash was announced after the government of President Ernesto de la Guardia Jr. charged that "lawless foreigners" had invaded Panama from Cuba. The government said that all the rebels had pledged support to Roberto E. Arias, revolutionary leader who is the husband of British ballerina Dame Margot Fonteyn.

Arias took diplomatic asylum in the Brazilian Embassy here last Friday.

A government communique Monday night said the barges were patrolling the coastal waters to prevent the invaders from escaping by sea. It added that national guard troops were "maintaining complete vigilance on land."

News from the village of Nombre de Dios was curtailed by the fact that the central telephone exchange here reported that the line to the village was "out of order."

The phone system is owned and operated by the Panamanian government. Nombre de Dios is a village of about 500 inhabitants engaged mainly in fishing and growing cocoanuts.

Land In Desolate Area

The invasion force landed Saturday on a desolate jungle-bordered beach in the San Blas Peninsula area. To reach Nombre de Dios, the revolutionaries had to cover 25 miles, much of it difficult terrain.

The government said the invaders had arrived to meddle in Panama's internal affairs and bring "blood and death" to its soil.

The Justice Department sent a plane over the Nombre de Dios area to drop leaflets signed by Cuban Charge d'Affaires Ricardo Riano Jauman. Riano, who offered to act as an intermediary in an attempt to arrange a surrender, urged the invaders to meet with him for a conference. He asked them to contact him by telephone.

Struck Mills Delay 3d Shift

HENDERSON, N.C. (UPI)—Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills on Monday night postponed for a week the start of a third shift in a move to prevent renewed violence in a six-months strike.

The mills management bowed to the urging of state officials and Mayor Carroll V. Singleton to delay the start of a third shift for which additional non-union workers were being hired. The additional shift was to have started operation Tuesday night.

Nearly 1,200 members of the Textile Workers union of America (AFL-CIO) have been on strike since last November. Violence has flared up frequently since the mills resumed partial operations with non-union employes in February.

An apparent settlement of the long, bitter dispute over an arbitration clause and seniority rights collapsed a week ago when the company disclosed it had filled all but 30 jobs on the second shift with non-union workers.

The TWUA has maintained that the company is seeking to break the union, and that the dispute is a fight-to-the-finish for textile unionism in the South. It has filed unfair labor practices charges against the company.

Not Great President But Had Fun Trying, 'Prof.' Truman Says

NEW YORK (AP)—The politician turned professor Monday and the students seemed delighted. So, too, did Harry Truman.

He launched a Columbia University lecture series on the presidency.

As a man who knows the job first hand, he gave his campus audience some inside peeks into the White House, along with some chuckles.

"I wasn't one of the great ones (presidents)," he said, "but I had a good time trying to be."

Getting fully into the academic swim, Truman also took on questions from the floor. And the 1,200 who packed a hall to hear him abandoned classroom decorum at the close to give him a rousing round of applause.

"It's always nice to have a satisfied group of customers," Truman grinned.

Then he held forth at a news conference for journalism students, at which he made these points:

He expects to be at the 1960 Democratic presidential convention, and will support the candidate it names.

He considers Christian Herter, the new secretary of state, a very capable man.

He still thinks the policy of nonrecognition of Red China a good one.

In the first of three addresses inaugurating the university's William Radner lectures on public law and government, Truman reminisced about some of his days as president.

"Some people in the United States, especially newspaper editors, thought they knew more about running the government than I did," he said.

Noting that the President has the authority to appoint and sometimes fire generals, Truman said that back in Lincoln's time "one of the fellows he fired ran against him for president."

"It did not happen in my case," he added, in an obvious reference to his removal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur from his Far East command.

Truman introduced himself as one of Missouri's "most notorious characters," along with Mark Twain and Jesse James. "Mark and Jesse are gone," he said, "and I'm here to fill in."

He is scheduled to give two more lectures, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Kennedy Urges More Students Enter Politics

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), a possible contender for the 1960 Democratic Presidential nomination, Monday urged University of Maryland students to apply their learning to work in politics.

"We stand in serious need of the fruits of your learning," Kennedy said at the university's annual spring convocation.

Kennedy also told the approximately 9,000 students and faculty members that he favors repeal of the loyalty oath provision of the National Defense Education act. The law provides Federal loans to students.

The act's oath requirement, he said, is distasteful, humiliating and unworkable. He has introduced a bill to repeal the provision. Hearings on the measure are scheduled to begin Wednesday.

He said the requirement of loyalty oaths and affidavits against the overthrow of the government by illegal means has no place in a program designed to encourage education.

Asserting that more freedom in education means more security for the United States, Kennedy said Communists will have no hesitancy in furthering themselves under the oath provisions.

Kennedy, chief sponsor of the labor regulation bill that passed the Senate by a 90-1 margin Saturday, reiterated his belief that the measure stands a good chance of House passage. Last year the House failed to act on the Senate-passed Kennedy-Ives bill, similar in many respects to the measure passed Saturday.

As to his undeclared presidential aspirations, Kennedy told a questioner from the floor of the convocation that he plans to enter no presidential primary election. Neither, he said, does he have a favorite candidate for the office, either Republican or Democrat.

Munro Urges Permanent Police Power For U.N.

SALISBURY (AP) — Sir Leslie Knox Munro of New Zealand said Monday the United Nations has already demonstrated that its persuasive powers can ease international crises but the organization still needs some type of permanent police power.

This would make the U. N. a constantly effective force in world affairs, said Munro, a former president of U. N. General Assembly.

Addressing a luncheon audience at a District 762 Rotary International convention in Salisbury, Munro said the advantages of employing such a police unit were demonstrated in the Middle East crisis.

The disadvantages of not having a unit on a permanent basis were demonstrated in the 1956 Hungarian uprising, he added.

Munro said "people criticized the U. N. for not doing anything" in Hungary.

"But what could it do?" he asked. "Its members were not prepared to risk a third world war to save Hungary. So if anyone failed, it was all of us in this room."

Nevertheless, he emphasized that the U. N. can still do much to ease tensions and promote better understanding among nations in its present form.

"A common law of mankind is slowly developing into a system of world law," he said.

Munro suggested that the problems of the space age be dealt with in the U. N.

"The Russians don't want it there, but it's got to come back to the U. N. if the United Nations is going to be an effective instrument," he said.

About 800 Rotarians and their wives attended the three-day convention for delegates from the District of Columbia and most of Maryland.

Castro, Brother Confer In Texas

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Fidel Castro and his brother Raul, Cuba's armed forces chief, held a closed-door conference here Monday.

The meeting, on the 16th floor of the swank Shamrock Hotel, was unscheduled.

The revolutionary leader flew into Houston Monday to be greeted by a cheering crowd of 1,000 persons. He also found his brother, Raul, anxiously waiting for a meeting that had the earmarks of an emergency session.

Raul flew in from Cuba unannounced. He did not disclose to reporters the reason for his visit.

Fidel denied reports of dissension between him and Raul and said he called his brother Sunday, saying he wanted to see him. The Prime Minister said he had not seen Raul in 10 days.

But Evans Houghton, Fidel's press secretary, said that if Castro knew his brother would be in Houston he had not told him (Houghton).

A cheering crowd greeted Fidel at Houston when his plane landed at 3:16 p. m., shouting "Fidel! Fidel!"

As police held the crowd back, Castro was rushed to the airport dining room for a luncheon and an official welcome from Mayor Lewis Cutrer.

Following the luncheon, Castro announced he would spend the night in Houston and leave for Argentina sometime Tuesday.

Ike Uses Veto

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Monday vetoed as "contrary to the public interest" a controversial Democratic-sponsored bill designed to strip from Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson any authority over Rural Electrification Administration (REA) loans.

No-Nepotism Resolutions Stir Attacks On Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proposals aimed at discouraging congressional nepotism touched off an attack on the nation's press at a House committee hearing Monday.

The committee postponed action on the no-nepotism resolutions.

All three measures before the House Administration Committee were inspired by recent newspaper accounts of congressional nepotism—the practice of putting relatives on the payrolls of the members' staffs.

Two of the bills would require each representative to file public statements with the House clerk specifying whether any staff employe is related to him, or has outside business connections with him and listing the duties and salaries of each employe.

Several members indicated opposition to the proposals, contending they are unnecessary and would be ineffective.

Rep. George M. Rhodes (D-Pa) said if House members are to be required to disclose whether they have any relatives on their payrolls, "the same standards should be made to apply to the press."

About 95 per cent of the nation's press is good, Rhodes said. But he contended the remaining 5 per cent is guilty of "unethical control of news and information."

Rhodes spoke out after Rep. Frank E. Smith (D-Miss) and Committee chairman Samuel N. Friedel (D-Md) argued that some press accounts of Congressional nepotism had been unfair and created mistaken impressions.

Friedel said one news story had done "a gross injustice" on Rep. Edward A. Garmatz (D-Md) by reporting he employed his sister as a secretary. "But you had to read down to the bottom," Friedel said, "to learn that she is a very competent woman."

Ike Uses Veto

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Monday vetoed as "contrary to the public interest" a controversial Democratic-sponsored bill designed to strip from Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson any authority over Rural Electrification Administration (REA) loans.

No-Nepotism Resolutions Stir Attacks On Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proposals aimed at discouraging congressional nepotism touched off an attack on the nation's press at a House committee hearing Monday.

The committee postponed action on the no-nepotism resolutions.

All three measures before the House Administration Committee were inspired by recent newspaper accounts of congressional nepotism—the practice of putting relatives on the payrolls of the members' staffs.

Two of the bills would require each representative to file public statements with the House clerk specifying whether any staff employe is related to him, or has outside business connections with him and listing the duties and salaries of each employe.

Several members indicated opposition to the proposals, contending they are unnecessary and would be ineffective.

Rep. George M. Rhodes (D-Pa) said if House members are to be required to disclose whether they have any relatives on their payrolls, "the same standards should be made to apply to the press."

About 95 per cent of the nation's press is good, Rhodes said. But he contended the remaining 5 per cent is guilty of "unethical control of news and information."

Rhodes spoke out after Rep. Frank E. Smith (D-Miss) and Committee chairman Samuel N. Friedel (D-Md) argued that some press accounts of Congressional nepotism had been unfair and created mistaken impressions.

Friedel said one news story had done "a gross injustice" on Rep. Edward A. Garmatz (D-Md) by reporting he employed his sister as a secretary. "But you had to read down to the bottom," Friedel said, "to learn that she is a very competent woman."

Doctors Told Penicillin Shock Reactions Mount

BALTIMORE (AP)—Physicians were urged Monday to be equipped to treat persons sensitive to penicillin for shock.

"The suddenness, unexpectedness and severity of the reactions," Dr. S. Ross Taggart of the Washington Department of Health said, "are most likely to find the physician unprepared to deal with it promptly and adequately."

Dr. Taggart spoke at Johns Hopkins Hospital at the opening of a week-long seminar on venereal disease. The meeting is sponsored by the U. S. Public Health Service for specialists from 15 Eastern states, Washington, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Dr. Taggart reported that severe allergic reactions to antibiotics are increasing. Of 2,995 cases classified during a three-year survery, 2,517 were associated with penicillin, he said.

"There was a fatality rate of nine per cent," he reported.

Dr. Taggart said none of the deaths involved persons given penicillin by mouth.

The venereal disease clinic in Washington has given more than half a million doses of penicillin to more than 200,000 persons since 1945, he said.

Within the last 13 months, seven shock reactions, one fatal and three nearly so, have been recorded.

Having lost the Athletics to Kansas City, Philadelphia may soon see its Phillies moving to New York. Before you know it, the bigtown on the Schuykill may become known as the City of Brotherly Love and No Baseball.

Civil Defense Tough To Sell, Senator Finds

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee dug into civil defense in the national capital Monday and Chairman Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash) concluded: "We really don't have civil defense in the District of Columbia."

The director of civil defense for this area, John E. Fondahl, testified:

"I think our civil defense organization is not much better and not much worse than other comparable cities in the United States."

Fondahl said there is a civil defense plan completed but the District of Columbia commissioners have not yet approved it. He also said that "the public don't understand their responsibility."

Jackson said it's hard to sell the people on the idea there is a continuing danger, so "civil defense gets to be a rather pedestrian, tiring sort of thing after a while." He said so many different plans have been developed under both Democratic and Republican administrations that "there is confusion as to what we really should do."

The problem starts from there, he said, and "Congress has to share some of that blame."

Fondahl said he couldn't disagree with an estimate from the Office of Civil and Devense Mobilization that as of last July 1 only 30 per cent of the people in the densely populated part of Washington were covered by an outdoor warning system. He did say that there is a supplementary indoor warning system in government buildings.

For Washington and its suburbs, OCDM estimated the coverage is 13 per cent, on the basis of information submitted to the subcommittee April 6.

Fondahl said the prime objective of his office now is to educate the people on the civil defense problem. But he said such efforts were exactly nil in 1958. Through loss of interest in the entire program, Fondahl testified, a civil defense speakers' bureau went out of operation in 1955. And, he said, "the warden service fell apart during the last few years."

Furthermore, he said, at the present time the communications system is inadequate. About the best the director could say was that there is "almost an adequacy of radiological instruments in the District of Columbia."

Md. Traffic Death Toll In March 43

BALTIMORE (AP) — Forty-three persons met death in accidents on Maryland highways during March — an increase of one over the same month of 1958.

This was reported Monday by the State Police Statistics Division which noted that traffic fatalities for the first quarter of the year were 3 per cent higher than the comparable period of 1958.

The March accidents also caused 1,574 injuries, or an average of 51 daily.

Baltimore County with 10 deaths led the list followed by Baltimore City with 7 and Prince Georges County 4. Baltimore County also had the highest total of accidents of any county, 739.

Eight counties had no traffic deaths in March. They included Allegany, Calvert, Dorchester, Garrett, Harford, Queen Anne, Talbot and Wicomico.

$271,250 In Stamps For Pinball Devices

BALTIMORE (AP) — Operators of pay-off pinball machines in Baltimore City paid out $271,250 for federal gambling stamps this year.

Internal Revenue Service files revealed Monday that the stamps were bought for 1,085 machines in the city, representing the largest concentration of federally licensed machines in Maryland, except for four southern counties where gambling is legal.

Pay-off pinball machines are illegal in all of Maryland except for St. Marys, Charles, Calvert and Anne Arundel counties. However, there is some doubt about the legal status of so-called claw machines which pay off in merchandise.

The stamps costing $250 each are required for machines which pay off in "cash, premiums, merchandise or tokens."

Cat Causes Electrical Blackout

WALDORF, Md. (AP) — A cat shorted out an electric circuit, causing a temporary power blackout in Charles County and parts of lower Prince Georges County Monday. The cat was electrocuted.

A spokesman for the Southern Maryland Electrical Co-operative system said the cat got into the firm's Waldorf substation shortly after midnight and crawled across bushings of a circuit breaker. A resulting arc burned out three bushings.

Approximately 9,000 homes and other places in the area were affected for about two hours. Auxiliary power systems went into operation at the hospital in La Plata and state police barracks at Waldorf.

The fishkillers are aquatic bugs that feed on fish.

CCHC Will Work With Council

In view of the suggested plans of the Community Council to serve as coordinator for the civic beautification of Cumberland, Mrs. Douglas Smith will suggest the County Council of Homemakers Clubs join other organizations in this civic movement, she said last evening. She will make her suggestion at the executive board meeting of the county council April 30, to place the proposed landscaping plan of the Cumberland Public Library with the Community Council.

The landscaping plans for the library were drawn up by Carl N. Johnson, landscape specialist of the University of Maryland.

Mrs. Smith will preside at the meeting at 11 a. m. at LaVale Methodist Church. She also will report on the spring meeting of the executive board of the Maryland State Council of Homemakers Clubs, held at the Emerson Hotel, Baltimore, April 8-9.

Luncheon is to be served at 12:30, followed by the afternoon program. Mrs. John Altvater, president of the state council, will be the guest speaker.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hinkle and family, Woodville, Ohio, have returned home after visiting their parents, Mrs. James Shaw, Oldtown, and Mr. and Mrs. Newton B. Hinkle, Green Spring.

Mrs. Virginia McLaughlin, 23 Virginia Avenue, is recovering in Memorial Hospital from injuries sustained in a fall at her home. Besides bruises, she broke her arm and nose.

Mrs. Nellie Morrison, 305 Arch Street, has returned from New York, where she visited her sister.

B'er Chayim Sisterhood will have a program on cancer at the meeting at 2:30 tomorrow in the vestry room.

Girls Central Concert To Be Presented May 5

The annual concert of Catholic Girls Central High School will be presented May 5 in Carroll Hall at 8 p. m. The program has been dedicated to Archbishop Francis P. Keough, marking his episcopal jubilee.

The Glee Club will open the program with "Stouthearted Men," "We Who Love Music," "A Vocal Combat," "Among My Souvenirs," and "On Wings of Song," with Eileen Sullivan as soloist.

Other selections include "Blossom Time," "Three Little Maids," by Diane Rung, Elizabeth Clark and Regina Saliga; "Happy Wanderer," "Bells of Notre Dame," "A Song Prayer for Peace," "You'll Never Walk Alone," "Star Dust," with Mary Rita Clark, soloist; "I'll Be Seeing You," "Serenade" from the "Student Prince"; "Younger than Springtime," from "South Pacific"; "Donkey Serenade"; a medley from "The Music Man," "Goodnight My Someone," "Till There Was You," and "Seventy-Six Trombones."

Following the intermission the program includes "Il Bacie," "Caro Nome," with Miss Sullivan soloist; suite from Cinderella; "In My Own Little Corner," by Marleen Werner, Marla Minnick, Cynthia Horn, Sheila Mower and Jean Taylor. Sue Powers is to do a ballet dance. Miss Sullivan, Mary Jenkins and Jane Porter will sing, "Ten Minutes Ago" and Kay Anne Kidwell will dance a ballet. Patricia Page, Mary Clark, Patricia Wilhelm, Constance DeArcangelio, Mary Bisignano and Pamela Speeler are to sing, "A Lovely Night" and Marcia Mowery will dance a ballet. "Do I Love You" will be sung by Miss Sullivan, Miss Porter, Miss Jenkins and the chorus, with Barbara Boyle narrator.

A group of final numbers includes "America, Our Own Native Land," "This Is My Country," "Your Land and My Land," "Freedom Bell," "Ave Maria" and "Regina Coeli." Dolores Grabenstein will portray the Blessed Virgin; Jeann Lowery, Liberty, and Sharon O'Rourke will be the flag bearer.

Linda Diehl, Marcia Mowery, Eileen Sullivan and Julia Hendricks will be the accompanists.

Social Chart

The weekly card party will be held at St. Ambrose social center, Cresaptown, tonight at 8. Setback and 500 will be played, prizes awarded and refreshments served.

Today is the deadline for reservations for the May Fellowship luncheon of the Council of Church Women, to be held Friday at the Ali Ghan Country Club.

Women of the Moose will hold a games party at 7:30 tonight at the home, with Mrs. Rosalie Evans chairman.

The fifth session of the clothing workshop being conducted by Miss Mary Wise will be held today from 10 until 3 in the home demonstration office in the Court Louse.

Dr. Abdul S. Hashim will be the speaker at the meeting of the LaVale Century Club tonight at 8 at the Methodist Church.

AAUW College Night Program This Evening

College costs have joined the items affected by inflation, area high school girls will learn when they attend the AAUW College Night tonight at 7:30, in the First Federal Savings and Loan building. Mrs. William VanNewkirk has made a chart of information about 50 colleges in this section showing spiraling costs in almost every school. This should not discourage girls from planning college careers but does show the purpose for inviting them to begin early to plan to go to college, she said.

Michigan State College will be featured in a film "The Journey" to introduce high school students to the program of pre-entrance testing and introductory activities. Materials and information on every college in Maryland, which admits women, and many from surrounding states will be offered.

Scholarship information will be available also, though many schools have indicated a preference to deal directly with applicant students on this.

An honorary committee has been serving as advisors and publicity chairmen in their schools. It includes Beall High, Donna Sacco and Sue Clise; Allegany, Kay Starcher and Janet Shanholtz; Fort Hill, Kathleen Kiifner and Ann Hardinger; Girls Central, Linda Diehl and Marcia Mowery; St. Mary's, Earleen Humbertson and Nellie Cline; and Ursuline, Carole May and Yvonne Straub.

Hooked Rug Workshop Planned

Projects were discussed at the meeting of the Pleasant Grove Homemakers Club, held at the home of Mrs. Sarabelle Weatherholt, with Mrs. Jessie Wilson cohostess. Following the homemakers creed, Mrs. Howard Perrin read the history of the hymn, "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today." It then was sung by the group; also, "When April Comes." Roll call was answered with ways to help the 4-H program.

College Week, the Music Festival April 27, and the County Council meeting April 30 were discussed. Announcement was made of the hooked rug workshop from 10 until 2:30 May 1 in the fiesta room of Central YMCA. A committee was named to take part in the civil defense program, to be set up following the alert.

Under the leadership of Marlene Clark 4-H members spoke on 4-H work and projects. Taking part were Patricia Gable, Joann Robinette, Christine Raines, Bonnie Miller, Catherine Borst, and Mary Borst. Ruth Ann Clark demonstrated setting a table.

Hostesses for May will be Mrs. Lethia Burchard and Mrs. Virginia Clark. Others present were Mrs. Rhoda Clingerman, Mrs. Hattie Conner, Mrs. Emma Hinkle, Mrs. Ruth McElfish, Mrs. Emma Minke, Mrs. Dorothy Norris, Miss Dorothy Northcraft, Mrs. Olive Northcraft, Mrs. Nettie Perrin, Mrs. Una Robinette, Mrs. Mable Schaub, Mrs. Lillian Smith, Mrs. Evelyn Wilson, Mrs. Vallie Michael, Mrs. Cora Parleton, Mrs. Dorothy Shubert and one guest, Mrs. Janice Burchard.

Woman's Club Wins Awards At Convention

The Woman's Civic Club of Cumberland was represented in many fields of competition at the spring convention of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs in Baltimore last week.

Awards won by members of the local club were Mrs. L. E. Erickson, first place in water color paintings; second place award in poetry, Mrs. G. Morgan Smith; Mrs. Hugo Keller, honorable mention for her entry of a ceramic figurine. Honorable mention was won in the press book competition by Mrs. Fred Hutcheson, chairman, and Mrs. Clifford Minke, cochairman.

Simon Smith is ill at his home, Oldtown.

CCHC Will Work With Council

In view of the suggested plans of the Community Council to serve as coordinator for the civic beautification of Cumberland, Mrs. Douglas Smith will suggest the County Council of Homemakers Clubs join other organizations in this civic movement, she said last evening. She will make her suggestion at the executive board meeting of the county council April 30, to place the proposed landscaping plan of the Cumberland Public Library with the Community Council.

The landscaping plans for the library were drawn up by Carl N. Johnson, landscape specialist of the University of Maryland.

Mrs. Smith will preside at the meeting at 11 a. m. at LaVale Methodist Church. She also will report on the spring meeting of the executive board of the Maryland State Council of Homemakers Clubs, held at the Emerson Hotel, Baltimore, April 8-9.

Luncheon is to be served at 12:30, followed by the afternoon program. Mrs. John Altvater, president of the state council, will be the guest speaker.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hinkle and family, Woodville, Ohio, have returned home after visiting their parents, Mrs. James Shaw, Oldtown, and Mr. and Mrs. Newton B. Hinkle, Green Spring.

Mrs. Virginia McLaughlin, 23 Virginia Avenue, is recovering in Memorial Hospital from injuries sustained in a fall at her home. Besides bruises, she broke her arm and nose.

Mrs. Nellie Morrison, 305 Arch Street, has returned from New York, where she visited her sister.

B'er Chayim Sisterhood will have a program on cancer at the meeting at 7:30 tomorrow in the vestry room.

Hooked Rug Workshop Planned

Projects were discussed at the meeting of the Pleasant Grove Homemakers Club, held at the home of Mrs. Sarabelle Weatherholt, with Mrs. Jessie Wilson cohostess. Following the homemakers creed, Mrs. Howard Perrin read the history of the hymn, "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today." It then was sung by the group; also, "When April Comes." Roll call was answered with ways to help the 4-H program.

College Week, the Music Festival April 27, and the County Council meeting April 30 were discussed. Announcement was made of the hooked rug workshop from 10 until 2:30 May 1 in the fiesta room of Central YMCA. A committee was named to take part in the civil defense program, to be set up following the alert.

Under the leadership of Marlene Clark 4-H members spoke on 4-H work and projects. Taking part were Patricia Gable, Joann Robinette, Christine Raines, Bonnie Miller, Catherine Borst, and Mary Borst. Ruth Ann Clark demonstrated setting a table.

Hostesses for May will be Mrs. Lethia Burchard and Mrs. Virginia Clark. Others present were Mrs. Rhoda Clingerman, Mrs. Hattie Conner, Mrs. Emma Hinkle, Mrs. Ruth McElfish, Mrs. Emma Minke, Mrs. Dorothy Norris, Miss Dorothy Northcraft, Mrs. Olive Northcraft, Mrs. Nettie Perrin, Mrs. Una Robinette, Mrs. Mable Schaub, Mrs. Lillian Smith, Mrs. Evelyn Wilson, Mrs. Vallie Michael, Mrs. Cora Parleton, Mrs. Dorothy Shubert and one guest, Mrs. Janice Burchard.

Woman's Club Wins Awards At Convention

The Woman's Civic Club of Cumberland was represented in many fields of competition at the spring convention of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs in Baltimore last week.

Awards won by members of the local club were Mrs. L. E. Erickson, first place in water color paintings; second place award in poetry, Mrs. G. Morgan Smith; Mrs. Hugo Keller, honorable mention for her entry of a ceramic figurine. Honorable mention was won in the press book competition by Mrs. Fred Hutcheson, chairman, and Mrs. Clifford Minke, cochairman.

James M. McCullough, 910 Lafayette Avenue, is visiting his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John R. George, and grandchildren in Orlando, Fla.

Simon Smith is ill at his home, Oldtown.

Girls Central Concert To Be Presented May 5

The annual concert of Catholic Girls Central High School will be presented May 5 in Carroll Hall at 8 p. m. The program has been dedicated to Archbishop Francis P. Keough, marking his episcopal jubilee.

The Glee Club will open the program with "Stouthearted Men," "We Who Love Music," "A Vocal Combat," "Among My Souvenirs," and "On Wings of Song," with Eileen Sullivan as soloist.

Other selections include "Blossom Time," "Three Little Maids," by Diane Rung, Elizabeth Clark and Regina Saliga; "Happy Wanderer," "Bells of Notre Dame," "A Song Prayer for Peace," "You'll Never Walk Alone," "Star Dust," with Mary Rita Clark, soloist; "I'll Be Seeing You," "Serenade" from the "Student Prince"; "Younger than Springtime," from "South Pacific"; "Donkey Serenade"; a medley from "The Music Man," "Goodnight My Someone," "Till There Was You," and "Seventy-Six Trombones."

Following the intermission the program includes "Il Bacie," "Caro Nome," with Miss Sullivan soloist; suite from Cinderella; "In My Own Little Corner," by Marleen Werner, Marla Minnick, Cynthia Horn, Sheila Mower and Jean Taylor. Sue Powers is to do a ballet dance. Miss Sullivan, Mary Jenkins and Jane Porter will sing, "Ten Minutes Ago" and Kay Anne Kidwell will dance a ballet. Patricia Page, Mary Clark, Patricia Wilhelm, Constance DeArcangelio, Mary Bisignano and Pamela Speeler are to sing, "A Lovely Night" and Marcia Mowery will dance a ballet. "Do I Love You" will be sung by Miss Sullivan, Miss Porter, Miss Jenkins and the chorus, with Barbara Boyle narrator.

A group of final numbers includes "America, Our Own Native Land," "This Is My Country," "Your Land and My Land," "Freedom Bell," "Ave Maria" and "Regina Coeli." Dolores Grabenstein will portray the Blessed Virgin; Jeann Lowery, Liberty, and Sharon O'Rourke will be the flag bearer.

Linda Diehl, Marcia Mowery, Eileen Sullivan and Julia Hendricks will be the accompanists.

Social Chart

The weekly card party will be held at St. Ambrose social center, Cresaptown, tonight at 8. Setback and 500 will be played, prizes awarded and refreshments served.

Today is the deadline for reservations for the May Fellowship luncheon of the Council of Church Women, to be held Friday at the Ali Ghan Country Club.

Women of the Moose will hold a games party at 7:30 tonight at the home, with Mrs. Rosalie Evans chairman.

The fifth session of the clothing workshop being conducted by Miss Mary Wise will be held today from 10 until 3 in the home demonstration office in the Court Louse.

Dr. Abdul S. Hashim will be the speaker at the meeting of the LaVale Century Club tonight at 8 at the Methodist Church.

AAUW College Night Program This Evening

College costs have joined the items affected by inflation, area high school girls will learn when they attend the AAUW College Night tonight at 7:30, in the First Federal Savings and Loan building. Mrs. William VanNewkirk has made a chart of information about 50 colleges in this section showing spiraling costs in almost every school. This should not discourage girls from planning college careers but does show the purpose for inviting them to begin early to plan to go to college, she said.

Michigan State College will be featured in a film "The Journey" to introduce high school students to the program of pre-entrance testing and introductory activities. Materials and information on every college in Maryland, which admits women, and many from surrounding states will be offered.

Scholarship information will be available also, though many schools have indicated a preference to deal directly with applicant students on this.

An honorary committee has been serving as advisors and publicity chairmen in their schools. It includes Beall High, Donna Sacco and Sue Clise; Allegany, Kay Starcher and Janet Shanholtz; Fort Hill, Kathleen Kiifner and Ann Hardinger; Girls Central, Linda Diehl and Marcia Mowery; St. Mary's, Earleen Humbertson and Nellie Cline; and Ursuline, Carole May and Yvonne Straub.

City Sanitary Engineer Job Offered To Ohio Resident

The Mayor and Council agreed yesterday to offer a Wadsworth, Ohio, man the position of sanitary engineer for the City of Cumberland on a six-month probationary basis.

Council authorized Mayor J. Edwin Keech, at a session following the regular meeting, to contact Franklin Blaney and offer him the job which would include supervision of the sewage and filtration plants.

Upon successfully completing the six-month probationary period, Blaney would be placed under a two-year contract, Keech said.

Blaney recently was successful applicant in Civil Service tests conducted here and has visited members of council for personal interviews.

Salary for the job will be $6,500 annually if the engineer uses the home provided for him at Lake Gordon or $7,000 annually if he prefers to live in the city.

The mayor's letter to Blaney also sets forth his duties.

Kelly Contract Talks Continue

Negotiations on a contract for Local 26, United Rubber Workers, and Kelly-Springfield Tire Company are continuing daily.

The pact expires Friday and 70 per cent of the 1,650-member union went to the polls last week and by a 20-1 vote authorized the negotiation committee to take strike action, if necessary.

There are more miles of railroad track underground in the Pennsylvania coal mines than there are on the surface of the state.

Somerset Man Faces Bigamy Charge Here

A Somerset County man serving a three-month sentence in the county jail there will be brought here to face a charge of bigamy upon completion of the sentence.

Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, went to Somerset last week to take a statement from Harvey Joe Shippey, 27, of Shanksville, who is accused of marrying a Keyser girl in Westernport on March 2 while still wed to a Somerset County woman.

Lilya said that Shippey was jailed in Somerset County on a charge of larceny of tires and gasoline. He was taken into custody on a charge of non-support brought by wife No. 1, the former Emma O. Valentine, whom he married in 1952 in Somerset County.

Last October, the husband left Somerset County and went to the Scherr, W. Va., area where he worked as a woodsman.

He met Naomi Joan Lewis, of Keyser, and after obtaining a wedding permit at Allegany County Court House they were married by a minister in Westernport.

After he admitted being married to both women, Shippey agreed to waive extradition to Allegany County, Lilya said, and he will be returned here sometime in July to face the bigamy charge.

C&O Canal Park Bills Face Pigeonhole This Session

The "all or nothing" approach of conservationists on bills that would create a C & O Canal historical park is inviting the Congressional committee studying the measures to pigeonhole legislation for thi session.

This was the essence of a talk male by Rep. John R. Foley (D-Md. 6th) at the C & O Canal hike anniversary dinner Saturday night in Hancock.

And Rep. Foley's remarks followed very sharp and critical rebuke by conservationists who preceded him on the program.

They gibed the Congressman for presenting two conflicting bills for the park. One would be the establishment of the entire 185 miles from Cumberland to Georgetown as a park. The other would hold for future Congressional action a strip 35 miles from Great Falls to Brunswick for a possible impounding dam.

This latter bill meets the objectives of the Army Engineers in holding up final action until a survey of the water needs of metropolitan Washington is completed in the future.

An "all" approach is an effort to prevent any temporary suspension of development of a portion of the park, regardless of the water needs, Mr. Foley said.

The "nothing" approach, he continued, is not to create the park, and the defect of this view is that it gives broader recognition to the water supply than is necessary.

The "nothing" viewpoint, Rep. Foley declared, does not accomplish the purpose, namely, the prevention of a high dam at River Bend.

It merely postpones the park decision until some indefinite future time which could very well be after Congress decides the type of water storage facility desirable on the Potomac. It confuses the park issue with the high dam issue, and the latter one may never reach Congressional stature, the Congressman declared.

"It exposes 125 miles of the canal to the very danger from which the advocates are seeking to protect the 35 miles," he added.

Foley closed by inviting views on this problem which he felt can be solved this year to the satisfaction of most persons interested in the national park project.

A preceding speaker, Dr. Spencer M. Smith, executive secretary of the Citizens Committee on National Resources, termed Mr. Foley's second bill permitting the 35-mile strip to be subject to future action as "Foley's folly."

Said Smith:

"Just about the time we were looking to our champion, Mr. Foley, to get us a park bill passed, we looked over the balustrade to the opposition camp and we saw our Mr. Foley busy planting his flag over Foley's folly, which is not a park bill but a water supply and public power bill.

"We'd like to know whose side Mr. Foley is on. If a water shortage is imminent the engineers and commissioners should come before Congress with a frank water supply bill and let it be considered on its merits. If we can't have a park that meets park service standards let us have no park built at all."

DeWitt Hyde, former Maryland Republican Representative, also teed off on Foley's second bill.

"Don't let yourselves be kidded," he told an audience that packed the new Hancock High School. "Mr. Foley's second bill is being pushed in the interests of the rural electric co-ops."

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas said to Foley:

"If I were the Congressman from this district I would not like a big impoundment to be known as 'my mud hole'."

Fort Hill Class '39 To Meet Today

The committee planning the reunion this year of the Class of 1939 of Fort Hill High School will meet today at 7:30 p. m. in the office of the B&O Bolt and Forge Shops.

MOBILGAS ECONOMY RUN VICTORY IS CLINCHING PROOF—

IT PAYS TO OWN A DODGE

Dodge V-8 sets 21.74-m.p.g. pace in Mobilgas Economy Run—finishes 1-2 in low-medium price field . . . beats all other cars from the low-price V-8 class on up!

When a car cleans up on its class in the economy run by a healthy 2.1 m.p.g., that's news. But when a big, luxurious medium-price V-8 actually beats low-price V-8 models at their own game—that's an engineering break-through.

Here are the facts. A 1959 Dodge Coronet, V-8, fully equipped with power steering, power brakes, and automatic transmission, scored a sweeping upset in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run. Dodge not only finished 1-2 in the low-medium price field—it actually beat all other cars from the low-price V-8 class on up.

Compare the amazing economy record of '59 Dodge—over 21.74 miles to the gallon. Compare it against the other cars in the run—against the car you're now driving. You'll find another good reason why "It Pays to Own a Dodge."

• DODGE COSTS LESS TO BUY—Check the official Manufacturers' Suggested Retail Prices. You'll find Dodge prices are lower than other medium-priced cars.

• DODGE COSTS LESS TO DRIVE—Not only in gas economy, but in tune-ups, brake relining, spark plug replacement—your money takes you farther in Dodge.

• DODGE GIVES YOU MORE FOR YOUR MONEY—More room, more comfort and more features, too. Features like Torsion-Aire Ride, Total-Contact Brakes that are standard on every model.

"It exposes 125 miles of the canal to the very danger from which the advocates are seeking to protect the 35 miles," he added.

Foley closed by inviting views on this problem which he felt can be solved this year to the satisfaction of most persons interested in the national park project.

A preceding speaker, Dr. Spencer M. Smith, executive secretary of the Citizens Committee on National Resources, termed Mr. Foley's second bill permitting the 35-mile strip to be subject to future action as "Foley's folly."

Said Smith:

"Just about the time we were looking to our champion, Mr. Foley, to get us a park bill passed, we looked over the balustrade to the opposition camp and we saw our Mr. Foley busy planting his flag over Foley's folly, which is not a park bill but a water supply and public power bill.

"We'd like to know whose side Mr. Foley is on. If a water shortage is imminent the engineers and commissioners should come before Congress with a frank water supply bill and let it be considered on its merits. If we can't have a park that meets park service standards let us have no park built at all."

DeWitt Hyde, former Maryland Republican Representative, also teed off on Foley's second bill.

"Don't let yourselves be kidded," he told an audience that packed the new Hancock High School. "Mr. Foley's second bill is being pushed in the interests of the rural electric co-ops."

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas said to Foley:

"If I were the Congressman from this district I would not like a big impoundment to be known as 'my mud hole'."

MOBILGAS ECONOMY RUN VICTORY IS CLINCHING PROOF—

IT PAYS TO OWN A DODGE

Dodge V-8 sets 21.74-m.p.g. pace in Mobilgas Economy Run—finishes 1-2 in low-medium price field . . . beats all other cars from the low-price V-8 class on up!

When a car cleans up on its class in the economy run by a healthy 2.1 m.p.g., that's news. But when a big, luxurious medium-price V-8 actually beats low-price V-8 models at their own game—that's an engineering break-through.

Here are the facts. A 1959 Dodge Coronet, V-8, fully equipped with power steering, power brakes, and automatic transmission, scored a sweeping upset in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run. Dodge not only finished 1-2 in the low-medium price field—it actually beat all other cars from the low-price V-8 class on up.

Compare the amazing economy record of '59 Dodge—over 21.74 miles to the gallon. Compare it against the other cars in the run—against the car you're now driving. You'll find another good reason why "It Pays to Own a Dodge."

• DODGE COSTS LESS TO BUY—Check the official Manufacturers' Suggested Retail Prices. You'll find Dodge prices are lower than other medium-priced cars.

• DODGE COSTS LESS TO DRIVE—Not only in gas economy, but in tune-ups, brake relining, spark plug replacement—your money takes you farther in Dodge.

• DODGE GIVES YOU MORE FOR YOUR MONEY—More room, more comfort and more features, too. Features like Torsion-Aire Ride, Total-Contact Brakes that are standard on every model.

Surplus Foods May Include Pork, Lard

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The possibility of canned pork, gravy and lard being substituted for butter in surplus foods handed out to West Virginia's needy was advanced Monday.

Department of Public Assistance commodity distribution supervisor William Waggy brought up the possibility while noting that butter would be eliminated from the commodity program effective July 1.

However, he emphasized that request for butter for the first quarter of the next fiscal year for schools, institutions and summer camps had already been placed with federal agencies and would be available.

Surplus foods now available include flour, corn meal, rice and milk, as well as butter. Cheese was withdrawn last Feb. 1.

As a replacement for butter, Sen. Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va.) urged Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson, to add peanut butter and shortening to the commodity list.

A Senate subcommittee at hearings earlier this year in West Virginia, was told that many families said to be virtually wholly dependent on surplus food handouts were in ill health because the commodities did not provide properly - rounded nutrition.

Honor Society Inducts 14 At Valley Hi

LONACONING — Induction of new members highlighted the National Honor Society assembly at Valley High School.

Harry Jenkins, Suzanne Miller, Gladys Morris, Donna L. Lewis, Seniors; Jeanne Cutter, Louise Johnson, Robert Reidler, Judy Lashbaugh and Betty Steele, Juniors and Sally Miller, Roberta Love, Betty Clarke, Mary Catherine Carter and Susan Blank, Sophomores, were inducted into the Jack A. Petry Chapter of Valley High School.

Paul D. Beable, school principal, gave the welcoming speech and guest speaker for the program was Jack A. Petry, for whom the Chapter is named. Mr. Petry, former principal of Valley High School, is supervisor of high schools of Allegany County.

Sen. Randolph Heads Committee On Youth Corps Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va.) was appointed Monday to the chairmanship of a special Senate subcommittee to conduct hearings May 11-12 on a pending Youth Conservation Corps bill.

The bill would create an agency to administer a program similiar to the old Civilian Conservation Corps of the 30s. The legislation was introduced by Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.).

It calls for enlistment of some 150,000 unmarried youths, ranging in age from 17 to 23. They would be paid the same as Army privates and receive free food and clothing for jobs in connection with conservation and forestry work.

Memorial Day Meeting Called

WESTERNPORT — A meeting to further plans for the observance of Memorial Day in the Tri-Towns, will be held Saturday at 7 p. m. at the home of Victory Post No. 155, American Legion, with Lonnie F. Marsh, general chairman, presiding.

All organizations are requested to send representatives to this meeting.

LONACONING — First Methodist Church will hold a ham supper sponsored by the Young Adults today at 5:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m. in the social room of the Lonaconing Methodist Church, Church Hill.

Pipe Arrives For 56 Miles Big Inch Line Thru This Area

Two trainloads of "big inch" pipe have arrived here for a big pipeline job that goes through this section just north of here.

The Manufacturers Light and Heat Company of Pittsburgh is laying a 20-inch line from Waynesburg to York parallel to three existing eight-inch lines which runs along the Mason-Dixon line.

This year the utility plans to lay a 56.9-mile section from a point near the intersection of Route 40 with the Pennsylvania State Line north of Accident to Sideling Hill Mountain.

$4,800,000 Contract

This contract has been let to Harford Brothers of Emporium, Pa., for $4,800,000, and work has already been started on clearing right-of-way.

Pipe has been delivered to Lafferty Siding in Narrows Park and gas company workers are storing it on property owned by the Western Maryland Railway until it is needed.

This past week the first train of 39 cars was routed over the Pennsylvania Railroad's Bedford Branch to Cumberland and then on the Western Maryland to Narrows Park.

The WMR said another 50 cars arrived Sunday and was delivered to the storage yard.

Pipe has been delivered on the Western Maryland and B&O to Hancock, Sand Patch and Confluence, which are located along the 56.9 miles of this year's contract.

The Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company has an outlet on the Manufacturers line at the Ellerslie compressor station. This will be also installed on the new 20-inch line.

The utility last year built the end links of the new main. That was from Waynesburg, Pa., to Masontown, Pa., and Abbottstown, Pa., to York.

To Finish In 1960

Next year, the section from Sideling Hill Mountain to Abbottstown and from Masontown to the Pennsylvania State line at Route 40 will be contracted to complete the long line.

Headquarters of the contractor for this year's project will be located near Ellerslie which is about middle point of the job.

Harford Brothers will have two difficult pipe laying feat to perform this summer—going up steep Wills Mountain at Ellerslie and even steeper Evitts Mountain in Bedford Valley.

In addition to the steep grade, there is the additional factor of large limestone boulders that predominate the surface.

Midland Signs Agreement For Better Street Lights

The Town Council of Midland has approved an agreement with the area manager of the Potomac Edison Company, Ervin Lewis, for installation of new lights throughout the town. Lionell Baker, mayor, is signing the agreement as Lewis looks on from the right. Standing at the rear are Harry Youngblood, light and water commissioner; Harry Devlin, police and fire commissioner, Alex Rennie, street and sewer commissioner, and John Blair, commissioner of finance. Council members absent were Donald Cook and Raymond Bampton. The new system calls for all lights of the town, which were 1,000 lumen, to be changed to 2,500 lumen. According to Lewis, no other community on the PE system has completely changed over to this larger size light and Midland will have the distinction of being the first. New lights are being installed at several locations without lights before. The new white way on Main Street and Union Street, installed only a year ago will also be converted to the larger lights. Some lights are also being moved to better locations. Financing is being done through a community effort with dinners and other fund raising projects being held. The entire project is slated for completion within the next two weeks.

Pipe Arrives For 56 Miles Big Inch Line Thru This Area

Two trainloads of "big inch" pipe have arrived here for a big pipeline job that goes through this section just north of here.

The Manufacturers Light and Heat Company of Pittsburgh is laying a 20-inch line from Waynesburg to York parallel to three existing eight-inch lines which runs along the Mason-Dixon line.

This year the utility plans to lay a 56.9-mile section from a point near the intersection of Route 40 with the Pennsylvania State Line north of Accident to Sideling Hill Mountain.

$4,800,000 Contract

This contract has been let to Harford Brothers of Emporium, Pa., for $4,800,000, and work has already been started on clearing right-of-way.

Pipe has been delivered to Lafferty Siding in Narrows Park and gas company workers are storing it on property owned by the Western Maryland Railway until it is needed.

This past week the first train of 39 cars was routed over the Pennsylvania Railroad's Bedford Branch to Cumberland and then on the Western Maryland to Narrows Park.

The WMR said another 50 cars arrived Sunday and was delivered to the storage yard.

Pipe has been delivered on the Western Maryland and B&O to Hancock, Sand Patch and Confluence, which are located along the 56.9 miles of this year's contract.

The Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company has an outlet on the Manufacturers line at the Ellerslie compressor station. This will be also installed on the new 20-inch line.

The utility last year built the end links of the new main. That was from Waynesburg, Pa., to Masontown, Pa., and Abbottstown, Pa., to York.

To Finish In 1960

Next year, the section from Sideling Hill Mountain to Abbottstown and from Masontown to the Pennsylvania State line at Route 40 will be contracted to complete the long line.

Headquarters of the contractor for this year's project will be located near Ellerslie which is about middle point of the job.

Harford Brothers will have two difficult pipe laying feat to perform this summer—going up steep Wills Mountain at Ellerslie and even steeper Evitts Mountain in Bedford Valley.

In addition to the steep grade, there is the additional factor of large limestone boulders that predominate the surface.

Midland Signs Agreement For Better Street Lights

The Town Council of Midland has approved an agreement with the area manager of the Potomac Edison Company, Ervin Lewis, for installation of new lights throughout the town. Lionell Baker, mayor, is signing the agreement as Lewis looks on from the right. Standing at the rear are Harry Youngblood, light and water commissioner; Harry Devlin, police and fire commissioner, Alex Rennie, street and sewer commissioner, and John Blair, commissioner of finance. Council members absent were Donald Cook and Raymond Bampton. The new system calls for all lights of the town, which were 1,000 lumen, to be changed to 2,500 lumen. According to Lewis, no other community on the PE system has completely changed over to this larger size light and Midland will have the distinction of being the first. New lights are being installed at several locations without lights before. The new white way on Main Street and Union Street, installed only a year ago will also be converted to the larger lights. Some lights are also being moved to better locations. Financing is being done through a community effort with dinners and other fund raising projects being held. The entire project is slated for completion within the next two weeks.

Former W.Va. State Liquor Commissioner E. G. Bias, Dies

WILLIAMSON, W. Va. (UPI)—Former State Liquor Commissioner E. Gaujot Bias died unexpectedly at a Williamson hospital early Monday. A native of Huntington, he was 49.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday in St. Paul Episcopal Church here at 2 p. m.

Bias, West Virginia American Legion commander in 1953-54, had suffered from a stomach disorder for some time. He became more seriously ill Sunday and was taken to a hospital here.

He was named liquor commissioner in July, 1957, but resigned the following November to rejoin his father in their private law practice here. The elder Bias died a few months later.

A former school teacher and a 1933 graduate of the West Virginia University law school, Bias served as Williamson city attorney in 1952-54.

He had suffered from a stomach ailment over a period of years, but had not been bedfast recently. Survivors include his widow, a son and a daughter.

Rec Director Delays Resignation Until May 4

Eugene C. Mason agreed to remain as the city's recreation director until next Monday at a meeting after the regular Council session yesterday in the office of Mayor J. Edwin Keech.

The meeting was called last week at the request of Mayor Keech and Commissioners Lucile Roeder, G. Ray Light and Philmore F. Fleming, who said they wanted to find out the reasons why Mason had submitted his resignation, effective today.

The recreation director reviewed his efforts since last July in seeking to obtain a salary increase, pointing out that he had worked six months while awaiting council action along that line.

The fact that he did not receive an increase was distressing to him, Mason said, particularly in view of long hours he was forced to put in. He also pointed out that the "tremendous" cut in the recreation budget had a demoralizing effect on the morale of his workers.

Mason said that besides dissatisfaction with his salary, one of the prime reasons which resulted in his resignation was repeated "differences of opinion" with Commissioner John J. Long, under whose jurisdiction the Recreation Department operates.

He pointed out that time is valuable in getting the various ball fields and play areas in condition for activities and that he was compelled to go again and again to the commissioner to seek approval for the hiring of extra labor.

In support of his statement, the recreation director said Stitcher Field was made ready for the opening of the baseball season only because of the assistance of Brother Thomas of the LaSalle High School faculty and athletes of that school.

He also said his efforts to secure an early replacement for Mrs. Helen Leo, who left the recreation staff last Thursday on a maternity leave, were rebuffed. He declared Mrs. Leo was the person most familiar with the operating procedure of the office and should have trained her successor.

In completing his statement, Mason said he felt he could not sincerely continue in his post in view of the "attitude by Commissioner Long, his implied lack of confidence and the pressure of work."

Commissioner Long questioned Mason concerning his remarks on the morale of the recreation staff, and the rec director said he had not informed the commissioner of such feeling.

Commissioner Light asked Mason if he had any suggestions on how the recreation department should be operated in the future, to which he replied that he felt the director should be allowed more leeway in the hiring of extra employes and other routine duties.

Mrs. Roeder asked if Mason felt the Mayor and Council should outline the exact duties of the recreation director to prevent what she termed "hamstringing" of the program. Mason said such action would be a forward step.

Mason, in reply to a question by Fleming, said he "loves the work," but could not continue under the present salary and lack of security.

The Mayor and Council expressed sympathy with Mason's situation and asked him to remain as recreation director while they took the problem under consideration. Mason agreed to remain until a meeting next Monday.

Commissioner Fleming told Mason he appreciated his presentation of the facts and said he (Fleming) had expressed interest in his reasons and was pleased with Mason's straightforward answers.

"We want you to stay," Fleming told Mason.

Commissioner Roeder said "It looks like we can resolve it."

Mason has been with the Recreation Department since November 1956 when he was program assistant under former Director Gwynn Fletcher. At that time, Mason received $3,500 a year.

He became recreation director in May, 1957, following Fletcher's resignation, and receives $4,500 a year. Fletcher had been paid $6,000 annually.

During its regular session, council had heard three letters commending Mason for his work. Two, the Rocking Chair Softball League and Henry Hart Post 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, urged his retention in the post, and the third from Cumberland Optimist Club praised Mason's cooperation in their projects and the boys' program in particular.

Three School Papers Honored

Three area scholastic newspapers were cited for awards at the annual convention of the Southern Interscholastic Press Association over the weekend in Lexington, Va.

One of them also received a citation for radio work.

The Sentinel, Fort Hill High School's newspaper, was one of the 12 first place award winners for schools with enrollments of more than 1,100.

In the same enrollment group, The Acorn of Southern Garrett County High School, Oakland, was given an honor award.

The Tri-Hi-Times of Keyser High School was selected for an honor award in the group of schools with enrollments between 651 and 1,100.

The Italians picked up a very sizable swing of 890 points (equal to 7 I. M. P.'s), in this deal, No. 101 of the 156 Board contest for the world's championship, recently held in New York City. The Italians prevailed for the third year in a row and played before perhaps the largest audience that has ever witnessed a contract bridge contest either in this country or abroad.

When the Italians held the East-West hand Siniscalco in the West position opened with one spade. It is their practice when they open two suited hands of a mediocre quality to bid the higher ranking suit first regardless of length. In other words, he would be unable, in their methods, to open the bidding with a heart and subsequently show spades. For that is the one way they have of showing strength (the reverse).

Sam Fry chose to overcall with two diamonds and West showed his second suit. Fry persisted with three diamonds and this concluded the auction. The contract was defeated when East, Mr. Forquet, succeeded in obtaining two spade ruffs. This yielded 100 points to Italy.

In the other room Mr. Stakgold opened the bidding with one heart which Avarelli, in the North position, doubled. Harmon, in an effort to barricade the Latin visitors, jumped to three hearts. Belladonna bid three spades, which was preferable to showing his six card minor suit, and Mr. Avarelli raised to four. This rolled around to Stakgold in the West position, and he chose to double. Stakgold led the ace of hearts and continued the suit. Belladonna led the nine of clubs from the dummy and permitted it to ride, driving out Stakgold's ace. From this point on the declarer had little difficulty in fulfilling his contract. In point of fact, he could have made it either by establishing his own clubs or the dummy's diamonds by playing for a backward diamond finesse. He lost in all a heart, a club, and a spade for a score of 790 points.

City Cleanup Week Slated Here May 4-8

Plans for the annual Cleanup Week house-to-house debris collections were announced yesterday by Street Commissioner John J. Long.

The collection will be held next week on the following schedule:

Monday, May 4 — From Williams Street south to the C&O Canal.

Tuesday, May 5—Streets north of Williams Street to the City Line. This area includes East Side, Bedford Road and North End.

Wednesday, May 6—All West Side streets.

Thursday and Friday, May 7-8—Servicing areas which might be missed during the regular schedule.

Commissioner Long said Street Superintendent Andrew Heller has suggested that all materials be placed at the curb not later than 8 a. m. on the scheduled pickup day. All debris, magazines, papers must be placed in containers or securely tied so they will not fall apart in handling and to avoid the possibility of scattering during a sudden storm.

With cooperation of the public in this respect, it was pointed out that Street Department trucks and the airport truck should be able to handle the collection satisfactorily as in the past.

Long told the Mayor and Council yesterday that he plans to coordinate the drive with the dealer who has salvage rights at the City Dump.

At the same time, he told council of plans discussed during a meeting last week of approximately ten organizations interested in beautification of the city. Long said the groups were concerned about maintenance of areas beautified and said this could be a matter for consideration at budget time.

He said Mrs. Marguerite Findley, a member of the Park Board, had advised him she had received a donation of $150 for beautification of one section of Bedford Street and added that in some instances Boy and Girl Scouts could be enlisted to maintain certain areas.

Long issued an invitation to council to visit Constitution Park and see the work being done there in preparation for the official opening May 30, Memorial Day, and said it is hoped to start on City Hall repair work soon.

Playlot Group To Meet

The members of the former Pennsylvania Avenue Playground Association will meet Friday at 7 p. m. at the home of Mrs. John Rice, 15 South Street, to hear a trustees' report.

City Approves Eight Taxi Certificates

The Mayor and Council yesterday approved eight certificates of public convenience and necessity for local taxi companies under the city's new ordinance governing operations of the conveyances.

It was pointed out that the eight had been in business previously and issuance of the certificates is automatic under the ordinance.

Council accepted the resignation of Fred A. James, a pipeman in the Fire Department effective as of April 13.

A military leave of absence was granted to Chauffeur Jacob W. Winters of the Fire Department. Winters will receive training with the Naval Reserve from May 24 to June 7.

Street Commissioner John J. Long was authorized to advertise for road oil.

The Junior Association of Commerce, host to the state Jaycee convention here this weekend, asked for "courtesy parking" privileges for guests in the vicinity of convention headquarters at Algonquin Hotel. The matter was referred to Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

The Italians picked up a very sizable swing of 890 points (equal to 7 I. M. P.'s), in this deal, No. 101 of the 156 Board contest for the world's championship, recently held in New York City. The Italians prevailed for the third year in a row and played before perhaps the largest audience that has ever witnessed a contract bridge contest either in this country or abroad.

When the Italians held the East-West hand Siniscalco in the West position opened with one spade. It is their practice when they open two suited hands of a mediocre quality to bid the higher ranking suit first regardless of length. In other words, he would be unable, in their methods, to open the bidding with a heart and subsequently show spades. For that is the one way they have of showing strength (the reverse).

Sam Fry chose to overcall with two diamonds and West showed his second suit. Fry persisted with three diamonds and this concluded the auction. The contract was defeated when East, Mr. Forquet, succeeded in obtaining two spade ruffs. This yielded 100 points to Italy.

In the other room Mr. Stakgold opened the bidding with one heart which Avarelli, in the North position, doubled. Harmon, in an effort to barricade the Latin visitors, jumped to three hearts. Belladonna bid three spades, which was preferable to showing his six card minor suit, and Mr. Avarelli raised to four. This rolled around to Stakgold in the West position, and he chose to double. Stakgold led the ace of hearts and continued the suit. Belladonna led the nine of clubs from the dummy and permitted it to ride, driving out Stakgold's ace. From this point on the declarer had little difficulty in fulfilling his contract. In point of fact, he could have made it either by establishing his own clubs or the dummy's diamonds by playing for a backward diamond finesse. He lost in all a heart, a club, and a spade for a score of 790 points.

City Cleanup Week Slated Here May 4-8

Plans for the annual Cleanup Week house-to-house debris collections were announced yesterday by Street Commissioner John J. Long.

The collection will be held next week on the following schedule:

Monday, May 4 — From Williams Street south to the C&O Canal.

Tuesday, May 5—Streets north of Williams Street to the City Line. This area includes East Side, Bedford Road and North End.

Wednesday, May 6—All West Side streets.

Thursday and Friday, May 7-8—Servicing areas which might be missed during the regular schedule.

Commissioner Long said Street Superintendent Andrew Heller has suggested that all materials be placed at the curb not later than 8 a. m. on the scheduled pickup day. All debris, magazines, papers must be placed in containers or securely tied so they will not fall apart in handling and to avoid the possibility of scattering during a sudden storm.

With cooperation of the public in this respect, it was pointed out that Street Department trucks and the airport truck should be able to handle the collection satisfactorily as in the past.

Long told the Mayor and Council yesterday that he plans to coordinate the drive with the dealer who has salvage rights at the City Dump.

At the same time, he told council of plans discussed during a meeting last week of approximately ten organizations interested in beautification of the city. Long said the groups were concerned about maintenance of areas beautified and said this could be a matter for consideration at budget time.

He said Mrs. Marguerite Findley, a member of the Park Board, had advised him she had received a donation of $150 for beautification of one section of Bedford Street and added that in some instances Boy and Girl Scouts could be enlisted to maintain certain areas.

Long issued an invitation to council to visit Constitution Park and see the work being done there in preparation for the official opening May 30, Memorial Day, and said it is hoped to start on City Hall repair work soon.

Playlot Group To Meet

The members of the former Pennsylvania Avenue Playground Association will meet Friday at 7 p. m. at the home of Mrs. John Rice, 15 South Street, to hear a trustees' report.

City Approves Eight Taxi Certificates

The Mayor and Council yesterday approved eight certificates of public convenience and necessity for local taxi companies under the city's new ordinance governing operations of the conveyances.

It was pointed out that the eight had been in business previously and issuance of the certificates is automatic under the ordinance.

Council accepted the resignation of Fred A. James, a pipeman in the Fire Department effective as of April 13.

A military leave of absence was granted to Chauffeur Jacob W. Winters of the Fire Department. Winters will receive training with the Naval Reserve from May 24 to June 7.

Street Commissioner John J. Long was authorized to advertise for road oil.

The Junior Association of Commerce, host to the state Jaycee convention here this weekend, asked for "courtesy parking" privileges for guests in the vicinity of convention headquarters at Algonquin Hotel. The matter was referred to Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

New Phase Of Goldfine Case

During its spectacular life on the nation's front pages, the tale of Bernard Goldfine and his friends ofen seemed an incredible pastiche of low comedy, Greek tragedy, and social thesis novel But the Goldfine affair enters a new and totally different phase, beginning today.

Goldfine's attorney, Edward Bennett Williams, will try to convince a federal judge in Washington that contempt of Congress charges against his client sould be voided. Goldfine was cited for refusing to answer 18 questions concerning his business practices and his relations with Sherman Adams which were put to him by the House Subcommittee on Legislative Oversight (the so-called Harris committee). Williams contends that the questions were based in part on evidence obtained by electronic eavesdropping on conversations between Goldfine and his attorneys in a Washington hotel room last July.

Unlike wiretap evidence which is generally inadmissible in federal courts, evidence and leads obtained by eavesdropping techniques do not fall under a flat ban. However, lawyer-client communications are considered privileged under the law, and this introduces an additional element. The courts have previously voided prosecutions based on interception of lawyer-client talks—notably in the first Judith Coplon trial—when the interception was accomplished by illegal means.

But no one claims that Goldfine's room was "bugged" illegally. The listening device was outside the room; that much is agreed. The government argues that what was overheard in no way contributed to the committee's information and even if it did, the evidence would still be admissible. Goldfine and his attorneys should have spoken more softly.

If Williams can show a connection between the overheard conversation and the committee's questioning, the issue may finally come down to whether intercepting a privileged communication infringes the Fifth Amendment's ban on compulsory self-incrimination.

These Days

The Strauss Matter

Senator Magnuson of Washington says that it is not unusual to hold up a Presidential nomination for a Cabinet post a long time. President Eisenhower appointed Admiral Lewis L. Strauss to be Secretary of Commerce on October 24, 1958. It is now six months since that day. It might be interesting if Senator Magnuson, who presides over the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, which has to pass on Secretary Strauss' nomination, would have his staff do a research job to show how many Cabinet Officers' appointments have been held up for such a long period. Secretary of State Christian Herter was confirmed in four hours.

Furthermore, Senator Magnuson says that he does all this holding up to give Senator Estes Kefauver and Senator Clinton Anderson, who are not members of this committee, an opportunity to question Secretary Strauss, which they have the right to do, but should that privilege be used to hold up a Presidential nomination as long as they please? I hope that such questioning is in public, on television, so that the entire country can listen to the badgering of a public servant of fine qualifications and a great record of service.

Also, Senator Magnuson wants some scientists to have an opportunity to object to Secretary Strauss. It is reported that some scientists object to the way Strauss handled matters "involving fallout, clean bombs, weapon testing, and security regulations" when he was Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Of course, Admiral Strauss has been pretty tough on such scientists as were pro-Communist or pro-Russian, who while working for the government of the United States chose to put their private wisdom ahead of the adopted policies of our government. Do our Senators Kefauver and Anderson want the reputation of running interference for such persons?

It all started with the Oppenheimer Case concerning which Strauss took a rather strong stand and Oppenheimer was required to leave the Atomic Energy Commission because of Communist involvement.

It was unfortunate that we lost the services of Oppenheimer who has a fine scientific mind, but his own testimony convicted him of Communist participation, of being a blabber-mouth and at times, untruthful. Of Oppenheimer it can correctly be said that he convicted himself, that no witness did him in and that Strauss would have been derelict in his duty had he defended Oppenheimef.

The committee hearings to confirm Strauss started on March 17 and nothing has come of them up to the moment of writing this sentence. Meanwhile Strauss acts as Secretary of Commerce without Senatorial confirmation.

The scientists, incidentally, ought to have nothing to say except as citizens testifying before a Congressional committee under oath on pertinent matters. The question is not whether Admiral Strauss pleased the physicists but whether his experience, knowledge and wisdom justify his appointment as Secretary of Commerce. Senator Magnuson can bring in all the physicists in the United States to testify that they do not like Strauss. What would that prove about his ability to be Secretary of Commerce? What do the physicists known about commerce, domestic or foreign? Why not also bring in psychoanalysts?

We have here a confusion of authority. Although the Constitution provides that a Federal official shall be nominated by the President and confirmed by the Senate, it was never intended that the Senate should use its confirming powers to embarrass the President for political reasons, to try to rake up ancient and settled issues, to seek out unfriendly witnesses and to delay action in an outrageous manner. This is precisely what Senator Magnuson is doing and it is intolerable from the standpoint of efficient government.

Senator Magnuson has also said that such an article as this one is was being put into the newspapers by Admiral Strauss' friends. For the Senator's information, this one was not inspired by anyone but Senator Magnuson whose statements to the press on the subject bespeak the folly of attempting to operate government by whim and spite.

The confirming power of the Senate is an important chain in the balance of power which is the characteristic of our form of government. Whenever any phase of government is abused by officials, it puts the entire system out of gear; it engenders confusion and disrespect among the people not only for the contumacious lawmakers but for the form of government.

Adm. Strauss And Friends Created Jigsaw Puzzle Of Atomic Reactors

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — It takes an expert at jigsaw puzzles to follow all the operations of Adm. Lewis Strauss and his friends in the field of atomic energy. But the pieces when patiently put together form a revealing picture. The picture is one of favoritism for certain big corporations and such an intimate interchange of Atomic Energy officials with these corporations that it's difficult to ascertain where government interest stopped and private interest started.

Most interesting part of the jigsaw puzzle is that regarding a gas-cooled atomic reactor. This is the revolutionary peacetime atomic plant to be used for the generation of electricity, for merchant ships and the atomic airplane. For some years Admiral Strauss, as head of the Atomic Energy Commission, opposed development of a gas-cooled reactor. He stalled so long that he let the British get far ahead of us.

The Congressional atomic watchdog committee kept needling him and even introduced legislation requiring him to build a gas-cooled atomic reactor. But Admiral Strauss was adamant. As late as August 3, 1957, he wrote Congressman Sterling Cole (R., N.Y.): "The commission opposes inclusion of this project in the bill."

Finally, on June 26, 1958, four days before he left office, Strauss awarded a contract for a gas cooled reactor to be built by General Dynamics for an atomic merchant ship. He let the contract under interesting circumstances.

In the first place, 18 companies submitted proposals. Second, General Dynamics had had no experience with atomic reactors but got the contract. There were no competitive bids. Third, some of Strauss's friends went to work for General Dynamics. Here is the roll call:

Dr. Frederic de Hoffman, close associate to Dr. Edward Teller, both of whom were always available to back up Strauss policies, had been hired by General Dynamics.

C. Arthur Rolander, a special attorney used by Strauss in the purge of Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, was hired by General Dynamics as representative in Washington right after the contract was let.

Everett Hollis, Strauss's former public relations adviser in the AEC, has now gone to work for General Dynamics.

W. Kenneth Davis, head of the atomic reactor program under Strauss, left the AEC to take a job with the Bechtel Corporation, which together with General Dynamics received an important contract from the AEC to build an entire atomic power plant for Philadelphia Electric and a gas-cooled reactor as part of it.

General Dynamics Gets Two

Thus General Dynamics got two gas-cooled reactor contracts, one for a merchant ship, the other for Philadelphia Electric and associated companies. Significantly, it got the contracts only after Admiral Strauss had opposed building any gas-cooled reactors and had resisted all pressure by the Congressional watchdog committee to build them.

Only after General Dynamics got into the picture did Strauss decide to reverse his previous policy. By that time Britain was far ahead of the United States.

However, the British obligingly traded us gas-cooled reactor secrets for our atomic submarine secrets. Obligingly also, the AEC department, then under Kenneth Davis, gave General Dynamics access to this British secret research. The company thus gained an important advantage over its competitors.

Admiral Staruss had left the AEC by the time the second reactor contract was let to the Philadelphia Electric combine. This turned out to be a very happy arrangement for those who were friendly to the powers that be in the Atomic Energy Commission.

What made it happy was that the Bechtel Corporation got the contract for building the over-all power plant for Philadelphia Electric, while General Dynamics got the $14,500,000 contract to build the gas-cooled reactor to go into the power plant.

And, of course, John McCone, the man Admiral Strauss picked to succeed him as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, had been head of the Bechtel Corporation, while Kenneth Davis, former head of the AEC's reactor program, had gone to work for Bechtel. By intriguing coincidence these men and these companies all found themselves working together on the most important power project in postwar history.

Illegal Contract?

What made it all the more intriguing was the fact that the AEC's legal division had declared the whole Bechtel-General Dynamics project for the Philadelphia Electric combine illegal.

In a memo dated January 2, 1959, the AEC general counsel's office warned: "Based upon technical evaluation of the proposal of the Philadelphia Electric Company for the design, construction and operation of a gas-cooled power reactor, I am of the opinion that the Philadelphia Electric proposal deviates from the statutory criteria . . . I am of the opinion that there is substantial doubt as to AEC's authority to enter into a cooperative arrangement with Philadelphia Electric Company on the basis of the proposal."

Yet Chairman McCone ignored this legal opinion and went ahead with the contract benefitting his former company.

Meanwhile, working for Bechtel, Davis dramatically reversed his opinion of gas-cooled reactors. As Strauss's spokesman on atomic reactors, he had disapproved and deprecated the gas-cooled design as long as the watchdog committee wanted General Electric to build it under Admiral Rickover. Once the contract was in the hands of General Dynamics and Bechtel, however, Davis began singing a different tune. All of a sudden, he realized the value of gas-cooled reactors.

This is part of the jigsaw puzzle of Admiral Strauss and friends in the Atomic Energy Commission.

New Protection Against Compulsory Unionism

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON, April 27 — The biggest piece of news in the political arena since the Congressional election last November is the way a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats can line up to keep the Senate almost evenly divided and force passage of remedial legislation or compromises on radical proposals. The two-thirds majority won by the Democrats at the polls last autumn, which was counted on to override any Presidential veto, has vanished. Mr. Eisenhower's power on basic economic issues has, in effect, been restored.

Only two Northern Democrats — Senators Lausche of Ohio and Dodd of Connecticut — stood with the Republicans, while only two Republicans — Senators Javits of New York and Langer of North Dakota — deserted the otherwise solid front that was presented last week by 32 Republicans in making it possible, with the addition of 15 Southern votes, for the Senate to adopt a "bill of rights" to protect the members of labor unions in America.

The particular amendment that was passed may yet be further changed by other amendments in conference between the two Houses, but the die has been cast — the Senate has gone on record not only against the practices of corruption that have victimized union members and led to a misuse of their dues money, but against the coercive threats inside and outside of labor-union meetings that have abused the "civil rights" of many workers.

Congress, due to the heroic battle waged by Senator John McClellan, Democrat, head of the Senate Rackets Committee, is apparently awake now to the perils of the labor-union monopoly. The danger is in many respects worse today than it was when the corporations had a stranglehold on American business before Congress began to pass strong laws banning concerted "restraints of trade" and "trusts."

What makes so significant the adoption of the original "bill of rights" amendment to the labor-reform bill by a 47-46 vote of the Senate is that last November many millions of dollars were spent by the union forces to elect a large number of Northern Democrats and generally to fight Republicans. Today the Republicans from the North again have as their allies the Conservative Democrats from the South.

This is a salutary development for America. It means that other unsound measures, like those calling for excessive spending by government, can be held in check, too, by the threat or use of the veto. For it is these pressures, along with the monopoly power of large unions, that are to a large extent responsible for sending prices upward and bringing about today's inflation.

Politically, embarrassment has come to the Democratic Presidential aspirants as a result of last week's roll calls. Every one of them present voted on the side of those who would sabotage the "bill of rights" for labor-union members. The on candidate who was absent — Senator Humphrey of Minnesota — was announced as against the "bill of rights" amendment voted on last Wednesday. Only Vice President Nixon — who had a chance, when this particular amendment was being reconsidered, to cast his vote to break a tie — came out of the scuffle with his prestige as a Presidential candidate enhanced. He stood with the rank and file of America's workers against the labor bosses.

There will be more test votes taken on fundamental issues arising out of the pending labor bill before Congress is finished with it. The labor-union bosses, while stating that they will accept the compromise bill passed by the Senate, will try in the House to water it down further. In the House of Representatives, however, there's an even stronger coalition available in support of the Senate action.

Incidentally, the labor-union chieftains do not seem to worry about the fact that, under the compulsory-union privileges hitherto granted them by federal law, the right of free speech and the right of free association have been in many cases taken from American citizens. The labor bosses, applying the same sort of argument about alleged interference in union affairs, spent many millions of dollars last year in campaign propaganda distorting the "right to work" principle into an alleged hostility to labor unionism itself.

The revelations by the Senate Rackets Committee have shown the American people how monopoly power in the handling of labor-union affairs can aid the gangsters to get control of unions. It is a weak rebuttal to say that the addition of a "bill of rights" amendment may endanger the passage of any anti-racketeering bill at all at this session. If the Congress is going to be intimidated by such pressures, the sooner the American people know the facts, the more effectively they can prepare to defeat at the next election those Senators and Representatives who will have stood in the way of remedial legislation. For this reform is intended to preserve the "civil rights" of workers against the flagrant abuses that have arisen under the various forms of compulsory unionization that now prevail in America.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

Only Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson and Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield remain of the original "team" that entered Washington with Mr. Eisenhower on January 20, 1953.

This attrition, and the necessity to find new and capable men to train to succeed the departed ones, has added greatly to the burdens carried by Ike as he works through the remaining two years of his Presidency.

Particularly since the onslaught of Dulles' illness, the greater workload on President Eisenhower has been noticeable. His vacations and periods of relaxation at his Gettysburg farm are shorter, and more frequently interrupted by hasty return trips to the White House.

However, outwardly at least, the increasing burdens have not reflected any flagging of the President's spirit or determination. He has taken on the weighty task of personally directing American foreign policy in the critical times marked by the Berlin crisis, renewed Communist efforts to penetrate the Middle East, and a more truculent Premier Nikita Khrushchev as the Russian leader's consolidated power is shown in tougher stances.

More than ever in the last six years, President Eisenhower today is involved in a personal leadership situation, rather than in the "team" or military staff approach he brought to the White House.

Good News For Dick

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

There is good news for Vice President Richard Nixon in a poll of the politically strategic state of Wisconsin taken a few weeks ago on behalf of Sen. John F. Kennedy.

There is even better news for Kennedy; but public opinion tests showing the present popularity of the young man from Massachusetts are relatively old hat. Several past tests have also showed, however, that New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller would be harder for a Democrat to beat than the Vice President would be. Wisconsin's good news for the Vice President is a sharp reversal of this pro-Rockefeller trend.

In summary, the Wisconsin poll showed Nixon defeating any of the Democrats included except Kennedy, while all the Democrats defeated Rockefeller by substantial margins. The results may be tabulated as follows, the percentage polled by the Democrats given first in all cases.

	Nixon	Rockefeller
Kennedy	53-47	63-37
Humphrey	48-52	54-46
Kefauver	49-51	56-44
Williams	45-55	53-47

This political poll was taken as a by-product of another sort of statewide opinion test by the well-known professional poller, Louis Harris, who has made other polls for the Kennedy organization. The name of Sen. Estes Kefauver was included in the poll because of the strength he was known to have among Wisconsin Democrats. Gov. Mennen Williams of Michigan was picked as another unwitting contestant because there was vague talk that he might try to get his Presidential candidacy off the ground by entering next year's Wisconsin primary. A notable omission among the shadow candidates was Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri.

With respect to Nixon and Rockefeller, the Wisconsin poll results almost exactly reversed the results of another Harris poll of eight West Coast cities. In that poll, taken early this winter, Nixon was roundly beaten by all three Democrats included in the list, Kennedy, Humphrey and Symington; while Rockefeller defeated both Symington and Humphrey, but was defeated by Kennedy.

Wisconsin is very far from the West Coast. The Wisconsin Republicans, who were of course proportionally represented in the more recent poll, also included a high proportion of admirers of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy who would favor Nixon over Rockefeller. Yet the spread between the Rockefeller vote and the Nixon vote in this Wisconsin poll is sufficiently great to suggest something larger than a local Wisconsin reaction.

The Wisconsin poll suggests, in fact, that voters across the country have been less impressed by the wisdom and courage of the Rockefeller legislative program, than by the simple, painful fact that the Governor asked his New Yorkers to pay new taxes. If other polls continue to show that Nixon has a better chance to win than Rockefeller, the Vice President can consider himself nominated before the Republican convention even assembles.

This very good news for Nixon is slightly poisoned, it must be added, by the character of the good news for Kennedy. Another Harris poll, taken in Wisconsin in the summer of last year, showed much the same broad pattern —Nixon losing to Kennedy but beating all the other Democrats. But in this 1958 poll, Nixon lost to Kennedy by a mere hair, 49.6 to 50.4, whereas in the 1959 poll the margin of defeat, 47 to 53, was considerably wider. The margins by which Nixon defeated the other Democrats were also substantially narrower in the recent poll than in the 1958 poll. If these latest results can be trusted, in short, Nixon is gaining on Rockefeller, but his party has been losing ground rather badly in Wisconsin.

Other results in the same poll cast an interesting light on the strategically important Wisconsin Democratic primary. When asked which of their party's possible candidates they preferred, 40 per cent of the Democrats polled picked Kennedy; 16 per cent picked Humphrey; 15 per cent picked Kefauver; 4 per cent picked Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas; 3 per cent chose Symington and another 3 per cen. chose Gov. Williams; and 19 per cent were undecided. In a two-man choice, Kennedy was named by 60 per cent of the Democrats, with 40 per cent going to Humphrey.

Some may be inclined to suspect these results because of their source. But Harris is a serious, professional practitioner of his peculiar specialty. His results cross-check very neatly with those secured by other pollers in other areas, especially on the most doubtful point, the strong support for Sen. Kennedy. And the Senator himself evidently regards the Harris polls as useful indicators, since the Harris findings in Wisconsin were an important background motive of his recent Wisconsin stumping tour.

Baby's Squeaky Breathing May Mean Nothing

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many mothers are concerned with the way the new baby breathes, especially when the respirations are rapid or irregular. These variations can be expected because the lungs are not fully expanded during the first few days of life. A fairly regular rhythm is soon established.

Some youngsters develop squeaky breathing when they are two to three weeks old. The noise occurs only during inspiration and is most pronounced when the baby is excited or crying. The parents become worried when the condition continues, more so when it gets louder.

But the noisy breather is in no distress, even though the respiratory crow gets louder and more noticeable. The skin seldom turns blue and the voice is normal. Gradual improvement occurs during the latter half of the first year and the youngster is well by his second birthday.

These infants have congenital laryngeal stridor. There is partial obstruction in the upper air passageways and the sound is produced when the inhaled air is forced through the narrowed windpipe. Exhaling is easy and quiet.

The cause is not known except that there is a delay in the development of the tissues of the respiratory tree. The structures have not acquired the stability to withstand the forces of fast breathing. The airway vibrates in the breeze like a soft rubber tube when air is forced through rapidly.

The physician should be consulted, however, because other types of stridor may not have as happy an ending. In some instances the noise stems from the vocal cords which are partially paralyzed or handicapped by a wartlike growth. Vocal changes are more noticeable than are breathing changes and the obstruction does not improve with age. X-rays may be needed to determine whether a chest tumor is pressing on the windpipe.

TOMORROW: Surgery and other cancer treatments.

OBSESSIONAL BEHAVIOR

Mrs. M. M. writes: A friend of mine has a relative who, before going to bed every night, chips the paint off some part of the wall or mars the furniture. Don't you think he has paranoid tendencies?

REPLY

No. The person with a paranoid personality has abnormal fears that others are trying to harm or kill him. This man is acting like a child or a feeble-minded individual. It would be interesting to know the reason for this strange bedtime ritual.

OPERATION STILL NEEDED

D. J. writes: Is it true that cataracts are dissolved now, rather, than removed by operation.

REPLY

No. An enzyme is available to dissolve the ligaments that hold the lens in place. But this procedure will not eliminate the clouded lens; it must be removed surgically.

BOOKS ON TB

L. K. writes: Are there any books on tuberculosis that a victim of this disease could read with profit?

REPLY

Yes — send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a list of such books.

INDIGESTION

E. D. writes: When I smoke a cigaret in the morning I get heartburn. Could this mean I have ulcer?

REPLY

No. Apparently nicotine increases the acid content of the stomach to such an extent that heartburn ensues.

SLEEPYHEAD

M. D. writes: Could low blood pressure make me feel sleepy and yawny most of the time?

REPLY

No, but whatever is lowering your blood pressure also may be responsible for your fatigue.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

At a fashionable night club, a girl-about-town boasted to a friend in the powder room "I had my nose bobbed for eight hundred dollars and already I've been taken for Kim Novak."

"You've been taken, all right," sneered the friend — "for eight hundred dollars."

New Phase Of Goldfine Case

During its spectacular life on the nation's front pages, the tale of Bernard Goldfine and his friends ofen seemed an incredible pastiche of low comedy, Greek tragedy, and social thesis novel But the Goldfine affair enters a new and totally different phase, beginning today.

Goldfine's attorney, Edward Bennett Williams, will try to convince a federal judge in Washington that contempt of Congress charges against his client sould be voided. Goldfine was cited for refusing to answer 18 questions concerning his business practices and his relations with Sherman Adams which were put to him by the House Subcommittee on Legislative Oversight (the so-called Harris committee). Williams contends that the questions were based in part on evidence obtained by electronic eavesdropping on conversations between Goldfine and his attorneys in a Washington hotel room last July.

Unlike wiretap evidence which is generally inadmissible in federal courts, evidence and leads obtained by eavesdropping techniques do not fall under a flat ban. However, lawyer-client communications are considered privileged under the law, and this introduces an additional element. The courts have previously voided prosecutions based on interception of lawyer-client talks—notably in the first Judith Coplon trial—when the interception was accomplished by illegal means.

But no one claims that Goldfine's room was "bugged" illegally. The listening device was outside the room; that much is agreed. The government argues that what was overheard in no way contributed to the committee's information and even if it did, the evidence would still be admissible. Goldfine and his attorneys should have spoken more softly.

If Williams can show a connection between the overheard conversation and the committee's questioning, the issue may finally come down to whether intercepting a privileged communication infringes the Fifth Amendment's ban on compulsory self-incrimination.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Strauss Matter

Senator Magnuson of Washington says that it is not unusual to hold up a Presidential nomination for a Cabinet post a long time. President Eisenhower appointed Admiral Lewis L. Strauss to be Secretary of Commerce on October 24, 1958. It is now six months since that day. It might be interesting if Senator Magnuson, who presides over the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, which has to pass on Secretary Strauss' nomination, would have his staff do a research job to show how many Cabinet Officers' appointments have been held up for such a long period. Secretary of State Christian Herter was confirmed in four hours.

Furthermore, Senator Magnuson says that he does all this holding up to give Senator Estes Kefauver and Senator Clinton Anderson, who are not members of this committee, an opportunity to question Secretary Strauss, which they have the right to do, but should that privilege be used to hold up a Presidential nomination as long as they please? I hope that such questioning is in public, on television, so that the entire country can listen to the badgering of a public servant of fine qualifications and a great record of service.

Also, Senator Magnuson wants some scientists to have an opportunity to object to Secretary Strauss. It is reported that some scientists object to the way Strauss handled matters "involving fallout, clean bombs, weapon testing, and security regulations" when he was Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Of course, Admiral Strauss has been pretty tough on such scientists as were pro-Communist or pro-Russian, who while working for the government of the United States chose to put their private wisdom ahead of the adopted policies of our government. Do our Senators Kefauver and Anderson want the reputation of running interference for such persons?

It all started with the Oppenheimer Case concerning which Strauss took a rather strong stand and Oppenheimer was required to leave the Atomic Energy Commission because of Communist involvement.

It was unfortunate that we lost the services of Oppenheimer who has a fine scientific mind, but his own testimony convicted him of Communist participation, of being a blabber-mouth and at times, untruthful. Of Oppenheimer it can correctly be said that he convicted himself, that no witness did him in and that Strauss would have been derelict in his duty had he defended Oppenheimer.

The committee hearings to confirm Strauss started on March 17 and nothing has come of them up to the moment of writing this sentence. Meanwhile Strauss acts as Secretary of Commerce without Senatorial confirmation.

The scientists, incidentally, ought to have nothing to say except as citizens testifying before a Congressional committee under oath on pertinent matters. The question is not whether Admiral Strauss pleased the physicists but whether his experience, knowledge and wisdom justify his appointment as Secretary of Commerce. Senator Magnuson can bring in all the physicists in the United States to testify that they do not like Strauss. What would that prove about his ability to be Secretary of Commerce? What do the physicists known about commerce, domestic or foreign? Why not also bring in psychoanalysts?

We have here a confusion of authority. Although the Constitution provides that a Federal official shall be nominated by the President and confirmed by the Senate, it was never intended that the Senate should use its confirming powers to embarrass the President for political reasons, to try to rake up ancient and settled issues, to seek out unfriendly witnesses and to delay action in an outrageous manner. This is precisely what Senator Magnuson is doing and it is intolerable from the standpoint of efficient government.

Senator Magnuson has also said that such an article as this one is was being put into the newspapers by Admiral Strauss' friends. For the Senator's information, this one was not inspired by anyone but Senator Magnuson whose statements to the press on the subject bespeak the folly of attempting to operate government by whim and spite.

The confirming power of the Senate is an important chain in the balance of power which is the characteristic of our form of government. Whenever any phase of government is abused by officials, it puts the entire system out of gear; it engenders confusion and disrespect among the people not only for the contumacious lawmakers but for the form of government.

Adm. Strauss And Friends Created Jigsaw Puzzle Of Atomic Reactors

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — It takes an expert at jigsaw puzzles to follow all the operations of Adm. Lewis Strauss and his friends in the field of atomic energy. But the pieces when patiently put together form a revealing picture. The picture is one of favoritism for certain big corporations and such an intimate interchange of Atomic Energy officials with these corporations that it's difficult to ascertain where government interest stopped and private interest started.

Most interesting part of the jigsaw puzzle is that regarding a gas-cooled atomic reactor. This is the revolutionary peacetime atomic plant to be used for the generation of electricity, for merchant ships and the atomic airplane. For some years Admiral Strauss, as head of the Atomic Energy Commission, opposed development of a gas-cooled reactor. He stalled so long that he let the British get far ahead of us.

The Congressional atomic watchdog committee kept needling him and even introduced legislation requiring him to build a gas-cooled atomic reactor. But Admiral Strauss was adamant. As late as August 3, 1957, he wrote Congressman Sterling Cole (R., N.Y.): "The commission opposes inclusion of this project in the bill."

Finally, on June 26, 1958, four days before he left office, Strauss awarded a contract for a gas cooled reactor to be built by General Dynamics for an atomic merchant ship. He let the contract under interesting circumstances.

In the first place, 18 companies submitted proposals. Second, General Dynamics had had no experience with atomic reactors but got the contract. There were no competitive bids. Third, some of Strauss's friends went to work for General Dynamics. Here is the roll call:

Dr. Frederic de Hoffman, close associate to Dr. Edward Teller, both of whom were always available to back up Strauss policies, had been hired by General Dynamics.

C. Arthur Rolander, a special attorney used by Strauss in the purge of Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, was hired by General Dynamics as representative in Washington right after the contract was let.

Everett Hollis, Strauss's former public relations adviser in the AEC, has now gone to work for General Dynamics.

W. Kenneth Davis, head of the atomic reactor program under Strauss, left the AEC to take a job with the Bechtel Corporation, which together with General Dynamics received an important contract from the AEC to build an entire atomic power plant for Philadelphia Electric and a gas-cooled reactor as part of it.

General Dynamics Gets Two

Thus General Dynamics got two gas-cooled reactor contracts, one for a merchant ship, the other for Philadelphia Electric and associated companies. Significantly, it got the contracts only after Admiral Strauss had opposed building any gas-cooled reactors and had resisted all pressure by the Congressional watchdog committee to build them.

Only after General Dynamics got into the picture did Strauss decide to reverse his previous policy. By that time Britain was far ahead of the United States.

However, the British obligingly traded us gas-cooled reactor secrets for our atomic submarine secrets. Obligingly also, the AEC department, then under Kenneth Davis, gave General Dynamics access to this British secret research. The company thus gained an important advantage over its competitors.

Admiral Staruss had left the AEC by the time the second reactor contract was let to the Philadelphia Electric combine. This turned out to be a very happy arrangement for those who were friendly to the powers that be in the Atomic Energy Commission.

What made it happy was that the Bechtel Corporation got the contract for building the over-all power plant for Philadelphia Electric, while General Dynamics got the $14,500,000 contract to build the gas-cooled reactor to go into the power plant.

And, of course, John McCone, the man Admiral Strauss picked to succeed him as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, had been head of the Bechtel Corporation, while Kenneth Davis, former head of the AEC's reactor program, had gone to work for Bechtel. By intriguing coincidence these men and these companies all found themselves working together on the most important power project in postwar history.

Illegal Contract?

What made it all the more intriguing was the fact that the AEC's legal division had declared the whole Bechtel-General Dynamics project for the Philadelphia Electric combine illegal.

In a memo dated January 2, 1959, the AEC general counsel's office warned: "Based upon technical evaluation of the proposal of the Philadelphia Electric Company for the design, construction and operation of a gas-cooled power reactor, I am of the opinion that the Philadelphia Electric proposal deviates from the statutory criteria . . . I am of the opinion that there is substantial doubt as to AEC's authority to enter into a cooperative arrangement with Philadelphia Electric Company on the basis of the proposal."

Yet Chairman McCone ignored this legal opinion and went ahead with the contract benefitting his former company.

Meanwhile, working for Bechtel, Davis dramatically reversed his opinion of gas-cooled reactors. As Strauss's spokesman on atomic reactors, he had disapproved and deprecated the gas-cooled design as long as the watchdog committee wanted General Electric to build it under Admiral Rickover. Once the contract was in the hands of General Dynamics and Bechtel, however, Davis began singing a different tune. All of a sudden, he realized the value of gas-cooled reactors.

This is part of the jigsaw puzzle of Admiral Strauss and friends in the Atomic Energy Commission.

New Protection Against Compulsory Unionism

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON, April 27 — The biggest piece of news in the political arena since the Congressional election last November is the way a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats can line up to keep the Senate almost evenly divided and force passage of remedial legislation or compromises on radical proposals. The two-thirds majority won by the Democrats at the polls last autumn, which was counted on to override any Presidential veto, has vanished. Mr. Eisenhower's power on basic economic issues has, in effect, been restored.

Only two Northern Democrats — Senators Lausche of Ohio and Dodd of Connecticut — stood with the Republicans, while only two Republicans — Senators Javits of New York and Langer of North Dakota — deserted the otherwise solid front that was presented last week by 32 Republicans in making it possible, with the addition of 15 Southern votes, for the Senate to adopt a "bill of rights" to protect the members of labor unions in America.

The particular amendment that was passed may yet be further changed by other amendments in conference between the two Houses, but the die has been cast — the Senate has gone on record not only against the practices of corruption that have victimized union members and led to a misuse of their dues money, but against the coercive threats inside and outside of labor-union meetings that have abused the "civil rights" of many workers.

Congress, due to the heroic battle waged by Senator John McClellan, Democrat, head of the Senate Rackets Committee, is apparently awake now to the perils of the labor-union monopoly. The danger is in many respects worse today than it was when the corporations had a stranglehold on American business before Congress began to pass strong laws banning concerted "restraints of trade" and "trusts."

What makes so significant the adoption of the original "bill of rights" amendment to the labor-reform bill by a 47-46 vote of the Senate is that last November many millions of dollars were spent by the union forces to elect a large number of Northern Democrats and generally to fight Republicans. Today the Republicans from the North again have as their allies the Conservative Democrats from the South.

This is a salutary development for America. It means that other unsound measures, like those calling for excessive spending by government, can be held in check, too, by the threat or use of the veto. For it is these pressures, along with the monopoly power of large unions, that are to a large extent responsible for sending prices upward and bringing about today's inflation.

Politically, embarrassment has come to the Democratic Presidential aspirants as a result of last week's roll calls. Every one of them present voted on the side of those who would sabotage the "bill of rights" for labor-union members. The on candidate who was absent — Senator Humphrey of Minnesota — was announced as against the "bill of rights" amendment voted on last Wednesday. Only Vice President Nixon — who had a chance, when this particular amendment was being reconsidered, to cast his vote to break a tie — came out of the scuffle with his prestige as a Presidential candidate enhanced. He stood with the rank and file of America's workers against the labor bosses.

There will be more test votes taken on fundamental issues arising out of the pending labor bill before Congress is finished with it. The labor-union bosses, while stating that they will accept the compromise bill passed by the Senate, will try in the House to water it down further. In the House of Representatives, however, there's an even stronger coalition available in support of the Senate action.

Incidentally, the labor-union chieftains do not seem to worry about the fact that, under the compulsory-union privileges hitherto granted them by federal law, the right of free speech and the right of free association have been in many cases taken from American citizens. The labor bosses, applying the same sort of argument about alleged interference in union affairs, spent many millions of dollars last year in campaign propaganda distorting the "right to work" principle into an alleged hostility to labor unionism itself.

The revelations by the Senate Rackets Committee have shown the American people how monopoly power in the handling of labor-union affairs can aid the gangsters to get control of unions. It is a weak rebuttal to say that the addition of a "bill of rights" amendment may endanger the passage of any anti-racketeering bill at all at this session. If the Congress is going to be intimidated by such pressures, the sooner the American people know the facts, the more effectively they can prepare to defeat at the next election those Senators and Representatives who will have stood in the way of remedial legislation. For this reform is intended to preserve the "civil rights" of workers against the flagrant abuses that have arisen under the various forms of compulsory unionization that now prevail in America.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

Only Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson and Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield remain of the original "team" that entered Washington with Mr. Eisenhower on January 20, 1953.

This attrition, and the necessity to find new and capable men to train to succeed the departed ones, has added greatly to the burdens carried by Ike as he works through the remaining two years of his Presidency.

Particularly since the onslaught of Dulles' illness, the greater workload on President Eisenhower has been noticeable. His vacations and periods of relaxation at his Gettysburg farm are shorter, and more frequently interrupted by hasty return trips to the White House.

However, outwardly at least, the increasing burdens have not reflected any flagging of the President's spirit or determination. He has taken on the weighty task of personally directing American foreign policy in the critical times marked by the Berlin crisis, renewed Communist efforts to penetrate the Middle East, and a more truculent Premier Nikita Khrushchev as the Russian leader's consolidated power is shown in tougher stances.

More than ever in the last six years, President Eisenhower today is involved in a personal leadership situation, rather than in the "team" or military staff approach he brought to the White House.

Good News For Dick

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

There is good news for Vice President Richard Nixon in a poll of the politically strategic state of Wisconsin taken a few weeks ago on behalf of Sen. John F. Kennedy.

There is even better news for Kennedy; but public opinion tests showing the present popularity of the young man from Massachusetts are relatively old hat. Several past tests have also showed, however, that New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller would be harder for a Democrat to beat than the Vice President would be. Wisconsin's good news for the Vice President is a sharp reversal of this pro-Rockefeller trend.

In summary, the Wisconsin poll showed Nixon defeating any of the Democrats included except Kennedy, while all the Democrats defeated Rockefeller by substantial margins. The results may be tabulated as follows, the percentage polled by the Democrats given first in all cases.

	Nixon	Rockefeller
Kennedy	53-47	63-37
Humphrey	48-52	54-46
Kefauver	49-51	56-44
Williams	45-55	53-47

This political poll was taken as a by-product of another sort of statewide opinion test by the well-known professional poller, Louis Harris, who has made other polls for the Kennedy organization. The name of Sen. Estes Kefauver was included in the poll because of the strength he was known to have among Wisconsin Democrats. Gov. Mennen Williams of Michigan was picked as another unwitting contestant because there was vague talk that he might try to get his Presidential candidacy off the ground by entering next year's Wisconsin primary. A notable omission among the shadow candidates was Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri.

With respect to Nixon and Rockefeller, the Wisconsin poll results almost exactly reversed the results of another Harris poll of eight West Coast cities. In that poll, taken early this winter, Nixon was roundly beaten by all three Democrats included in the list, Kennedy, Humphrey and Symington; while Rockefeller defeated both Symington and Humphrey, but was defeated by Kennedy.

Wisconsin is very far from the West Coast. The Wisconsin Republicans, who were of course proportionally represented in the more recent poll, also included a high proportion of admirers of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy who would favor Nixon over Rockefeller. Yet the spread between the Rockefeller vote and the Nixon vote in this Wisconsin poll is sufficiently great to suggest something larger than a local Wisconsin reaction.

The Wisconsin poll suggests, in fact, that voters across the country have been less impressed by the wisdom and courage of the Rockefeller legislative program, than by the simple, painful fact that the Governor asked his New Yorkers to pay new taxes. If other polls continue to show that Nixon has a better chance to win than Rockefeller, the Vice President can consider himself nominated before the Republican convention even assembles.

This very good news for Nixon is slightly poisoned, it must be added, by the character of the good news for Kennedy. Another Harris poll, taken in Wisconsin in the summer of last year, showed much the same broad pattern —Nixon losing to Kennedy but beating all the other Democrats. But in this 1958 poll, Nixon lost to Kennedy by a mere hair, 49.6 to 50.4, whereas in the 1959 poll the margin of defeat, 47 to 53, was considerably wider. The margins by which Nixon defeated the other Democrats were also substantially narrower in the recent poll than in the 1958 poll. If these latest results can be trusted, in short, Nixon is gaining on Rockefeller, but his party has been losing ground rather badly in Wisconsin.

Other results in the same poll cast an interesting light on the strategically important Wisconsin Democratic primary. When asked which of their party's possible candidates they preferred, 40 per cent of the Democrats polled picked Kennedy; 16 per cent picked Humphrey; 15 per cent picked Kefauver; 4 per cent picked Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas; 3 per cent chose Symington and another 3 per cen. chose Gov. Williams; and 19 per cent were undecided. In a two-man choice, Kennedy was named by 60 per cent of the Democrats, with 40 per cent going to Humphrey.

Some may be inclined to suspect these results because of their source. But Harris is a serious, professional practitioner of his peculiar specialty. His results cross-check very neatly with those secured by other pollers in other areas, especially on the most doubtful point, the strong support for Sen. Kennedy. And the Senator himself evidently regards the Harris polls as useful indicators, since the Harris findings in Wisconsin were an important background motive of his recent Wisconsin stumping tour.

Baby's Squeaky Breathing May Mean Nothing

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many mothers are concerned with the way the new baby breathes, especially when the respirations are rapid or irregular. These variations can be expected because the lungs are not fully expanded during the first few days of life. A fairly regular rhythm is soon established.

Some youngsters develop squeaky breathing when they are two to three weeks old. The noise occurs only during inspiration and is most pronounced when the baby is excited or crying. The parents become worried when the condition continues, more so when it gets louder.

But the noisy breather is in no distress, even though the respiratory crow gets louder and more noticeable. The skin seldom turns blue and the voice is normal. Gradual improvement occurs during the latter half of the first year and the youngster is well by his second birthday.

These infants have congenital laryngeal stridor. There is partial obstruction in the upper air passageways and the sound is produced when the inhaled air is forced through the narrowed windpipe. Exhaling is easy and quiet.

The cause is not known except that there is a delay in the development of the tissues of the respiratory tree. The structures have not acquired the stability to withstand the forces of fast breathing. The airway vibrates in the breeze like a soft rubber tube when air is forced through rapidly.

The physician should be consulted, however, because other types of stridor may not have as happy an ending. In some instances the noise stems from the vocal cords which are partially paralyzed or handicapped by a wartlike growth. Vocal changes are more noticeable than are breathing changes and the obstruction does not improve with age. X-rays may be needed to determine whether a chest tumor is pressing on the windpipe.

TOMORROW: Surgery and other cancer treatments.

OBSESSIONAL BEHAVIOR

Mrs. M. M. writes: A friend of mine has a relative who, before going to bed every night, chips the paint off some part of the wall or mars the furniture. Don't you think he has paranoid tendencies?

REPLY

No. The person with a paranoid personality has abnormal fears that others are trying to harm or kill him. This man is acting like a child or a feeble-minded individual. It would be interesting to know the reason for this strange bedtime ritual.

OPERATION STILL NEEDED

D. J. writes: Is it true that cataracts are dissolved now, rather, than removed by operation.

REPLY

No. An enzyme is available to dissolve the ligaments that hold the lens in place. But this procedure will not eliminate the clouded lens; it must be removed surgically.

BOOKS ON TB

L. K. writes: Are there any books on tuberculosis that a victim of this disease could read with profit?

REPLY

Yes — send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a list of such books.

INDIGESTION

E. D. writes: When I smoke a cigaret in the morning I get heartburn. Could this mean I have ulcer?

REPLY

No. Apparently nicotine increases the acid content of the stomach to such an extent that heartburn ensues.

SLEEPYHEAD

M. D. writes: Could low blood pressure make me feel sleepy and yawny most of the time?

REPLY

No, but whatever is lowering your blood pressure also may be responsible for your fatigue.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

LaSalle Meets Allegany In Second Game Of City Series

Campobello Is Scene Of Game Today

Mt. Savage Invades Beall; Bruce Will Battle Fort Hill

The second game of the triangular series for the city baseball championship is scheduled for today at Campobello where Norman Sell's LaSalle Explorers and Chester G. Payne's Allegany High Campers clash at 4 p. m.

Fort Hill got the jump in the city series by winning the first game from LaSalle by the score of 6-5.

LaSalle, Fort Hill and Mt. Savage are tied for first place in the Allegany County High School League race with 3-1 records while Allegany and Beall are one game off the pace with 2-2 records.

Campers Swept Series

Allegany swept the LaSalle series last year, winning by scores of 7-6 and 6-3 with Lefty Bill Hook accounting for both victories. The teams split even in 1957 in a pair of 10-9 contests. In 1956 Allegany captured the opener, 3-1, and lost the second, 6-4. The Explorers took both 1955 games, 16-2 and 6-1, after they divided a pair of shutouts in 1954 — won by LaSalle 7-0, and Allegany 3-0. Thus over the past five years the local schools have split even in ten games.

Mt. Savage's Indians are slated to do battle with Beall High's Mountaineers today at 4 p. m. at Frostburg, Fort Hill's Sentinels tangle with the Bruce Bulldogs in Westernport at 4 p. m., and Flintstone's Aggies host Valley's Black Knights at 3:0 in other league action.

Unbeaten Teams To Play

Keyser High School, leading the P.V.C. race with a 5-0 record, winds up its series with the Vikings today at Petersburg. Romney, also unbeaten in the conference goes after its fifth victory when it plays host to Elk Garden.

The third conference game of the day finds Capon Bridge at Mathias, which is 3-0 to date in defense of the title it won a year ago.

Romney holds a 4-1 decision over Elk Garden while Keyser won the series opener with Petersburg by the score of 13-8.

Topflight Trio Gets Bad Start

Musial, Ashburn, Mantle Disappoint

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Is this the beginning of the end for Stan Musial?

His performance in his first 14 games this season seems to indicate it. While his St. Louis Cardinals are floundering in the National League race, Musial, 38, is floundering at the plate.

The seven-time batting champion, who has a lifetime major league average of .340 for 16 seasons, has collected only 11 hits in 49 tries for a .224 mark. A year ago, after hitting safely in his first 14 games, Musial was hitting .509 with 29 hits in 57 times at bat.

Musial has had only two extra bases, both doubles, this season and he has batted in five runs. The only distinguishing features of his performance were base hits that thwarted no-hit pitching efforts by Jack Sanford of San Francisco and Glen Hobbie of the Chicago Cubs.

Musial is not the only topflight player off to a slow start this spring. Richie Ashburn of Philadelphia, the National League's defending batting titleholder, is hitting .196 after 12 games. Ashburn showed a .381 percentage in his first 12 games in 1958. He finished up with .350. Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees has a .255 mark for 13 games.

Hank Aaron of Milwaukee is making the most outstanding showing among the big league batsmen. Through Sunday's games, he led the National League with .500 on 26 hits in 52 attempts. Billy Bruton, also of the Braves, was second with .385 followed by Filipe Alou of San Francisco, .377.

Ed Mathews of Milwaukee led the senior loop in home runs with seven and Don Demeter of Los Angeles was the top man in runs batted in with 18.

Vic Power of Cleveland's pacesetting Indians was the leading American League batter with .431. Then came Al Kaline of Detroit, .411 and Nellie Fox of Chicago, .387.

Woody Held of the Indians had the most homers, five and Gus Triandos of Baltimore was tops in RBI, 16.

Batting leaders are based on a minimum of 35 times at bat.

Orioles Glad They Have Willie In Center Field

Tasby Likes Hank Aaron's Philosophy; Hopes To Hit .300

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Say, hey those second-place Baltimore Orioles are mighty glad they have Willie in center field.

It isn't Willie Mays, of course, but it's fast-flying Willie Tasby, who is practically a carbon copy of the colorful San Francisco centerfielder.

Tasby was the "rookie of the year" in the American Assn. last season and his current .382 batting average makes him a prime candidate for the same distinction in the American League this season.

"He reminds you a lot of Mays," says Casey Stengel. "Got a lot of his actions."

Denies Mays Pattern

Tasby, who comes from Oakland, Calif., insists he doesn't pattern himself after Mays although he charges ground balls exactly the same way, runs a lot like the Giants' outfielder and even swings similarly at the plate.

"I met Willie in Phoenix, Ariz., a few years ago and he was very nice to me," Tasby recalled. "He wished me luck and told me he thought I could do it up here in the big leagues."

Tasby knows Hank Aaron of the Braves much better than he knows Mays.

"Hank's philosophy on hitting is just go up there and swing," grinned the 26-year-old Oriole rookie. "He says hit what you see. I go with him on that.

"Not Dude Hitter"

"I'm no dude hitter, I'm a swinger. I'm just trying to learn how to hit. I'm not kidding myself about my average. I know I'm not a .330 hitter. But I feel I can hit .300, although what can you tell after a dozen or so games?"

Paul Richards, Baltimore's manager, feels he has seen enough of Tasby to tell he's the goods.

"There's no sense in going off half-cocked and saying that he's going to win any batting titles," Richards commented, "but he does have a world of ability and he's been the answer to our prayers so far."

With Louisville last season, the right-handed hitting Tasby batted .322, collected 22 homers and drove in 95 runs. Despite that showing, there were those who said he would never make it in the big time because he had "a hole in him"—meaning he supposedly couldn't hit the high, inside pitch.

Fred (Bootnose) Hofmann, who scouted Tasby for the Orioles, told them not to believe it.

Bucs' Don Hoak Fined By League

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Pirate third baseman Don Hoak was fined $25 by National League headquarters Monday for his part in a row with umpire Shag Crawford in Philadelphia Sunday.

Both Hoak and Buc Manager Danny Murtaugh were ejected from the second game of a doubleheader with the Phils when they protested Billy Virdon's being called out at home in the first inning.

Virdon was on third base when catcher Hank Foiles topped a slow roller down the first base line. Virdon tried to score and crashed into umpire Vic Delmore sending him sprawling.

Phil catcher Valmy Thomas, thinking Virdon had not touched the plate, tagged Virdon. After a huddle of the four umpires, Crawford, the third base umpire, called Virdon out.

Gunmen Visit Rizzuto-Berra Bowling Alleys

Bandits Get $5,000 And Box Seat Ticket

CLIFTON, N. J. (UPI) — Two gunmen who may be baseball fans took $5,000 early Monday in a holdup of a 40-lane bowling alley owned by Phil Rizzuto and New York Yankees catcher Larry (Yogi) Berra.

The bandits also swiped the bowling alley's season box seat at Yankee Stadium.

"I only hope they try and use it," said Joseph Pisacane, manager of the "Rizzuto-Berra Bowling Lanes" in this northern New Jersey community.

Pisacane said the gunmen took $5,000 in weekend receipts from an employe and stole the box seat ticket from a safe. They also lifted several boxes of personalized cigaret lighters before fleeing, according to Pisacane.

He said the loss of the season ticket was not discovered until employes had made a complete check of the contents of the safe. Piscane said Yankee officials promised to supply the bowling alley with a new ticket.

Rizzuto did not learn of the 3 a.m. holdup until more than five hours later when someone telephoned him the news at a golf course in Union, N.J. He went immediately to the bowling alley and was joined later by Berra who came from New York City.

"It was quite a shock," said Rizzuto, former Yankee shortstop who now broadcasts the Bombers' games. "We've had no trouble there whatsoever."

Berra also expressed surprise, but said he was happy the bandits did not harm his employes.

Patterson Feels Sharp For Bout

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Their heavyweight title fight only four days off, Champion Floyd Patterson and challenger Brian London honed themselves to a fine training edge in drills Monday.

Patterson said he felt sharper than he has for any of his three previous title defenses, and observers' said the champ's combinations were working well.

London's camp expected him to enter the ring at about 205 pounds, some six pounds lighter than when he dropped his British heavyweight crown Jan. 12 to Henry Cooper. Patterson will probably go in about 184.

Dodgers Open Eastern Swing, Whip Pirates

Drysdale Registers Third Victory, 9-3

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The league leading Los Angeles Dodgers opened an eastern swing with a five run outburst in the first inning Monday night and coasted to a 9-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates behind the six-hit pitching of Don Drysdale.

The win, posted before a disappointed crowd of 10,689 chilled fans at Forbes Field, enabled the Dodgers to open a full game lead on idle Milwaukee and San Francisco.

Drysdale In Control

Drysdale, who hadn't beaten the Pirates since 1957, was in control of the situation most of the way in winning his third game. He weakened only in the sixth inning when Smoky Burgess' first of two doubles spoiled the shutout and in the ninth when the Bucs got their other two runs.

The lanky Los Angeles right hander struck out seven and aided his own cause at the plate with two singles.

Actually, the game was decided before a batter was retired. Pirate starter George Witt walked Dick Gray and Charlie Neal and Wally Moon beat out a drag bunt down the first base line to load the bases.

When Don Demeter, the league's rbi leader, singled to left for two runs and upped his total to 20, Danny Murtaugh brought in Ron Blackburn.

But Blackburn gave up an intentional pass, singles to Don Zimmer and Drysdale, and three runs before he could retire the side.

Hodges Hits Triple

Los Angeles padded Drysdale's cushion off Paul Giel making his first appearance for the Pirates. The ex-Giant pitcher gave up a walk and a triple to Gil Hodges for a run in the fourth and a walk, sacrifice and a single to Neal for another in the fifth.

Three singles and Fred Green's wild pitch accounted for the other Dodger tallies in the seventh.

Burgess' second double and walks to Dick Stuart and Don Hoak loaded the bases for the Pirates with nobody out in the ninth. But the best they could do was pick up two runs on infield groundouts.

Hermans Out Of League, Seven Teams Will Play

County Softball Circuit To Open Campaign Today

Withdrawal of the Hermans from the County Softball League yesterday reduced the circuit to seven starting teams which hope to launch the 1959 campaign today in games at Kennell's Mill, Maple Inn (Wellersburg) and Fossilville.

At a league meeting held last night it was decided to follow the same schedule that has been adopted with the exception of the Hermans games which will be dropped and the opposing team will remain idle on those dates.

Walter Basilio, who represented the Hermans, advised the league of his team's withdrawal because of the lack of players. The Hermans played in the City League for the past several years under the leadership of their colorful manager, James Allen, who died recently. Mr. Allen piloted the Potomac Valley Cubs in the County League for many years.

Today's opening games are: Stringtown at Kennell's Mill, Corriganville at Maple Inn and Homewood Tavern at Fossilville. The starting time for all games is 6:15 p. m.

Charles "Whip" Kreitzburg, league president, last night stated that if rain washes out today's openers they will be rescheduled for Wednesday. If halted on Wednesday they will be reset for Thursday, he stated.

Stringtown, Kennell's Mill, Corriganville, Maple Inn and Homewood Tavern were members of the six club circuit last season. The new teams are Cumberland Cement and Fossilville (Pa.) which replaces the Hyndman Planers.

Managers are Irvin Hosselrode, Kennell's Mill; "Boots" Raygor, Corriganville; Leo Bridges, Homewood Tavern; Ray Leighty, Maple Inn; D. W. Crawford, Fossilville; Amos See, Stringtown and Herbert Devore, Cumberland Cement.

A total of 105 games appear on the regular schedule of the league and each team will engage in 30 contests. The All-Star contest is billed for July 28.

Sachs, Gigliotti Cop K. of C. Loop Doubles Tourney

Charles Sachs and Ossie Gigliotti won the annual doubles tournament staged last night by the Knights of Columbus Bowling League by leading a field of 17 teams with a score of 484-409-9 handicap—902.

Jerry Loibel and Ned Joyce took runner-up honors on the Club Recreation alleys with 537-340-(3)—880.

Others finished in the following order:

Ray Wempe and Larry Patitucci 526-347-(6)—879.
Jerry Farrell and Billy McDermott, 505-337-(3)—845.

All-Start-Even Tournament Plan Favored, 5 To 1

Five out of six basketball coaches in the W.M.I. League are in favor of the all-start-even tournament plan for next season, it was announced by Robert E. Pence, director of physical education for Allegany County public schools, following a meeting last night at Beall High School, Frostburg.

Under the all-start-even plan every team in the county would qualify for tournament play regardless of its season record against other schools of the same classification. The plan is similar to the one in use in West Virginia.

The one dissenting vote was cast by a mentor who felt the present plan is O.K. and a change was unnecessary.

Each county in the state is voting on proposed changes in next year's tournament set-up and the action taken in Allegany county does not necessarily mean that will be final. Results of the voting in all counties will be tabulated and a final decision announced.

Skins Sign Sutton

WASHINGTON (AP)—Halfback Ed Sutton, who played his college football at North Carolina, has signed for his third season with the Washington Redskins.

Franklin Tops ACC

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Jay Franklin, speedy outfielder for Wake Forest, continues to lead the Atlantic Coast Conference batting race with a .500 average.

Franklin, a sophomore, slipped from .536, but still held a healthy lead over Frank Copper of Maryland, second at .420.

The league-leading Terps have three batters in the top five. Dick Reitz, the Maryland pitching and batting ace, jumped into fourth place at .370 followed by teammate Don Brown, fifth at .361.

LaSalle Meets Allegany In Second Game Of City Series

Campobello Is Scene Of Game Today

Mt. Savage Invades Beall; Bruce Will Battle Fort Hill

The second game of the triangular series for the city baseball championship is scheduled for today at Campobello where Norman Sell's LaSalle Explorers and Chester G. Payne's Allegany High Campers clash at 4 p. m.

Fort Hill got the jump in the city series by winning the first game from LaSalle by the score of 6-5.

LaSalle, Fort Hill and Mt. Savage are tied for first place in the Allegany County High School League race with 3-1 records while Allegany and Beall are one game off the pace with 2-2 records.

Campers Swept Series

Allegany swept the LaSalle series last year, winning by scores of 7-6 and 6-3 with Lefty Bill Hook accounting for both victories. The teams split even in 1957 in a pair of 10-9 contests. In 1956 Allegany captured the opener, 3-1, and lost the second, 6-4. The Explorers took both 1955 games, 16-2 and 6-1, after they divided a pair of shutouts in 1954 — won by LaSalle 7-0, and Allegany 3-0. Thus over the past five years the local schools have split even in ten games.

Mt. Savage's Indians are slated to do battle with Beall High's Mountaineers today at 4 p. m. at Frostburg. Fort Hill's Sentinels tangle with the Bruce Bulldogs in Westernport at 4 p. m., and Flintstone's Aggies host Valley's Black Knights at 3:0 in other league action.

Unbeaten Teams To Play

Keyser High School, leading the P.V.C. race with a 5-0 record, winds up its series with the Vikings today at Petersburg. Romney, also unbeaten in the conference goes after its fifth victory when it plays host to Elk Garden.

The third conference game of the day finds Capon Bridge at Mathias, which is 3-0 to date in defense of the title it won a year ago.

Romney holds a 4-1 decision over Elk Garden while Keyser won the series opener with Petersburg by the score of 13-8.

Topflight Trio Gets Bad Start

Musial, Ashburn, Mantle Disappoint

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Is this the beginning of the end for Stan Musial?

His performance in his first 14 games this season seems to indicate it. While his St. Louis Cardinals are floundering in the National League race, Musial, 38, is floundering at the plate.

The seven-time batting champion, who has a lifetime major league average of .340 for 16 seasons, has collected only 11 hits in 49 tries for a .224 mark. A year ago, after hitting safely in his first 14 games, Musial was hitting .509 with 29 hits in 57 times at bat.

Musial has had only two extra bases, both doubles, this season and he has batted in five runs. The only distinguishing features of his performance were base hits that thwarted no-hit pitching efforts by Jack Sanford of San Francisco and Glen Hobbie of the Chicago Cubs.

Musial is not the only topflight player off to a slow start this spring. Richie Ashburn of Philadelphia, the National League's defending batting titleholder, is hitting .196 after 12 games. Ashburn showed a .381 percentage in his first 12 games in 1958. He finished up with .350. Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees has a .255 mark for 13 games.

Hank Aaron of Milwaukee is making the most outstanding showing among the big league batsmen. Through Sunday's games, he led the National League with .500 on 26 hits in 52 attempts. Billy Bruton, also of the Braves, was second with .385 followed by Filipe Alou of San Francisco, .377.

Ed Mathews of Milwaukee led the senior loop in home runs with seven and Don Demeter of Los Angeles was the top man in runs batted in with 18.

Vic Power of Cleveland's pacesetting Indians was the leading American League batter with .431. Then came Al Kaline of Detroit, .411 and Nellie Fox of Chicago, .387.

Woody Held of the Indians had the most homers, five and Gus Triandos of Baltimore was tops in RBI, 16.

Batting leaders are based on a minimum of 35 times at bat.

Frank Pongrass, purveyor of race horse delicacies at Hialeah, reports that salad greens such as endive, escarole and dandelion are beginning to get the call over carrots by horse trainers.

Orioles Glad They Have Willie In Center Field

Tasby Likes Hank Aaron's Philosophy; Hopes To Hit .300

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Say, hey those second-place Baltimore Orioles are mighty glad they have Willie in center field.

It isn't Willie Mays, of course, but it's fast-flying Willie Tasby, who is practically a carbon copy of the colorful San Francisco centerfielder.

Tasby was the "rookie of the year" in the American Assn. last season and his current .382 batting average makes him a prime candidate for the same distinction in the American League this season.

"He reminds you a lot of Mays," says Casey Stengel. "Got a lot of his actions."

Denies Mays Pattern

Tasby, who comes from Oakland, Calif., insists he doesn't pattern himself after Mays although he charges ground balls exactly the same way, runs a lot like the Giants' outfielder and even swings similarly at the plate.

"I met Willie in Phoenix, Ariz., a few years ago and he was very nice to me," Tasby recalled. "He wished me luck and told me he thought I could do it up here in the big leagues."

Tasby knows Hank Aaron of the Braves much better than he knows Mays.

"Hank's philosophy on hitting is just go up there and swing," grinned the 26-year-old Oriole rookie. "He says hit what you see. I go with him on that.

"Not Dude Hitter"

"I'm no dude hitter, I'm a swinger. I'm just trying to learn how to hit. I'm not kidding myself about my average. I know I'm not a .380 hitter. But I feel I can hit .300, although what can you tell after a dozen or so games?"

Paul Richards, Baltimore's manager, feels he has seen enough of Tasby to tell he's the goods.

"There's no sense in going off half-cocked and saying that he's going to win any batting titles," Richards commented, "but he does have a world of ability and he's been the answer to our prayers so far."

With Louisville last season, the right-handed hitting Tasby batted .322, collected 22 homers and drove in 95 runs. Despite that showing, there were those who said he would never make it in the big time because he had "a hole in him"—meaning he supposedly couldn't hit the high, inside pitch.

Fred (Bootnose) Hofmann, who scouted Tasby for the Orioles, told them not to believe it.

Bucs' Don Hoak Fined By League

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Pirate third baseman Don Hoak was fined $25 by National League headquarters Monday for his part in a row with umpire Shag Crawford in Philadelphia Sunday.

Both Hoak and Bue Manager Danny Murtaugh were ejected from the second game of a doubleheader with the Phils when they protested Billy Virdon's being called out at home in the first inning.

Virdon was on third base when catcher Hank Foiles topped a slow roller down the first base line. Virdon tried to score and crashed into umpire Vic Delmore sending him sprawling.

Phil catcher Valmy Thomas, thinking Virdon had not touched the plate, tagged Virdon. After a huddle of the four umpires, Crawford, the third base umpire, called Virdon out.

Franklin Tops ACC

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Jay Franklin, speedy outfielder for Wake Forest, continues to lead the Atlantic Coast Conference batting race with a .500 average.

Franklin, a sophomore, slipped from .536, but still held a healthy lead over Frank Copper of Maryland, second at .420.

The league-leading Terps have three batters in the top five. Dick Reitz, the Maryland pitching and batting ace, jumped into fourth place at .370 followed by teammate Don Brown, fifth at .361.

All-Start-Even Tournament Plan Favored, 5 To 1

Five out of six basketball coaches in the W.M.I. League are in favor of the all-start-even tournament plan for next season, it was announced by Robert E. Pence, director of physical education for Allegany County public schools, following a meeting last night at Beall High School, Frostburg.

Under the all-start-even plan every team in the county would qualify for tournament play regardless of its season record against other schools of the same classification. The plan is similar to the one in use in West Virginia.

The one dissenting vote was cast by a mentor who felt the present plan is O.K. and a change was unnecessary.

Each county in the state is voting on proposed changes in next year's tournament set-up and the action taken in Allegany county does not necessarily mean that will be final. Results of the voting in all counties will be tabulated and a final decision announced.

16 Derby Candidates Vie In Two-Division Trial Today

First Landing And Finnegan Head Sections

Fate Of Easy Spur, Silver Spoon Will Be Decided Today

By RAY AYRES
United Press International

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Sixteen Kentucky Derby candidates were entered Monday for Tuesday's running of the Derby trial with Neil S. McCarthy's Finnegan heading the first division and Christopher T. Chenery's First Landing the second.

Eight three-year - olds start in each section of the mile race, the last opportunity for owners and trainers to test their young horses before the 85th running of the Kentucky Derby Saturday.

The outcome of the trial to a large extent will determine the size of the field for America's premier horse race. It currently looms as one of the largest in history.

Injured Ankle

There was a chance that Spring Hill Farm's Easy Spur would come out of the race. This colt injured his right ankle in the Stepping Stone Purse Saturday. X-rays taken by Dr. Alex Harthill did not reveal any break and a decision whether to start the colt or not will be reached Tuesday when trainer Paul Kelley confers with owner Jim Norris.

The fate of Silver Spoon also will be decided Tuesday. For the first time in her career Silver Spoon was beaten in the Stepping Stone.

Jockey Willie Shoemaker has decided to ride Fred Turner Jr's Tomy Lee in the Kentucky Derby instead of Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer. Willie Boland now will ride that little colt who attracted many supporters by winning the Stepping Stone.

First Landing Is Favorite

But if Easy Spur is withdrawn, Willie Hartack will not have a mount unless he lines one up shortly. That should be easy with so many expected starters.

First Landing, who "blew out" three furlings in 35 2-5 seconds Monday morning, remains the favorite to win America's most coveted racing classic now only five days away. The muscular son of Turn-To has been tabbed "the horse to beat" by most trainers and ruled an even money favorite to win his division of the trial.

Finnegan, winner of the California Derby in his last start, was an 8 to 5 favorite in the other section.

First Landing, with Eddie Arcaro up, shares top weight of 122 pounds with Master Palynch for whom no rider was named.

Maryland Golfers Stopped By Duke

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—A 17-game winning streak at home for Maryland's golf team, reaching back to the 1957 season was broken Monday when Duke defeated the Terps 19½-10½ in an Atlantic Coast Conference match.

Dick Sideroff, Duke captain, was medalist with a two-under-par 70. The weather was chilly and it rained hard during the last two holes. John Grubb and Paul Quinn were the only Maryland winners.

The victory was Duke's 13th against a single loss. Maryland is 6-3-1 for the season.

Girls Softball Loop To Meet Here Tonight

All managers and coaches of teams in the new Girls Softball League are urged to be present at a meeting to be held tonight at 7:30 at the City Hall Council Chamber.

Five teams already have signified their intention of joining the league but some are seeking sponsors. Persons interested in sponsoring any of the teams are asked to attend.

Teams hoping to play in the league are Ridgeley-Wiley Ford, St. Mary's, Nurses of Memorial Hospital, Ray Martin's and Dot Heavner's All-Stars.

Track Meet Set

Weather permitting, Ridgeley and Allegany will tangle in a dual track and field meet today at 4 p. m., at Campobello. If the field is not in condition the meet will be rescheduled for Wednesday.

Optimists To Drill

Manager Louis Marrale last night announced the Cumberland Optimist Club of the Hot Stove Baseball League will practice Thursday at 5:30 p. m., and Sunday at 3:30 p. m., at Penn Avenue Field.

Ted Williams Takes Batting Practice

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Red Sox slugger Ted Williams Monday took his first batting practice since spring training.

Williams, who has been undergoing treatment for a pinched nerve in his neck and shoulder, took a brief drill at Fenway Park, the first since he was injured in Scottsdale, Ariz.

The Red Sox are now on an extended road trip, and there is no indication when Williams may rejoin the team.

Ray Vogelman's John Hernon Is Laurel Winner

Becomes Favorite In Maryland Derby

LAUREL, April 27 (AP)—Continuing to show improved form, John Hernon, owned and trained by Raymond E. Vogelman, won the $5,000 Eastern Shore Purse here today by three-quarters of a length from Eager Beaver.

The victory assured John Hernon the favorite's role here in Saturday's $15,000-added Maryland Derby.

Claimed for just $3,500 last month at Bowie, John Hernon was gaining his fourth victory for his Baltimore owner out of six starts.

John Hernon, second choice in the betting with the crowd of 9,090 fans, returned $7.60, $4.20 and $2.20. The 3-year-old was timed the mile and 70-yard distance over a fast track in 1:44 3/5.

Scoring in a tight four-horse finish, John Hernon came from last place in the six-horse field to be drawing clear at the end.

Eager Beaver, owned by Danny Shea, was second in the race for Maryland-breds while the favored Poppy Jay finished in a dead heat for third money with Dr. Herb. Eager Beaver paid $6.60 and $2.20 and the tied colts each returned $2.20.

Of the six starters, only Rustoms Year is ineligible for Saturday's Maryland Derby, a mile and a sixteenth test for Maryland-bred 3-year-olds.

Vogelman, who last year developed the former selling plater Hoosier Honey into one of the best stakes mares on the east coast, plucked John Hernon from a winning race at Bowie on March 9.

The gelding, a son of British Buddy, was claimed from Art Rooney's Shamrock farm.

NBA Prexy's Term Extended 3 Years

NEW YORK (UPI) — Maurice Podoloff was re-elected president of the National Basketball Assn. Monday for a term of three years at a "substantial increase" in salary.

The action came in a meeting of the league's board of governors here.

The governors also voted to hold the league's annual all-star game in Syracuse in 1961 and in St. Louis in 1962. The 1960 game previously had been awarded to Philadelphia, where it will be played on Jan. 22.

Owner Of A's Buys Players New Shoes

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Baseball players must buy their spiked shoes out of their own pocket.

Playing on wet ground in a drizzle is almost guaranteed to ruin a pair of such specialized footwear.

So owner Arnold Johnson of the Kansas City A's is buying new shoes all around for his players who defeated Detroit 4-3 Sunday in a wet and soggy contest. The club did not announce how much the gesture would cost the club owner.

Boy Hit By Baseball Reported Improving

Gordon Cook, 14, ninth grader of Valley High School, who was struck above the right eye while playing baseball at Central School playground in Lonaconing last Friday, is reported as impoved at Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Wilson Cook, Scotch Hill, Lonaconing, was pitching when felled by a line drive.

The Loyal Order of Moose team of the Rocking Chair Softball League will hold a practice session today at 6 p. m., at Allegany Field.

Majors Report 217,000 Decline In Attendance

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball attendance shows a decline of 217,000 for the first 18 days of the 1959 season.

Only Cleveland, Washington and New York in the American League and San Francisco, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh in the National are ahead of their 1958 figures.

The Indians, who drew only 65,811 in their first eight home dates a year ago, have pulled 120,741 through the turnstiles this season. The Pirates are 12,000 ahead of last year.

Biggest attendance drops have been recorded by the Los Angeles Dodgers (114,000), Chicago Cubs (51,000), Detroit (34,000), Baltimore (25,000) and Milwaukee (21,000).

Four Canadiens Land All-Star Hockey Berths

Team Completed By Two Rangers

MONTREAL (UPI)—Four members of the four-time Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens and two New York Rangers were named to the 1958-59 National Hockey League all-star team, it was announced Monday by league headquarters.

It marked the first time in 17 years the Rangers placed more than one man on the all - star team.

Detroit and Montreal completely dominated the second team, with the Red Wings placing four and the Canadiens two. Goalie Terry Sawchuk, defenseman Maecel Pronovost and wings Gordie Howe and Alex Delvecchio represented Detroit, while rearguard Doug Harvey and center Henri Richard of Montreal completed the second team.

A first team berth is worth $1,000 to each player and $500 goes to those named to the second team.

Balloting for the all-star teams is carried out by a panel of hockey writers and broadcasters in the six league cities in two separate polls—one at mid-season and another at the end of the 70-game schedule. Points are awarded on a basis of five for a first choice, three for a second and one for a third. A unanimous selection on both ballots would poll 180 points.

Ronnie Shaw, Barton Player, Is Injured

Ronnie Shaw, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shaw, of Moscow, suffered a possible shoulder fracture on Sunday when he fell in the outfield while chasing a fly ball during baseball practice at the Barton Ball Park.

Shaw was trying out for the Barton team of the Twilight League which opens its season next Sunday.

X-rays were taken yesterday and the extent of Shaw's injuries will be known today.

American Thoroughbred Owners Frown On New Maryland Set-Up

National Group Hopes Tawes Will Veto Racing Bill

LAUREL, Md (AP)—The American Thoroughbred Owners Anns., expressed concern Monday that "the caliber of horse racing will certainly decline" if Maryland revises its commission set-up.

The thoroughbred owners expressed hope that Gov. Tawes will veto the commission changes approved by the Legislature early this month.

They would knock out the present three commissioners on May 31, give the governor five new appointments and make them subject to his removal at any time. Commissioners now may be removed only for cause and after a hearing.

Ocean Downs Silent

The thoroughbred owners are the first national group to be heard on the proposals although all Maryland segments of racing, including 10 of the 11 tracks, had voiced opposition. Only Ocean Downs, a small harness track, remained silent.

Opponents claimed, without contradiction, that Ocean Downs hoped to obtain different dates rejected by the present commissioners.

Gov. Tawes had said he would sign the bill for a new commission if the legislature passed it. However, he will sign Tuesday a second batch of bills since the Legislature adjourned April 4 and the racing measures is not among them.

Signatures Sought

Opposition to it turned into a statewide committee formed to obtain 5,000 signatures by June 1 and another 5,000 by July 1 petitioning it on the 1960 election ballot. If the signatures are obtained, they will prevent the bill from becoming effective before then even if signed by Gov. Tawes

Feelings of the thoroughbred owners were contained in a statement distributed at Laurel race track by Gough Thompson of Pikesville, a trustee of the group.

It said:

"The American Thoroughbred Owners Assn. is deeply concerned about the adverse effects which the bill to remove the Maryland Racing Commission may have on Maryland racing and hopes that Gov.Tawes will veto the measure.

"The Association believes that the racing commissioners will serve at the pleasure of the governor.

"Stewards and other officials will be appointed for political reasons and not on the basis of their capabilities.

Might Avoid Maryland

"Owners of the big and important stables are likely to avoid racing in Maryland under such a set-up, with the result that the caliber of racing will certainly decline.

"The state's revenue would also fall off as a result of the decline."

Skin Is Grafted From Thomas' Thigh To Top Of Foot

BOSTON (AP)—A surgeon Monday removed almost eight square inches of skin from the thigh of John Thomas, world record high jumper, and then shaped it and stitched it to close an unhealed wound on the top of the big athlete's left foot.

Thomas suffered the injury March 24 whe his foot was caught in the door of a Boston University elevator he was operating. Massachusetts Memorial Hospital surgeon Dr. Chester Howe said a skin graft operation became necessary because the scraping nature of the footinjury caused skin on the upper side of the foot, above the toes, to die.

Howe said Thomas withstood the hour-and-a-half operation well. He will be kept immobilized for a week or 10 days until healing has taken place.

Howe said Thomas may be able to resume training — and possibly track competition - sometime late this spring.

16 Derby Candidates Vie In Two-Division Trial Today

First Landing And Finnegan Head Sections

Fate Of Easy Spur, Silver Spoon Will Be Decided Today

By RAY AYRES
United Press International

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Sixteen Kentucky Derby candidates were entered Monday for Tuesday's running of the Derby trial with Neil S. McCarthy's Finnegan heading the first division and Christopher T. Chenery's First Landing the second.

Eight three-year - olds start in each section of the mile race, the last opportunity for owners and trainers to test their young horses before the 85th running of the Kentucky Derby Saturday.

The outcome of the trial to a large extent will determine the size of the field for America's premier horse race. It currently looms as one of the largest in history.

Injured Ankle

There was a chance that Spring Hill Farm's Easy Spur would come out of the race. This colt injured his right ankle in the Stepping Stone Purse Saturday. X-rays taken by Dr. Alex Harthill did not reveal any break and a decision whether to start the colt or not will be reached Tuesday when trainer Paul Kelley confers with owner Jim Norris.

The fate of Silver Spoon also will be decided Tuesday. For the first time in her career Silver Spoon was beaten in the Stepping Stone.

Jockey Willie Shoemaker has decided to ride Fred Turner Jr's Tomy Lee in the Kentucky Derby instead of Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer. Willie Boland now will ride that little colt who attracted many supporters by winning the Stepping Stone.

First Landing Is Favorite

But if Easy Spur is withdrawn, Willie Hartack will not have a mount unless he lines one up shortly. That should be easy with so many expected starters.

First Landing, who "blew out" three furlings in 35 2-5 seconds Monday morning, remains the favorite to win America's most coveted racing classic now only five days away. The muscular son of Turn-To has been tabbed "the horse to beat" by most trainers and ruled an even money favorite to win his division of the trial.

Finnegan, winner of the California Derby in his last start, was an 8 to 5 favorite in the other section.

First Landing, with Eddie Arcaro up, shares top weight of 122 pounds with Master Palynch for whom no rider was named.

Maryland Golfers Stopped By Duke

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—A 17-game winning streak at home for Maryland's golf team, reaching back to the 1957 season was broken Monday when Duke defeated the Terps 19½-10½ in an Atlantic Coast Conference match.

Dick Sideroff, Duke captain, was medalist with a two-under-par 70. The weather was chilly and it rained hard during the last two holes. John Grubb and Paul Quinn were the only Maryland winners.

The victory was Duke's 13th against a single loss. Maryland is 6-3-1 for the season.

Girls Softball Loop To Meet Here Tonight

All managers and coaches of teams in the new Girls Softball League are urged to be present at a meeting to be held tonight at 7:30 at the City Hall Council Chamber.

Five teams already have signified their intention of joining the league but some are seeking sponsors. Persons interested in sponsoring any of the teams are asked to attend.

Teams hoping to play in the league are Ridgeley-Wiley Ford, St. Mary's, Nurses of Memorial Hospital, Ray Martin's and Dot Heavner's All-Stars.

Track Meet Set

Weather permitting, Ridgeley and Allegany will tangle in a dual track and field meet today at 4 p. m., at Campobello. If the field is not in condition the meet will be rescheduled for Wednesday.

Optimists To Drill

Manager Louis Marrale last night announced the Cumberland Optimist Club of the Hot Stove Baseball League will practice Thursday at 5:30 p. m., and Sunday at 3:30 p. m., at Penn Avenue Field.

Ted Williams Takes Batting Practice

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Red Sox slugger Ted Williams Monday took his first batting practice since spring training.

Williams, who has been undergoing treatment for a pinched nerve in his neck and shoulder, took a brief drill at Fenway Park, the first since he was injured in Scottsdale, Ariz.

The Red Sox are now on an extended road trip, and there is no indication when Williams may rejoin the team.

Ray Vogelman's John Hernon Is Laurel Winner

Becomes Favorite In Maryland Derby

LAUREL, April 27 (AP)—Continuing to show improved form, John Hernon, owned and trained by Raymond E. Vogelman, won the $5,000 Eastern Shore Purse here today by three-quarters of a length from Eager Beaver.

The victory assured John Hernon the favorite's role here in Saturday's $15,000-added Maryland Derby.

Claimed for just $3,500 last month at Bowie, John Hernon was gaining his fourth victory for his Baltimore owner out of six starts.

John Hernon, second choice in the betting with the crowd of 9,090 fans, returned $7.60, $4.20 and $2.20. The 3-year-old was timed the mile and 70-yard distance over a fast track in 1:44 3/5.

Scoring in a tight four-horse finish, John Hernon came from last place in the six-horse field to be drawing clear at the end.

Eager Beaver, owned by Danny Shea, was second in the race for Maryland-breds while the favored Poppy Jay finished in a dead heat for third money with Dr. Herb. Eager Beaver paid $6.60 and $2.20 and the tied colts each returned $2.20.

Of the six starters, only Rustoms Year is ineligible for Saturday's Maryland Derby, a mile and a sixteenth test for Maryland-bred 3-year-olds.

Vogelman, who last year developed the former selling plater Hoosier Honey into one of the best stakes mares on the east coast, plucked John Hernon from a winning race at Bowie on March 9.

The gelding, a son of British Buddy, was claimed from Art Rooney's Shamrock farm.

NBA Prexy's Term Extended 3 Years

NEW YORK (UPI) — Maurice Podoloff was re-elected president of the National Basketball Assn. Monday for a term of three years at a "substantial increase" in salary.

The action came in a meeting of the league's board of governors here.

The governors also voted to hold the league's annual all-star game in Syracuse in 1961 and in St. Louis in 1962. The 1960 game previously had been awarded to Philadelphia, where it will be played on Jan. 22.

Owner Of A's Buys Players New Shoes

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Baseball players must buy their spiked shoes out of their own pocket.

Playing on wet ground in a drizzle is almost guaranteed to ruin a pair of such specialized footwear.

So owner Arnold Johnson of the Kansas City A's is buying new shoes all around for his players who defeated Detroit 4-3 Sunday in a wet and soggy contest. The club did not announce how much the gesture would cost the club owner.

Boy Hit By Baseball Reported Improving

Gordon Cook, 14, ninth grader of Valley High School, who was struck above the right eye while playing baseball at Central School playground in Lonaconing last Friday, is reported as impoved at Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Wilson Cook, Scotch Hill, Lonaconing, was pitching when felled by a line drive.

Majors Report 217,000 Decline In Attendance

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball attendance shows a decline of 217,000 for the first 18 days of the 1959 season.

Only Cleveland, Washington and New York in the American League and San Francisco, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh in the National are ahead of their 1958 figures.

The Indians, who drew only 65,811 in their first eight home dates a year ago, have pulled 120,741 through the turnstiles this season. The Pirates are 12,000 ahead of last year.

Biggest attendance drops have been recorded by the Los Angeles Dodgers (114,000), Chicago Cubs (51,000), Detroit (34,000), Baltimore (25,000) and Milwaukee (21,000).

Four Canadiens Land All-Star Hockey Berths

Team Completed By Two Rangers

MONTREAL (UPI)—Four members of the four-time Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens and two New York Rangers were named to the 1958-59 National Hockey League all-star team, it was announced Monday by league headquarters.

It marked the first time in 17 years the Rangers placed more than one man on the all - star team.

Detroit and Montreal completely dominated the second team, with the Red Wings placing four and the Canadiens two. Goalie Terry Sawchuk, defenseman Maecel Pronovost and wings Gordie Howe and Alex Delvecchio represented Detroit, while rearguard Doug Harvey and center Henri Richard of Montreal completed the second team.

A first team berth is worth $1,000 to each player and $500 goes to those named to the second team.

Balloting for the all-star teams is carried out by a panel of hockey writers and broadcasters in the six league cities in two separate polls—one at mid-season and another at the end of the 70-game schedule. Points are awarded on a basis of five for a first choice, three for a second and one for a third. A unanimous selection on both ballots would poll 180 points.

Ronnie Shaw, Barton Player, Is Injured

Ronnie Shaw, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shaw, of Moscow, suffered a possible shoulder fracture on Sunday when he fell in the outfield while chasing a fly ball during baseball practice at the Barton Ball Park.

Shaw was trying out for the Barton team of the Twilight League which opens its season next Sunday.

X-rays were taken yesterday and the extent of Shaw's injuries will be known today.

American Thoroughbred Owners Frown On New Maryland Set-Up

National Group Hopes Tawes Will Veto Racing Bill

LAUREL, Md (AP)—The American Thoroughbred Owners Anns., expressed concern Monday that "the caliber of horse racing will certainly decline" if Maryland revises its commission set-up.

The thoroughbred owners expressed hope that Gov. Tawes will veto the commission changes approved by the Legislature early this month.

They would knock out the present three commissioners on May 31, give the governor five new appointments and make them subject to his removal at any time. Commissioners now may be removed only for cause and after a hearing.

Ocean Downs Silent

The thoroughbred owners are the first national group to be heard on the proposals although all Maryland segments of racing, including 10 of the 11 tracks, had voiced opposition. Only Ocean Downs, a small harness track, remained silent.

Opponents claimed, without contradiction, that Ocean Downs hoped to obtain different dates rejected by the present commissioners.

Gov. Tawes had said he would sign the bill for a new commission if the legislature passed it. However, he will sign Tuesday a second batch of bills since the Legislature adjourned April 4 and the racing measures is not among them.

Signatures Sought

Opposition to it turned into a statewide committee formed to obtain 5,000 signatures by June 1 and another 5,000 by July 1 petitioning it on the 1960 election ballot. If the signatures are obtained, they will prevent the bill from becoming effective before then even if signed by Gov. Tawes

Feelings of the thoroughbred owners were contained in a statement distributed at Laurel race track by Gough Thompson of Pikesville, a trustee of the group.

It said:

"The American Thoroughbred Owners Assn. is deeply concerned about the adverse effects which the bill to remove the Maryland Racing Commission may have on Maryland racing and hopes that Gov.Tawes will veto the measure.

"The Association believes that the racing commissioners will serve at the pleasure of the governor.

"Stewards and other officials will be appointed for political reasons and not on the basis of their capabilities.

Might Avoid Maryland

"Owners of the big and important stables are likely to avoid racing in Maryland under such a set-up, with the result that the caliber of racing will certainly decline.

"The state's revenue would also fall off as a result of the decline."

Skin Is Grafted From Thomas' Thigh To Top Of Foot

BOSTON (AP)—A surgeon Monday removed almost eight square inches of skin from the thigh of John Thomas, world record high jumper, and then shaped it and stitched it to close an unhealed wound on the top of the big athlete's left foot.

Thomas suffered the injury March 24 whe his foot was caught in the door of a Boston University elevator he was operating. Massachusetts Memorial Hospital surgeon Dr. Chester Howe said a skin graft operation became necessary because the scraping nature of the footinjury caused skin on the upper side of the foot, above the toes, to die.

Howe said Thomas withstood the hour-and-a-half operation well. He will be kept immobilized for a week or 10 days until healing has taken place.

Howe said Thomas may be able to resume training — and possibly track competition - sometime late this spring.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Win Compliments As You Walk

Never let your feet detract from your face if you want to gain the approval of men.

Unconsciously, but instinctively, men form a great many of their impressions of a woman by her movements. A less than perfect walk can substantially detract from all a woman's other charms.

Perhaps girls are unaware when they walk with heels together and toes pointing in opposite directions, like the hands of a clock pointing to ten minutes of two. Being aware of what you do is the first step to all charm.

There's no quick way to correct a faulty walk. The present vogue for short skirts only accentuates it. Long skirts would act as something of a camouflage for the feet but the wiggle in the hips would give the ruse away. You've got to get busy and correct the trouble at its source.

The weight must come off your heels and be shifted to the balls of your feet.

This is especially difficult to accomplish when you have been walking with toes pointed outward, because you have to make two changes in your habits at once: You have to shift your weight at the same time that you are correcting the direction of your toes.

If you do it 10 times daily, this exercise will help you: Stand in your habitual position with your heels together and your toes pointing out; pull the inside edges of your feet together slowly as you shift weight gradually from your heels to the balls of your feet. Then take six steps forward, keeping your toes pointed straight ahead and your weight forward.

This exercise will not only strengthen your foot muscles but will also give you a sense of perfection, a feeling of where your feet should be when you're in motion. Soon you won't be able to help yourself—you'll walk correctly and in a manner that's just as pretty as you look!

Industrial Stocks Reach New Record High Ground

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock values on the New York Stock Exchange rose approximately one billion dollars Monday despite the inroads of some late profit-taking.

Industrials finished the day in new all-time high ground.

The rise came on volume of 3,850,000 shares, compared with 3,790,000 on Friday.

Automotives were among the day's most active issues. General motors climbed ¾ to 50⅛ in top spot on the volume list. Studebaker, off ¼ at 13, and American Motors, off ⅜ at 38, followed in order. Chrysler, also among the top 10 actives, featured on a gain of 1⅞ to 67¼.

Gains in electronics ranged to more than 20 points in Zenith at the day's best. Zenith closed with a net gain of 14. There was improvement of 5 points or more in Motorola, Texas Instruments and International Business Machines.

Big gains appeared in Smith, Kline & French, Norwich Pharmacal and American Home Products.

Among chemicals, Du Pont rose 3 points, International Salt and Thiokol around 6.

Goodyear rose 3, Firestone 1½ in the tires. Oil gains ranged to more than 2 points in Texas Co. and a point or more in Pure Oil and Gulf.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Win Compliments As You Walk

Never let your feet detract from your face if you want to gain the approval of men.

Unconsciously, but instinctively, men form a great many of their impressions of a woman by her movements. A less than perfect walk can substantially detract from all a woman's other charms.

Perhaps girls are unaware when they walk with heels together and toes pointing in opposite directions, like the hands of a clock pointing to ten minutes of two. Being aware of what you do is the first step to all charm.

There's no quick way to correct a faulty walk. The present vogue for short skirts only accentuates it. Long skirts would act as something of a camouflage for the feet but the wiggle in the hips would give the ruse away. You've got to get busy and correct the trouble at its source.

The weight must come off your heels and be shifted to the balls of your feet.

This is especially difficult to accomplish when you have been walking with toes pointed outward, because you have to make two changes in your habits at once: You have to shift your weight at the same time that you are correcting the direction of your toes.

If you do it 10 times daily, this exercise will help you: Stand in your habitual position with your heels together and your toes pointing out; pull the inside edges of your feet together slowly as you shift weight gradually from your heels to the balls of your feet. Then take six steps forward, keeping your toes pointed straight ahead and your weight forward.

This exercise will not only strengthen your foot muscles but will also give you a sense of perfection, a feeling of where your feet should be when you're in motion. Soon you won't be able to help yourself—you'll walk correctly and in a manner that's just as pretty as you look!

TOMORROW: Act Your Age.

Industrial Stocks Reach New Record High Ground

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock values on the New York Stock Exchange rose approximately one billion dollars Monday despite the inroads of some late profit-taking.

Industrials finished the day in new all-time high ground.

The rise came on volume of 3,850,000 shares, compared with 3,790,000 on Friday.

Automotives were among the day's most active issues. General motors climbed ¾ to 50⅛ in top spot on the volume list. Studebaker, off ¼ at 13, and American Motors, off ⅜ at 38, followed in order. Chrysler, also among the top 10 actives, featured on a gain of 1⅞ to 67¼.

Gains in electronics ranged to more than 20 points in Zenith at the day's best. Zenith closed with a net gain of 14. There was improvement of 5 points or more in Motorola, Texas Instruments and International Business Machines.

Big gains appeared in Smith, Kline & French, Norwich Pharmacal and American Home Products.

Among chemicals, Du Pont rose 3 points, International Salt and Thiokol around 6.

Goodyear rose 3, Firestone 1½ in the tires. Oil gains ranged to more than 2 points, in Texas Co. and a point or more in Pure Oil and Gulf.

SALESMAN WANTED
We have a salesman working out of one of the Niagara Offices who drew a commission check for $1,924 in one month. This salesman works live leads only. We would be glad to offer him a guarantee of $500 monthly if he wanted it, but it would mean nothing, because he makes far more than that every month. This salesman works hard. Now what we are wondering is there another like him in Cumberland or vicinity. A salesman who likes to work is a scarce breed. If we could find one we would be glad to show him how he can duplicate the income of this other salesman. We have no competition to our famous line of Cyclo Massage Health Equipment by Niagara and our product sells itself by correct demonstration. It requires work. If you have a car and are not afraid of meeting people you can get out of the rut of $400 and $500 income and get into the big time with a monthly income of $1,000 and over. You can be your own boss. You'll be selling a marvelous product, backed up by Arthur Godfrey, Don McNeill, Dave Garroway, Jack Parr on the national networks. And you'll be proud to sell a dignified product that helps people feel better and relieve their aches and pains. This is not a door knocking gimmick. We are just trying to find a hard working salesman. Write Box

SALESMAN WANTED
A CREATIVE SATISFYING SELLING CAREER

Our company is internationally known with a background of more than 50 years of manufacturing and customer servicing experience, presently serving thousands of established accounts throughout the entire nation. We are manufacturers of metal products for industry, the usage of which finds many applications in plants both large and small. The position we offer is one requiring creative selling ability — the reward's substantial — and the rendering of a real contribution to the welfare of our customers. Our products are well-designed and constantly improved by an efficient research staff both here and abroad, and are protected by sixty-two U.S. patents. Our factory and warehouses are located strategically throughout the entire country.

If you can prove a good sales record and would appreciate an opportunity to use your real abilities and increase your income, we suggest that you contact us in confidence. The position we offer provides for an extensive training course including field training; a restricted and protected area; limitless opportunity for advancement; sales aids of all kinds including liberal advertising in trade papers, exhibits, shows, etc. This is a dignified prestige position and will require the services of a dignified, intelligent salesman. Our products are consumable which means repeat sales. Travel is limited but a car is a requirement. The successful applicant will receive a salary during the training period, followed with an opportunity to receive high incentive commissions. The average annual earnings of our salesmen are the highest in our industry.

CONTACT MR. RICHARD TREUBEL, PARKVIEW 2-2400, MONDAY, APRIL 27 THROUGH THURSDAY, APRIL 30, 1959, FOR APPOINTMENT.

SALESMAN WANTED
We have a salesman working out of one of the Niagara Offices who drew a commission check for $1,924 in one month. This salesman works live leads only. We would be glad to offer him a guarantee of $500 monthly if he wanted it, but it would mean nothing, because he makes far more than that every month. This salesman works hard. Now what we are wondering is there another like him in Cumberland or vicinity. A salesman who likes to work is a scarce breed. If we could find one we would be glad to show him how he can duplicate the income of this other salesman. We have no competition to our famous line of Cyclo Massage Health Equipment by Niagara and our product sells itself by correct demonstration. It requires work. If you have a car and are not afraid of meeting people you can get out of the rut of $400 and $500 income and get into the big time with a monthly income of $1,000 and over. You can be your own boss. You'll be selling a marvelous product, backed up by Arthur Godfrey, Don McNeill, Dave Garroway, Jack Parr on the national networks. And you'll be proud to sell a dignified product that helps people feel better and relieve their aches and pains. This is not a door knocking gimmick. We are just trying to find a hard working salesman. Write Box

SALESMAN WANTED

A CREATIVE SATISFYING SELLING CAREER

Our company is internationally known with a background of more than 50 years of manufacturing and customer servicing experience, presently serving thousands of established accounts throughout the entire nation. We are manufacturers of metal products for industry, the usage of which finds many applications in plants both large and small. The position we offer is one requiring creative selling ability — the reward's substantial — and the rendering of a real contribution to the welfare of our customers. Our products are well-designed and constantly improved by an efficient research staff both here and abroad, and are protected by sixty-two U.S. patents. Our factory and warehouses are located strategically throughout the entire country.

If you can prove a good sales record and would appreciate an opportunity to use your real abilities and increase your income, we suggest that you contact us in confidence. The position we offer provides for an extensive training course including field training; a restricted and protected area; limitless opportunity for advancement; sales aids of all kinds including liberal advertising in trade papers, exhibits, shows, etc. This is a dignified prestige position and will require the services of a dignified, intelligent salesman. Our products are consumable which means repeat sales. Travel is limited but a car is a requirement. The successful applicant will receive a salary during the training period, followed with an opportunity to receive high incentive commissions. The average annual earnings of our salesmen are the highest in our industry.

CONTACT MR. RICHARD TREUBEL, PARKVIEW 2-2460, MONDAY, APRIL 27 THROUGH THURSDAY, APRIL 30, 1959, FOR APPOINTMENT.

International Air Center Advocated

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —A U.N. study group suggested Sunday that nations consider setting up international air centers, jointly operated and supported, to handle travel in the jet age.

The study was made by a panel of experts for the International Civil Aviation Organization, a U.N. specialized agency. The report said jet travel is so fast that air traffic services when necessary should cover the territory of more than one country.

Potomac Dam Opposed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va) today registered with the House Public Works Appropriation subcommittee his opposition to any high level dam on the Potomac River.

Smith said he noted the President has budgeted $500,000 for a Potomac River study and that "I am not certain just what that contemplates, but I want to oppose any high dam.

Polio Cases Increase

NEW YORK (AP) — Polio epidemic "storm warnings" are becoming serious across the nation, the National Foundation reported Sunday.

The foundation said the first quarter of this year showed an 83 per cent increase over last year in the number of paralytic polio cases.

Four Dwelling Permits Issued

Four building permits for new dwellings costing a total of $49,000 have been issued by the Allegany County assessing department.

Ivan A. Hall obtained a permit to construct a $29,000 house of birch on Warfield Place in Election District 29, LaVale. Floyd Wigfield, Baltimore Pike, was granted a permit to build a brick dwelling costing an estimated $8,000.

Louis Biddle, 213 Maryland Avenue, Westernport, was issued a permit for a $7,000 frame dwelling which he plans to construct in Election District 31 at McCoole. Herbert P. Staup, State Street, Lonaconing, was granted a building permit for a $5,000 brick veneer dwelling in District 15 at Lonaconing.

International Air Center Advocated

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —A U.N. study group suggested Sunday that nations consider setting up international air centers, jointly operated and supported, to handle travel in the jet age.

The study was made by a panel of experts for the International Civil Aviation Organization, a U.N. specialized agency. The report said jet travel is so fast that air traffic services when necessary should cover the territory of more than one country.

Potomac Dam Opposed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va) today registered with the House Public Works Appropriation subcommittee his opposition to any high level dam on the Potomac River.

Smith said he noted the President has budgeted $500,000 for a Potomac River study and that "I am not certain just what that contemplates, but I want to oppose any high dam.

Polio Cases Increase

NEW YORK (AP) — Polio epidemic "storm warnings" are becoming serious across the nation, the National Foundation reported Sunday.

The foundation said the first quarter of this year showed an 83 per cent increase over last year in the number of paralytic polio cases.

Four Dwelling Permits Issued

Four building permits for new dwellings costing a total of $49,000 have been issued by the Allegany County assessing department.

Ivan A. Hall obtained a permit to construct a $29,000 house of birch on Warfield Place in Election District 29, LaVale. Floyd Wigfield, Baltimore Pike, was granted a permit to build a brick dwelling costing an estimated $8,000.

Louis Biddle, 213 Maryland Avenue, Westernport, was issued a permit for a $7,000 frame dwelling which he plans to construct in Election District 31 at McCoole. Herbert P. Staup, State Street, Lonaconing, was granted a building permit for a $5,000 brick veneer dwelling in District 15 at Lonaconing.

Polio Surveys Planned For Students, Tots

Will Show County's Immunization Status

Two surveys will be held here this spring to learn how well Allegany County's future citizens are protected against polio.

One survey will be held for school children in grades two through 12 and the other for two-year-olds of the county.

Health Department officials hope the surveys will prove that Allegany County has the best polio immunization record of any political subdivision of Maryland.

The first survey will be held by the Allegany County Health Department in cooperation with the Board of Education.

The Health Department has mimeographed forms, which have been distributed to about 14,000 students in the 11 grades in public and parochial schools.

The forms are being filled out by parents and will be collected by teachers after May 1.

Hit 99 %

The answers will tell whether the child has had one, two or three shots, or none at all.

Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, said the school survey will supplement a detailed study made last fall among all first graders.

This study showed that at least 99 per cent of the children had been completely immunized.

Of this 99 per cent, 54 per cent had been immunized in Health Department clinics before they entered school, 29 per cent received their shots from their family doctors, and school immunizations brought the total to nearly 100 per cent.

Dr. van Strien said the State Health Department has repeatedly urged that all persons in the polio-prone years secure polio immunization, in the hope that at least 85 per cent of the group may be protected.

Allegany County's younger citizens, Dr. van Strien said, are from 85 to 99 per cent protected.

A second survey will be held here this year to see how well the tiny tots are protected against the crippling disease.

This survey, for which final plans are being made, will indicate the polio immunization status of two-year-old children of the county.

Tiny-Tot Survey

It will be made, Dr. van Strien said, by checking every 10th child born in the county last year.

Here is how it will work:

Public health nurses will make lists of every 10th birth certificate issued.

If the child has received medical services at a Health Department clinic, the nurses can learn if the child has received polio protection easily by checking clinic immunization records.

Where this record is not on file, the nurses will make personal calls at the home of the two-year-olds, asking mothers if the child has received one, two or three polio immunization shots —or none at all, and whether the shots were secured from the Health Department or the family doctor.

Has Top Record

Allegany County did not get its outstanding polio immunization record by chance.

From the time Salk polio serum became available the department stressed full protection for school children.

Later, when federal vaccine became available, the county embarked on a plan to protect all school children of the county.

The program had the full backing of the State Health Department, which kept vaccine enough to finish the program even after federal supplies were exhausted. Some county funds were used to complete the historic task.

Since the program began, the Health Department has given 24,924 first shots, 22,792 second shots and 17,726 third polio shots, chiefly in schools and in clinics.

Cancer Chapter To Launch 1959 Fund Drive Tonight

Volunteer workers still are needed tonight when the Allegany County Chapter of the American Cancer Society launches its 1959 fund drive.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, chairman of the house-to-house canvass, said more women can be used in the actual solicitation in some sections, and others will be needed to work in the cancer office once the drive begins.

Mrs. Roeder also said several cars may be needed for a short time tonight during the canvass.

Women interested in assisting with the solicitation or persons who wish to donate the use of their cars may contact Mrs. Jean Cioni, executive secretary of the county chapter, today at PA 2-2145.

More than 500 women workers will knock on doors throughout the county starting at 6:30 p. m. today.

Approximately $12,000 was raised in the county during the 1957 Cancer Crusade, and last year approximately $10,000 was raised in the county.

"Allegany County has not been assigned a quota," Mrs. Roeder said, "but all of our captains report they have well-organized groups and we're hoping to set a new record to support community and state cancer control programs as well as to strengthen the national American Cancer Society program of research, education and service.

"It would be wonderful, indeed, if Allegany County could start closing the gap between the amount raised here and that contributed in Washington County where the annual drive nets an average of $25,000."

1959 Building Permits Rise To $605,035

Building permits issued by the City of Cumberland totaled $37,550 during April to bring the four-month figure to $605,035.

Included were five homes costing a total of $34,000, five garages for $1,050, a $100 carport, three additions to residences costing $2,100 and a $300 improvement to a business establishment.

Nine permits were for new construction estimated to cost $35,150 and four for additions and improvements costing $2,400.

The $605,035 total through April is far below last April, when all work planned was estimated to cost $1,401,985.

The 1958 total reached $2,740,727, the biggest gain in the state, as a result of the construction of four churches valued at $619,580 and a $351,098 National Guard Armory.

It is too soon to write 1959 off as a slow building year, however, as the city's third low rent housing development may cost up to $1,190,000.

Forest Revenue Given Counties

The four westernmost counties of Maryland have received a total of $6,349 from the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks, which represents 15 per cent of the revenue acquired from timber sales and recreation area fees from July 1, 1958 to December 31, 1958.

William H. Johnson, district forester, said the breakdown by counties is:

Garrett, $5,449.04; Frederick, $488.74; Washington, $377.38; Allegany, $33.84.

Mr. Johnson said the receipts are largely from timber sales of state-owned forest land and also fees charged from recreation areas including cabin rentals, parking, boat rental and sales of firewood.

Aside from the revenue, Mr. Johnson pointed out other benefits from forest land. They include hunting and fishing privileges with no charge to the public.

The forests also have effect on the runoff of rainfall which is beneficial to conservation, he added.

Potomac Council Planning Annual Cub Scout Event

Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, is making plans for its second annual Webelos Day which will be held for Cub Scouts Saturday, May 9.

Ross O. Decker, council camping and activities chairman, said the event will begin at Camp Potomac near Oldtown at 2 p. m. and will conclude at 8 p. m.

The Webelos Day event will be open to all Cub Scouts 10½ years old whether they are of the Webelos rank or not. However, each Cub Scout must be accompanied by his dad or other interested man.

Reservations must be made with the council office by May 7 in order to make arrangements for food. A slight fee will be charged each person to cover food for the evening meal and other items needed to carry out the program.

The afternoon period will be used for archery, rifle, canoeing and boating events. Several competitive events also will be held during the afternoon.

Some activities will be on a Cub-Dad basis and following the evening cookout the Cub Scouts will be instructed on how a campfire program is conducted.

Cub Scouts who attend the event will be awarded a cloth patch to wear on their uniforms.

Farm Income Boost Seen

Farmers of Allegany and Garrett counties who borrow from the Farmers Home Administration have completed making their farm plans which should boost their 1959 farm income, Beeson Snyder, the agency's local county supervisor, said yesterday.

Better farming practices which some FHA borrowers will be putting into operation include proper application of fertilizer and lime according to soil test, production of better quality hay and the feeding of balanced rations to livestock, use of artificial breeding service, and making use of the Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

By the use of these and many other proven practices, the farm ownership borrowers in the two counties have increased their average gross income over the past five years from $4,158 to $7,492. During the same period, the value of their personal property has increased from $6,743 to $7,946. The dairymen have increased their herd average from 5,254 pounds of milk per cow to 7,786 pounds per cow.

During this same five-year period, 40 FHA borrowers have repair their loans in full and are now using local banks or cooperative lenders for their credit needs.

Fire Causes Slight Damage In Health Lab

Minor damage to the paint and walls in the laboratory of the Health Department on the third floor of the Public Safety Building was caused by a small fire which ignited in a gas jet yesterday afternoon.

Central Fire Company said the blaze apparently started when a connection on a rubber hose to the gas jet became loose or broke and flames from a nearby burner set the gas afire.

Firemen answered the alarm at 3:44 p. m. and returned at 4 o'clock.

It was reported that a caretaker received minor burns about the hands from the fire.

Chamber Officials Attend Conference

Three officials of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce are attending the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which opened Sunday in Washington.

They are Earl D. Chaney, president; Henry W. Price, national councilor, and Robert C. Petersen, manager.

Action Is Tabled

The Mayor and Council yesterday tabled for one week the application of Lt. Raymond R. Johnston to be retained on the Police Department for another year. He will be 64 on Wednesday.

Motorists Must Renew Licenses Before Deadline

Licensed drivers in Maryland are once more reminded that they must re-register before their present licenses expire, officials of the State Department of Motor Vehicles said.

Motorists whose last name begin with the initial H, I, J or K must re-register before June 30, James B. Monroe, commissioner of motor vehicles, stated.

These drivers cannot re-register after that date, but will be required to take a new examination and pay the full fee of $3.50 to obtain a new operator's license.

All drivers in this class should return their applications for new licenses to the Department of Motor Vehicles immediately. If they have not received application, they should notify the department at once to avoid any delay in the issuance of a new license.

Clothing Store Manager Named

John H. Machover, Buffalo, N. Y., has been named manager of the O.P.O. Clothing Store, 29 Baltimore Street, succeeding the late Cecil Northcraft.

Mr. Machover came to Cumberland last week to take over operation of the local men's clothing establishment. Formerly employed as credit manager of Bilsky's Credit Clothing in Buffalo, he joined the O.P.O firm just five weeks ago.

Mr. Machover has spent 18 years in the clothing business and prior to that was a warehouse supervisor and an insurance agent. He was sent to Richmond, Va., shortly after becoming a part of the O.P.O. staff, but was transferred to Cumberland when Mr. Northcraft died.

The new store manager is 50 years old, married and has a son who is an engineer with an aircraft company. He and his wife will reside at 116 Columbia Street here.

Woman Injured In Auto Accident

A 50-year-old Mann's Choice, Pa., woman was injured in a two-car collision at Mann's Choice last night, Pennsylvania State Police reported.

Mrs. Helen Hill was admitted to Bedford County Memorial Hospital for observation when she complained of chest pains after the accident.

Police said Mrs. Hill was a passenger in an automobile driven by Helen Crissey, 20, also of Mann's Choice. Their car was struck by another vehicle operated by Frank Hughes, 67, of Bedford, Pa.

Investigation disclosed Mr. Hughes attempted to pass the Crissey automobile as it was making a left turn into a private driveway, and struck the car in the left side. Damage to the cars amounted to about $500, police said.

Legion To Complete Plans For Circus

Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, will meet today at 8 p. m. at the post home, according to Paul C. Weisenmiller, commander.

Final plans will be made, he said, for the coming of the Hagen Brothers Circus here May 11. The circus will be sponsored by the Legion post, which will use its share of the proceeds for its rehabilitation program.

Legion Meets Tonight

An executive board meeting will be held at the home of Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion, this evening at 8 o'clock at the post home in Ridgeley. All officers are urged to attend.

Plumbers To Meet

Local 489, Plumbers and Steamfitters Union, will meet Friday at 8 p. m. in the Allegany Labor Temple.

Two Fort Hill Juniors Named For Awards

Marlene Clark and Ronald Growden, juniors at Fort Hill High School, have been nominated for the annual Achievements Awards program, sponsored by the National Council of Teachers of English, according to Victor D. Heisey, principal.

In its second year, the awards program is being conducted throughout the nation to grant recognition to outstanding high school seniors for excellence in English. The writing ability and literary awareness of each nominee will be judged by state committees.

Winners will be announced in January 1960 by the NCTE, and the names of the awards winners will be sent to every U.S. college and university with the recommendation that these students be considered for scholarship assistance.

Miss Kathleen Cumbee, an English teacher at Fort Hill and a member of NCTE, notes that the program was initiated last year in response to President Eisenhower's statement that America needs its Emersons as well as its Einsteins.

"There were more than 2,000 nominees for the first awards," she said, "and we expect about 5,000 for this second round."

Founded in 1911, the NCTE is a professional organization of some 51,000 teachers of English at all levels.

4-H Club Program Slated At Church

In conjunction with 4-H Club Rural Life Sunday, members of the 4-H Club of North Branch will take part in a program Sunday evening at 6:30 at Davis Memorial Methodist Church, Oldtown Road.

Joseph M. Steger, Allegany County farm agent, said he plans to show a number of slides of farm scenes around the country.

He also said May 3-10 has been proclaimed Soil Stewardship Week in Maryland. Citizens are asked to observe this week in churches of all faiths, and special heed should be given to their responsibilities to conserve the soil, Mr. Steger said.

Local University Student Honored

James F. Diggs, Route 3, Bedford Road, was one of 765 undergraduate and graduate students who were honored for high scholastic achievement at the second of two major academic convocations held by the University of Pittsburgh at Syria Mosque in Pittsburgh.

Archibald MacLeish, Boylston professor of poetry at Harvard University, was the principal speaker and conferred honorary degrees at the convocation earlier this month.

New Headmaster To Be Nominated

Two area men have been named to a committee to nominate a new headmaster at Mercersburg (Pa.) Academy, to replace Dr. Charles S. Tippetts who plans to retire in 1961.

They are L. Vinton Hershey, president of the Hagerstown Shoe Company, and Stanley E. Stroup of Bedford, attorney and member of the Pennsylvania General Assembly. Dr. Tippetts who is 66, will have completed 20 years of service of as headmaster in 1961.

Optimists Plan Ladies Night

Ladies night will be held Wednesday evening at Central YMCA by the Cumberland and Bedford Road Optimist clubs.

Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State College in Keyser, will be speaker at the program which will begin at 6:15 p. m. A girls' quartet of Allegany High School will sing a number of musical selections. Members of the two clubs and their wives are invited to attend.

Tawes To Sign Major Traffic Bills Today

Point System, Tests Included

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes plans to sign into law Tuesday bills he endorsed to create a point-system of penalties for Maryland drivers and to permit use of chemical tests in drunken driving cases.

The two traffic safety measures, which had failed in previous Legislatures but got a strong push from the new governor, are in a batch of 245 bills and 12 joint resolutions screened for his signature.

It will be the biggest stack of legislation he has acted on at one time since becoming governor, but will still leave hanging 139 bills from the 1959 session including controversial proposals to establish a fair trade liquor law and revamp the Racing Commission.

Hearing Thursday

The governor has scheduled a public hearing for 11 a. m. Thursday on the fair trade liquor law, which proposes setting up a list of minimum prices and letting the comptroller enforce them.

The racing commission bill, to expand the present three-member agency to five, has encountered hot opposition from racing interests. Opponents are trying to raise at least 10,000 signatures and petition it on the ballot for approval or rejection by the voters in 1960.

Revision of two other state agencies is to be accomplished through bills scheduled to be signed Tuesday. One of them abolishes the present Planning Commission and creates a new planning department. Another establishes a tax court and Department of Assessments within the present Tax Commission.

A bill aimed at cutting down a prison racket involving workmen's compensation claims is among others awaiting action at the 2 p. m. ceremony. It will restrict compensation for prisoners hurt in work accidents to those who sustain a permanent injury.

Other Bills

Other major bills scheduled to be signed would:

Regulate the issuance and redemption of trading stamps in Maryland.

Make it unlawful to eavesdrop on a conversation by use of an electronic device.

Create, subject to approval of voters in 1960, a new emergency line of succession to the governorship through the President of the Senate, Speaker of the House, Comptroller and Attorney General.

Create the position of lieutenant colonel in the State Police force—a job expected to go to Major William F. Weber, present executive officer who was a candidate for police superintendent.

And authorize the Tidewater Fisheries Commission to quarantine oyster areas and prohibit importation of shellfish if it becomes necessary to prevent the spread of an oyster disease to Chesapeake Bay.

The bills awaiting the governor's signature have been screened for his approval by the Attorney General and administrative aides. If he signs all those in the list, it will bring to 771 the number of legislative acts he has approved thus far. He has vetoed none.

Food Service Head To Visit

Dr. John Perryman, executive secretary of the American School Food Service Association, Denver, Colo., will be a guest of the Allegany County Food Service Association Saturday at Parkside School, LaVale.

Mrs. Gladys Eaton, supervisor of cafeterias for public schools, made plans for his visit at a recent dinner party held by the local association at Mt. Savage High School.

Tables in the school cafeteria were decorated to designate the yearly holidays. A birthday table also was set for members of the association.

Approximately 85 persons attended the dinner and were served in cafeteria style. After the dinner the group was led in songs by Mrs. Alberta Morton.

Mrs. Nettie Wills, president of the association, was in charge of a short business meeting.

Civic Orchestra Concert Tonight At Allegany

The Cumberland Civic Symphony Orchestra will present the third in its current series of concerts tonight at 8:15 in Allegany High School auditorium, with Ward K. Cole conducting.

Admission will be by season tickets, or by single performance tickets, which may be purchased at the door.

Tickets also may be bought at Vandegrift's Music Shop, 35 Baltimore Street; Cooley's Pharmacy, Henderson Avenue and Valley Street, and Albert's Supermarket, Crystal Park, LaVale.

Reduced-rate tickets for students are available.

Army Reports Openings In 123 Career Schools

June Graduates Should File Now

A new listing of Army technical schools open to men in this area has been received at the local Army Recruiting Station, M/Sgt. Virgil M. Smith, local recruiter, said yesterday.

There are 123 courses open for the first fiscal quarter beginning July 1, and classes for most of these will start early in July.

Included in the courses offered are such careers as five-week postal operations course, 38-week cryptographic repair course, electronics classes up to 33 weeks, and numerous others available to high school graduates who meet physical and mental requirements.

Applications are being processed by the school division of the Army at St. Louis, Mo., during April, May and June, and all courses are expected to be filled by about June 15, Sgt. Smith noted.

It is important to all young men and women who graduate this year to investigate the courses of study and training now offered by the Army, the recruiter said. It is possible, under this school program, he said, to fill one's military obligation and at the same time learn a trade which could lead to a civilian career.

Applications may be submitted through the Army Recruiting Station in the Post Office building here, where they are screened and given initial processing. Applicants approved are then furnished transportation to Fairmont, W. Va., to the Army recruiting center for this area. There, physical examinations are conducted and further mental tests are given.

If applicants are found to be qualified, their school applications will be forwarded to the Office of the adjutant general, Army Records Center, St. Louis, Mo. All assignments are made by the adjutant general's office, Sgt. Smith said, and no school applicant will be permitted to enlist in the Army until he has received a letter of acceptance at the school of his choice.

Local Boy Sustains Chemical Burns

A six-year-old local boy was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon with chemical burns sustained when he spilled a can of lye on his face and neck.

The youngster, Danny Parsons, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Parsons, 360 Bedford Street, was reported in "satisfactory" condition.

The hospital reported the boy was burned about the face and neck when he spilled the can of lye at his home.

Revival Is Continuing At Bowman Addition

A revival at Bethel Church of the Nazarene, Bowman's Addition, will continue through Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. A. A. Passmore and son, Archie, of Snydertown, Pa. are the special workers.

Rev. Joseph L. Hoopengardner, pastor, said the services include special singing and instrumental music.

'Nautilus 90 North' One Of New Books At Library

A number of new books have been placed on the shelves at the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Miss Elizabeth Cain, a member of the library staff, said Thomas B. Costain has written a third volume of his "Pageant of England."

"The Three Edwards," is a history of England from 1272 to 1377, which includes the Plantagenet reign, the last Crusades, the Hundred Years' War, the Scottish struggle and the Black Plague epidemic.

In "Nautilus 90 North," Commander William R. Anderson, with the aid of Clay Blair Jr., describes the 1,830-mile journey of the nuclear-powered submarine under the polar pack between the Atlantic and the Pacific Ocean in 96 hours.

Martha Albrand has included espionage, romance and intrigue in her latest novel, "A Day at Monte Carlo," set against the background of the Riviera.

"The Haunted Palace," by Frances Winwar, is an excellent biography of Edgar Allen Poe. Miss Cain pointed out that "The Scientists," by Eleazar Lipsky, is considered by many to be better than average.

To women interested in dressmaking and sewing, the library recommended the recently-added volume, "Sewing Made Easy," by Mary Lynch. Complete with many pictures and understandable text, this will be invaluable for beginner or expert, Miss Cain said.

Young readers will be pleased with "Pioneer Buckaroo," by Irene Estep. Other newly-added children's books include several of the very popular "Button" and "Dan Frontier" series.

Flood Control Work Used 10½ Miles Of Pipe

Cement Could Pave 143-Mile Highway

Concrete used in the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection project would form a single lane concrete road connecting Cumberland and Baltimore.

During the course of the construction, 116,828 yards of concrete were poured for the series of flood walls, levees and underground structures of the project.

This, according to John Kington, office engineer for the Corps of Engineers here, is enough concrete to build a 143-mile single lane highway nine feet wide and eight inches thick.

Walls And Paving

Most of the concrete was used to build flood walls and to pave Wills Creek, for Potomac River flood walls and the footers for levees and for the hidden flood protection works beneath the surface of the city.

This system of flood conduits is generally forgotten, now that cloudbursts are carried off safely by the storm water system.

In addition to the big concrete storm conduits, the Corps of Engineers used 10½ miles of pipe, ranging from six through 60 inches, to take care of surface water.

Some 976 miles, or 8,602,900 pounds, of steel reinforcing rods —enough to reach almost to Chicago and back, were used in concrete structures.

A Lot Of Cement

The project, which is to be dedicated in civic ceremonies here May 9, required a lot of cement.

Mr. Kington reports that if all of the cement were shipped at one time, it would make up a 430-car train.

If all of the excavation needed were to be used for dwellings, it would be enough to provide basements for 1,575 three-bedroom homes.

It took a lot of rock—517,000 yards—to rip-rap the most vulnerable faces of the levees.

A total of 552,800 cubic yards of fill were taken from borrow pits to build the earth structures during the 10 contracts.

Nurses Offered Workshop In Heart Disease

Plans are being developed for a one-week workshop in heart disease nursing June 8-12 in Baltimore.

F. Allan Weatherholt, president of the Allegany-Garrett Heart Association, yesterday called the workshop to the attention of local nurses. He pointed out that the course is designated to bring to the practicing nurse the newest information of aid in dealing with the needs of the heart patient. Registration, he said, will be limited to 50 nurses.

A committee of three, representing the sponsoring agencies, is completing arrangements for the course, to be held at University of Maryland School of Nursing and at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Members of the planning group are Miss Anna Holmes, R.N., of the Heart Association of Maryland; Miss Lillian Cole, R.N., representing the Maryland League for Nursing, and Miss Mary E. Farr, R.N., of the Maryland State Nurses Association.

A subcommittee studying the workshop's curriculum consists of Miss Margaret Courtney, R.N., Johns Hopkins Hospital, and Miss Helen Fiske, R.N., of the State Department of Health.

Application forms are available at the office of the Allegany-Garrett Heart Association, 111 Union Street. Mrs. Ora Mae Lewis, association executive, has complete details for those interested, the local president said.

Secretaries Test Scheduled May 2

Algonquin Chapter, National Secretaries Association, has received some 40 applications for the annual examination for the secretarial scholarship it sponsors.

The tests will be given Saturday, May 2, at 9:30 a. m. at Fort Hill High School, according to Miss Garnet Fazenbaker, scholarship chairman.

Polio Surveys Planned For Students, Tots

Will Show County's Immunization Status

Two surveys will be held here this spring to learn how well Allegany County's future citizens are protected against polio.

One survey will be held for school children in grades two through 12 and the other for two-year-olds of the county.

Health Department officials hope the surveys will prove that Allegany County has the best polio immunization record of any political subdivision of Maryland.

The first survey will be held by the Allegany County Health Department in cooperation with the Board of Education.

The Health Department has mimeographed forms, which have been distributed to about 14,000 students in the 11 grades in public and parochial schools.

The forms are being filled out by parents and will be collected by teachers after May 1.

Hit 99 %

The answers will tell whether the child has had one, two or three shots, or none at all.

Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, said the school survey will supplement a detailed study made last fall among all first graders.

This study showed that at least 99 per cent of the children had been completely immunized.

Of this 99 per cent, 54 per cent had been immunized in Health Department clinics before they entered school, 29 per cent received their shots from their family doctors, and school immunizations brought the total to nearly 100 per cent.

Dr. van Strien said the State Health Department has repeatedly urged that all persons in the polio-prone years secure polio immunization, in the hope that at least 85 per cent of the group may be protected.

Allegany County's younger citizens, Dr. van Strien said, are from 85 to 99 per cent protected.

A second survey will be held here this year to see how well the tiny tots are protected against the crippling disease.

This survey, for which final plans are being made, will indicate the polio immunization status of two-year-old children of the county.

Tiny-Tot Survey

It will be made, Dr. van Strien said, by checking every 10th child born in the county last year.

Here is how it will work:

Public health nurses will make lists of every 10th birth certificate issued.

If the child has received medical services at a Health Department clinic, the nurses can learn if the child has received polio protection easily by checking clinic immunization records.

Where this record is not on file, the nurses will make personal calls at the home of the two-year-olds, asking mothers if the child has received one, two or three polio immunization shots —or none at all, and whether the shots were secured from the Health Department or the family doctor.

Has Top Record

Allegany County did not get its outstanding polio immunization record by chance.

From the time Salk polio serum became available the department stressed full protection for school children.

Later, when federal vaccine became available, the county embarked on a plan to protect all school children of the county.

The program had the full backing of the State Health Department, which kept vaccine enough to finish the program even after federal supplies were exhausted. Some county funds were used to complete the historic task.

Since the program began, the Health Department has given 24,924 first shots, 22,792 second shots and 17,726 third polio shots, chiefly in schools and in clinics.

Win Event In Bridge Tourney

These are the winners of the men's pairs competition in the ninth annual sectional tournament of the Western Maryland Bridge Association, held here over the weekend. Left to right are J. D. Paddleford, Dr. Paul B. Castelle, Richard Winer and John R. Wilkinson, holding the prizes they shared. Two other local teams tied to share the Times-News trophy.

Cancer Chapter To Launch 1959 Fund Drive Tonight

Volunteer workers still are needed tonight when the Allegany County Chapter of the American Cancer Society launches its 1959 fund drive.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, chairman of the house-to-house canvass, said more women can be used in the actual solicitation in some sections, and others will be needed to work in the cancer office once the drive begins.

Mrs. Roeder also said several cars may be needed for a short time tonight during the canvass.

Women interested in assisting with the solicitation or persons who wish to donate the use of their cars may contact Mrs. Jean Cioni, executive secretary of the county chapter, today at PA 2-2145.

More than 500 women workers will knock on doors throughout the county starting at 6:30 p. m. today.

Approximately $12,000 was raised in the county during the 1957 Cancer Crusade, and last year approximately $10,000 was raised in the county.

"Allegany County has not been assigned a quota," Mrs. Roeder said, "but all of our captains report they have well-organized groups and we're hoping to set a new record to support community and state cancer control programs as well as to strengthen the national American Cancer Society program of research, education and service.

"It would be wonderful, indeed, if Allegany County could start closing the gap between the amount raised here and that contributed in Washington County where the annual drive nets an average of $25,000."

1959 Building Permits Rise To $605,035

Building permits issued by the City of Cumberland totaled $37,550 during April to bring the four-month figure to $605,035.

Included were five homes costing a total of $34,000, five garages for $1,050, a $100 carport, three additions to residences costing $2,100 and a $300 improvement to a business establishment.

Nine permits were for new construction estimated to cost $35,150 and four for additions and improvements costing $2,400.

The $605,035 total through April is far below last April, when all work planned was estimated to cost $1,401,985.

The 1958 total reached $2,740,727, the biggest gain in the state, as a result of the construction of four churches valued at $619,580 and a $351,098 National Guard Armory.

It is too soon to write 1959 off as a slow building year, however, as the city's third low rent housing development may cost up to $1,190,000.

Forest Revenue Given Counties

The four westernmost counties of Maryland have received a total of $6,349 from the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks, which represents 15 per cent of the revenue acquired from timber sales and recreation area fees from July 1, 1958 to December 31, 1958.

William H. Johnson, district forester, said the breakdown by counties is:

Garrett, $5,449.04; Frederick, $488.74; Washington, $377.38; Allegany, $33.84.

Mr. Johnson said the receipts are largely from timber sales of state-owned forest land and also fees charged from recreation areas including cabin rentals, parking, boat rental and sales of firewood.

Aside from the revenue, Mr. Johnson pointed out other benefits from forest land. They include hunting and fishing privileges with no charge to the public.

The forests also have effect on the runoff of rainfall which is beneficial to conservation, he added.

Potomac Council Planning Annual Cub Scout Event

Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, is making plans for its second annual Webelos Day which will be held for Cub Scouts Saturday, May 9.

Ross O. Decker, council camping and activities chairman, said the event will begin at Camp Potomac near Oldtown at 2 p. m. and will conclude at 8 p. m.

The Webelos Day event will be open to all Cub Scouts 10½ years old whether they are of the Webelos rank or not. However, each Cub Scout must be accompanied by his dad or other interested man.

Reservations must be made with the council office by May 7 in order to make arrangements for food. A slight fee will be charged each person to cover food for the evening meal and other items needed to carry out the program.

The afternoon period will be used for archery, rifle, canoeing and boating events. Several competitive events also will be held during the afternoon.

Some activities will be on a Cub-Dad basis and following the evening cookout the Cub Scouts will be instructed on how a campfire program is conducted.

Cub Scouts who attend the event will be awarded a cloth patch to wear on their uniforms.

Farm Income Boost Seen

Farmers of Allegany and Garrett counties who borrow from the Farmers Home Administration have completed making their farm plans which should boost their 1959 farm income, Beeson Snyder, the agency's local county supervisor, said yesterday.

Better farming practices which some FHA borrowers will be putting into operation include proper application of fertilizer and lime according to soil test, production of better quality hay and the feeding of balanced rations to livestock, use of artificial breeding service, and making use of the Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

By the use of these and many other proven practices, the farm ownership borrowers in the two counties have increased their average gross income over the past five years from $4,158 to $7,492. During the same period, the value of their personal property has increased from $6,743 to $7,946. The dairymen have increased their herd average from 5,254 pounds of milk per cow to 7,786 pounds per cow.

During this same five-year period, 40 FHA borrowers have repair their loans in full and are now using local banks or cooperative lenders for their credit needs.

Motorists Must Renew Licenses Before Deadline

Licensed drivers in Maryland are once more reminded that they must re-register before their present licenses expire, officials of the State Department of Motor Vehicles said.

Motorists whose last name begin with the initial H, I, J or K must re-register before June 30, James B. Monroe, commissioner of motor vehicles, stated.

These drivers cannot re-register after that date, but will be required to take a new examination and pay the full fee of $3.50 to obtain a new operator's license.

All drivers in this class should return their applications for new licenses to the Department of Motor Vehicles immediately. If they have not received application, they should notify the department at once to avoid any delay in the issuance of a new license.

Clothing Store Manager Named

John H. Machover, Buffalo, N. Y., has been named manager of the O.P.O. Clothing Store, 29 Baltimore Street, succeeding the late Cecil Northcraft.

Mr. Machover came to Cumberland last week to take over operation of the local men's clothing establishment. Formerly employed as credit manager of Bilsky's Credit Clothing in Buffalo, he joined the O.P.O firm just five weeks ago.

Mr. Machover has spent 18 years in the clothing business and prior to that was a warehouse supervisor and an insurance agent. He was sent to Richmond, Va., shortly after becoming a part of the O.P.O. staff, but was transferred to Cumberland when Mr. Northcraft died.

The new store manager is 50 years old, married and has a son who is an engineer with an aircraft company. He and his wife will reside at 116 Columbia Street here.

Fire Causes Slight Damage In Health Lab

Minor damage to the paint and walls in the laboratory of the Health Department on the third floor of the Public Safety Building was caused by a small fire which ignited in a gas jet yesterday afternoon.

Central Fire Company said the blaze apparently started when a connection on a rubber hose to the gas jet became loose or broke and flames from a nearby burner set the gas afire.

Firemen answered the alarm at 3:44 p. m. and returned at 4 o'clock.

It was reported that a caretaker received minor burns about the hands from the fire.

Chamber Officials Attend Conference

They are Earl D. Chaney, president; Henry W. Price, national councilor, and Robert C. Petersen, manager.

Action Is Tabled

The Mayor and Council yesterday tabled for one week the application of Lt. Raymond R. Johnston to be retained on the Police Department for another year. He will be 64 on Wednesday.

Woman Injured In Auto Accident

A 50-year-old Mann's Choice, Pa., woman was injured in a two-car collision at Mann's Choice last night, Pennsylvania State Police reported.

Mrs. Helen Hill was admitted to Bedford County Memorial Hospital for observation when she complained of chest pains after the accident.

Police said Mrs. Hill was a passenger in an automobile driven by Helen Crissey, 20, also of Mann's Choice. Their car was struck by another vehicle operated by Frank Hughes, 67, of Bedford, Pa.

Investigation disclosed Mr. Hughes attempted to pass the Crissey automobile as it was making a left turn into a private driveway, and struck the car in the left side. Damage to the cars amounted to about $500, police said.

Legion To Complete Plans For Circus

Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, will meet today at 8 p. m. at the post home, according to Paul C. Weisenmiller, commander.

Final plans will be made, he said, for the coming of the Hagen Brothers Circus here May 11. The circus will be sponsored by the Legion post, which will use its share of the proceeds for its rehabilitation program.

Legion Meets Tonight

An executive board meeting will be held at the home of Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion, this evening at 8 o'clock at the post home in Ridgeley. All officers are urged to attend.

Plumbers To Meet

Local 489, Plumbers and Steamfitters Union, will meet Friday at 8 p. m. in the Allegany Labor Temple.

Two Fort Hill Juniors Named For Awards

Marlene Clark and Ronald Growden, juniors at Fort Hill High School, have been nominated for the annual Achievements Awards program, sponsored by the National Council of Teachers of English, according to Victor D. Heisey, principal.

In its second year, the awards program is being conducted throughout the nation to grant recognition to outstanding high school seniors for excellence in English. The writing ability and literary awareness of each nominee will be judged by state committees.

Winners will be announced in January 1960 by the NCTE, and the names of the awards winners will be sent to every U.S. college and university with the recommendation that these students be considered for scholarship assistance.

Miss Kathleen Cumbee, an English teacher at Fort Hill and a member of NCTE, notes that the program was initiated last year in response to President Eisenhower's statement that America needs its Emersons as well as its Einsteins.

"There were more than 2,000 nominees for the first awards," she said, "and we expect about 5,000 for this second round."

Founded in 1911, the NCTE is a professional organization of some 51,000 teachers of English at all levels.

4-H Club Program Slated At Church

In conjunction with 4-H Club Rural Life Sunday, members of the 4-H Club of North Branch will take part in a program Sunday evening at 6:30 at Davis Memorial Methodist Church, Oldtown Road.

Joseph M. Steger, Allegany County farm agent, said he plans to show a number of slides of farm scenes around the country.

He also said May 3-10 has been proclaimed Soil Stewardship Week in Maryland. Citizens are asked to observe this week in churches of all faiths, and special heed should be given to their responsibilities to conserve the soil, Mr. Steger said.

Local University Student Honored

James F. Diggs, Route 3, Bedford Road, was one of 765 undergraduate and graduate students who were honored for high scholastic achievement at the second of two major academic convocations held by the University of Pittsburgh at Syria Mosque in Pittsburgh.

Archibald MacLeish, Boylston professor of poetry at Harvard University, was the principal speaker and conferred honorary degrees at the convocation earlier this month.

New Headmaster To Be Nominated

Two area men have been named to a committee to nominate a new headmaster at Mercersburg (Pa.) Academy, to replace Dr. Charles S. Tippetts who plans to retire in 1961.

They are L. Vinton Hershey, president of the Hagerstown Shoe Company, and Stanley E. Stroup of Bedford, attorney and member of the Pennsylvania General Assembly. Dr. Tippetts who is 66, will have completed 20 years of service as headmaster in 1961.

Optimists Plan Ladies Night

Ladies night will be held Wednesday evening at Central YMCA by the Cumberland and Bedford Road Optimist clubs.

Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State College in Keyser, will be speaker at the program which will begin at 6:15 p. m. A girls' quartet of Allegany High School will sing a number of musical selections. Members of the two clubs and their wives are invited to attend.

Tawes To Sign Major Traffic Bills Today

Point System, Tests Included

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes plans to sign into law Tuesday bills he endorsed to create a point-system of penalties for Maryland drivers and to permit use of chemical tests in drunken driving cases.

The two traffic safety measures, which had failed in previous Legislatures but got a strong push from the new governor, are in a batch of 245 bills and 12 joint resolutions screened for his signature.

It will be the biggest stack of legislation he has acted on at one time since becoming governor, but will still leave hanging 139 bills from the 1959 session including controversial proposals to establish a fair trade liquor law and revamp the Racing Commission.

Hearing Thursday

The governor has scheduled a public hearing for 11 a. m. Thursday on the fair trade liquor law, which proposes setting up a list of minimum prices and letting the comptroller enforce them.

The racing commission bill, to expand the present three-member agency to five, has encountered hot opposition from racing interests. Opponents are trying to raise at least 10,000 signatures and petition it on the ballot for approval or rejection by the voters in 1960.

Revision of two other state agencies is to be accomplished through bills scheduled to be signed Tuesday. One of them abolishes the present Planning Commission and creates a new planning department. Another establishes a tax court and Department of Assessments within the present Tax Commission.

A bill aimed at cutting down a prison racket involving workmen's compensation claims is among others awaiting action at the 2 p. m. ceremony. It will restrict compensation for prisoners hurt in work accidents to those who sustain a permanent injury.

Other Bills

Other major bills scheduled to be signed would:

Regulate the issuance and redemption of trading stamps in Maryland.

Make it unlawful to eavesdrop on a conversation by use of an electronic device.

Create, subject to approval of voters in 1960, a new emergency line of succession to the governorship through the President of the Senate, Speaker of the House, Comptroller and Attorney General.

Create the position of lieutenant colonel in the State Police force—a job expected to go to Major William F. Weber, present executive officer who was a candidate for police superintendent.

And authorize the Tidewater Fisheries Commission to quarantine oyster areas and prohibit importation of shellfish if it becomes necessary to prevent the spread of an oyster disease to Chesapeake Bay.

The bills awaiting the governor's signature have been screened for his approval by the Attorney General and administrative aides. If he signs all those in the list, it will bring to 771 the number of legislative acts he has approved thus far. He has vetoed none.

Food Service Head To Visit

Dr. John Perryman, executive secretary of the American School Food Service Association, Denver, Colo., will be a guest of the Allegany County Food Service Association Saturday at Parkside School, LaVale.

Mrs. Gladys Eaton, supervisor of cafeterias for public schools, made plans for his visit at a recent dinner party held by the local association at Mt. Savage High School.

Tables in the school cafeteria were decorated to designate the yearly holidays. A birthday table also was set for members of the association.

Approximately 85 persons attended the dinner and were served in cafeteria style. After the dinner the group was led in songs by Mrs. Alberta Morton.

Mrs. Nettie Wills, president of the association, was in charge of a short business meeting.

Tickets also may be bought at Vandegrift's Music Shop, 35 Baltimore Street; Cooley's Pharmacy, Henderson Avenue and Valley Street, and Albert's Supermarket, Crystal Park, LaVale.

Reduced-rate tickets for students are available.

Army Reports Openings In 123 Career Schools

June Graduates Should File Now

A new listing of Army technical schools open to men in this area has been received at the local Army Recruiting Station, M/Sgt. Virgil M. Smith, local recruiter, said yesterday.

There are 123 courses open for the first fiscal quarter beginning July 1, and classes for most of these will start early in July.

Included in the courses offered are such careers as five-week postal operations course, 38-week cryptographic repair course, electronics classes up to 33 weeks, and numerous others available to high school graduates who meet physical and mental requirements.

Applications are being processed by the school division of the Army at St. Louis, Mo., during April, May and June, and all courses are expected to be filled by about June 15, Sgt. Smith noted.

It is important to all young men and women who graduate this year to investigate the courses of study and training now offered by the Army, the recruiter said. It is possible, under this school program, he said, to fill one's military obligation and at the same time learn a trade which could lead to a civilian career.

Applications may be submitted through the Army Recruiting Station in the Post Office building here, where they are screened and given initial processing. Applicants approved are then furnished transportation to Fairmont, W. Va., to the Army recruiting center for this area. There, physical examinations are conducted and further mental tests are given.

If applicants are found to be qualified, their school applications will be forwarded to the Office of the adjutant general, Army Records Center, St. Louis, Mo. All assignments are made by the adjutant general's office, Sgt. Smith said, and no school applicant will be permitted to enlist in the Army until he has received a letter of acceptance at the school of his choice.

Local Boy Sustains Chemical Burns

A six-year-old local boy was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon with chemical burns sustained when he spilled a can of lye on his face and neck.

The youngster, Danny Parsons, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Parsons, 360 Bedford Street, was reported in "satisfactory" condition.

The hospital reported the boy was burned about the face and neck when he spilled the can of lye at his home.

Revival Is Continuing At Bowman Addition

A revival at Bethel Church of the Nazarene, Bowman's Addition, will continue through Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. A. A. Passmore and son, Archie, of Snydertown, Pa. are the special workers.

Rev. Joseph L. Hoopengardner, pastor, said the services include special singing and instrumental music.

'Nautilus 90 North' One Of New Books At Library

A number of new books have been placed on the shelves at the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Miss Elizabeth Cain, a member of the library staff, said Thomas B. Costain has written a third volume of his "Pageant of England."

"The Three Edwards," is a history of England from 1272 to 1377, which includes the Plantagenet reign, the last Crusades, the Hundred Years' War, the Scottish struggle and the Black Plague epidemic.

In "Nautilus 90 North," Commander William R. Anderson, with the aid of Clay Blair Jr., describes the 1,830-mile journey of the nuclear-powered submarine under the polar pack between the Atlantic and the Pacific Ocean in 96 hours.

Martha Albrand has included espionage, romance and intrigue in her latest novel, "A Day at Monte Carlo," set against the background of the Riviera.

"The Haunted Palace," by Frances Winwar, is an excellent biography of Edgar Allen Poe. Miss Cain pointed out that "The Scientists," by Eleazar Lipsky, is considered by many to be better than average.

To women interested in dressmaking and sewing, the library recommended the recently-added volume, "Sewing Made Easy," by Mary Lynch. Complete with many pictures and understandable text, this will be invaluable for beginner or expert, Miss Cain said.

Young readers will be pleased with "Pioneer Buckaroo," by Irene Estep. Other newly-added children's books include several of the very popular "Button" and "Dan Frontier" series.

Flood Control Work Used 10½ Miles Of Pipe

Cement Could Pave 143-Mile Highway

Concrete used in the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection project would form a single lane concrete road connecting Cumberland and Baltimore.

During the course of the construction, 116,828 yards of concrete were poured for the series of flood walls, levees and underground structures of the project.

This, according to John Kington, office engineer for the Corps of Engineers here, is enough concrete to build a 143-mile single lane highway nine feet wide and eight inches thick.

Walls And Paving

Most of the concrete was used to build flood walls and to pave Wills Creek, for Potomac River flood walls and the footers for levees and for the hidden flood protection works beneath the surface of the city.

This system of flood conduits is generally forgotten, now that cloudbursts are carried off safely by the storm water system.

In addition to the big concrete storm conduits, the Corps of Engineers used 10½ miles of pipe, ranging from six through 60 inches, to take care of surface water.

Some 976 miles, or 8,602,900 pounds, of steel reinforcing rods —enough to reach almost to Chicago and back, were used in concrete structures.

A Lot Of Cement

The project, which is to be dedicated in civic ceremonies here May 9, required a lot of cement.

Mr. Kington reports that if all of the cement were shipped at one time, it would make up a 430-car train.

If all of the excavation needed were to be used for dwellings, it would be enough to provide basements for 1,575 three-bedroom homes.

It took a lot of rock—517,000 yards—to rip-rap the most vulnerable faces of the levees.

A total of 552,800 cubic yards of fill were taken from borrow pits to build the earth structures during the 10 contracts.

Nurses Offered Workshop In Heart Disease

Plans are being developed for a one-week workshop in heart disease nursing June 8-12 in Baltimore.

F. Allan Weatherholt, president of the Allegany-Garrett Heart Association, yesterday called the workshop to the attention of local nurses. He pointed out that the course is designated to bring to the practicing nurse the newest information of aid in dealing with the needs of the heart patient. Registration, he said, will be limited to 50 nurses.

A committee of three, representing the sponsoring agencies, is completing arrangements for the course, to be held at University of Maryland School of Nursing and at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Members of the planning group are Miss Anna Holmes, R.N., of the Heart Association of Maryland; Miss Lillian Cole, R.N., representing the Maryland League for Nursing, and Miss Mary E. Farr, R.N., of the Maryland State Nurses Association.

A subcommittee studying the workshop's curriculum consists of Miss Margaret Courtney, R.N., Johns Hopkins Hospital, and Miss Helen Fiske, R.N., of the State Department of Health.

Application forms are available at the office of the Allegany-Garrett Heart Association, 111 Union Street. Mrs. Ora Mae Lewis, association executive, has complete details for those interested, the local president said.

Secretaries Test Scheduled May 2

Algonquin Chapter, National Secretaries Association, has received some 40 applications for the annual examination for the secretarial scholarship it sponsors.

The tests will be given Saturday, May 2, at 9:30 a. m. at Fort Hill High School, according to Miss Garnet Fazenbaker, scholarship chairman.
